Death For Collazo Decreed By Jury

Puerto Rican Revolutionary Found Guilty

Accepts Verdict Calmly; Appeal Due

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP)—A federal jury decreed death today for Oscar Collazo who stormed President Truman's home Nov. 1 in the name of Puerto Rican independence.

Actual fixing of sentence in a federal court is in the hands of the judge but the jury found the little 37-year-old revolutionary guilty on two counts of first degree murder. The law makes death in the electric chair mandatory on each such count.

Both the charges were based on the death of Private Leslie Coffelt of the White House guard, shot to death in the furious gunplay outside Blair House on Pennsylvania Avenue. The government itself conceded that the actual death bullet was fired by Collazo's accomplice, Griselio Torresola, also slain in the gunfight, but the jury agreed with the prosecution contention that participation in the crime made Collazo equally guilty.

Collazo's Plea Rejected

The jury rejected Collazo's plea that he and Torresola did not intend to kill anybody. Collazo's story was that they only wanted to make a demonstration in favor of Puerto Rican independence.

The jury also convicted Collazo on two other counts of assault with intent to kill in connection with the wounding of Officers Joseph H Downs and Donald T. Birdzell of the White House guard.

It took the jury of nine women and three men only an hour and 42 minutes to reach its verdict. It took the case at 3:40 p. m., EST, and sent word at 5:22 that it was ready to report.

Collazo was smiling in apparent confidence when he was brought in to hear his fate.

Wife Blows Him Kiss

Collazo was still apparently unshaken as he was led back to jail. He smilingly whispered something to his wife, Rosa, as he went past her. She blew him a kiss but he was unable to respond because of his handcuffs.

Mrs. Collazo told reporters later she had no statement to make.

Leo A. Rover, head of Collazo's court-appointed counsel, said he will appeal.

He has five days for the customary motion for a new trial. Formal sentencing is not expected until that motion has been disposed of. Then the appeals will go to the circuit court here and, presumably, to the Supreme Court if the first appeal fails.

DEATH DECREED—The death verdict was returned yesterday at Washington against Oscar Collazo (above), 37, one of two Puerto Ricans who failed in the attempted assassination of President Truman last November. A White House guard and Collazo's accomplice were slain in the gun battle. (AP Wirephoto)

Johnston Works For Compromise On Labor Issue

20% Steel Cut Will Take Effect April 1

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP) — Eric Johnston, the economic stabilizer, today strove for a compromise between labor and management on the hot issue of whether to give the Wage Stabilization Board any power to settle labor disputes in defense plants.

But his superior, Charles E. Wilson, the defense mobilizer, told reporters the prospects "don't appear to look any brighter" for peace in the bitter squabble between labor leaders and the government — a squabble of which the wage board issue is only a part.

Wilson was reported opposed to labor's demand that the wage board be given dispute-settling power. His aides said he is considering a radio and television speech to the nation Monday night.

Steel Cut Ordered . . . . .

Meantime the government banged out new orders on:

1. Steel. An expected steel cut of 20 per cent was ordered, effective April 1, and about 150 products to which the cut will apply were listed for the first time. They include autos, baby beds, burial vaults, dishwashers, lawnmowers, radios, television sets, and so on.

2. Autos. Dealers were permitted to raise the retail prices of new cars. Last week the manufacturers were given a 3½ per cent increase, and now the dealers may pass on the exact dollars-and-cents amount to their customers.

Shortening Prices Rolled Back

3. Vegetable shortening and salad oils. The manufacturers' ceiling prices were rolled back from one to two cents a pound. The Office of Price Stabilization said this isn't likely to change retail prices, but it "eliminates the possibility" of retail increases.

Johnston met for hours today with industry leaders, and Wilson had lunch with Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) of the Senate Labor Committee, but all their talking didn't budge the stalemate over labor's cooperation in the mobilization program.

Senate Units Okay Sending GIs To Europe

Approve Proposal To Do 'Fair Share'

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP) — Two Senate committees today approved sending "our fair share" of American troops to Europe.

The Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees, sitting jointly, adopted the major provisions of an administration resolution still awaiting their final approval. This may come tomorrow.

The committees also approved the selection of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as supreme commander of the Allied army in Europe.

House Would Have No Say

As the resolution stands, the House would not be in on the decision. The resolution would give Senate sanction to dispatch of armed forces for joint defense of the North Atlantic area.

President Truman already has announced plans to send four more divisions to serve with two U. S. divisions already in Europe. They will be assigned to the international army being formed under command of Eisenhower. Mr. Truman claims the power to deploy troops as he deems necessary without direct congressional approval.

Today's decision was made by the Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees on a resolution by the two chairmen, Connally (D-Tex) and Russell (D-Ga). These groups have been considering the hard-fought issue of sending an American land army to join other treaty nations in guarding the West against any Russian invasion.

Lodge Substitute Loses

The administration's troops-for-Europe clause barely squeaked through. Sen. Lodge (R-Mass) offered a substitute which lost on a 12-12 vote, and the committee then accepted this original language:

"It is the belief of the Senate that the threat to the security of the United States and our North Atlantic Treaty partners makes it necessary for the United States to station abroad such units of our armed forces as may be necessary and appropriate to contribute our fair share of the forces needed for the joint defense of the North Atlantic area."

Soviet Budget Asks Boost In Arms Fund

MOSCOW, March 7 (AP)—Finance Minister Arseny G. Zverev presented to the Supreme Soviet (parliament) tonight a budget calling for an arms expenditure of 96,376,000,000 rubles in 1951—16,976,000,000 rubles more than last year.

Prime Minister Stalin himself was present with other important Politburo members to witness the introduction of the budget, totaling 457,900,000,000 rubles, which reflected the quickening Soviet preparedness measures.

Russia values her rubles at 25 cents. At this rate the defense budget would compare with $24,094,000,000, or $4,244,000,000 more than last year. The 1950 defense budget was 79,400,000,000 rubles, including 15,000,000,000 rubles for the Navy.

(An exact comparison with United States defense expenditures is difficult without a breakdown of the Russian budget showing appropriations under other items which might be of military value. President Truman has asked Congress for a "national survival" budget of $71,594,000,000, of which $41,421,000,000 is listed for direct military purposes and $7,461,000,000 for "international security," mostly in the form of aid to other nations.)

4,000,000 Limit On Military Manpower Backed By Senate

One-A-Day Triplets One Year Old

Their eyes sparkling brightly, the Hardie triplets of Jonesville, La., dig into ice cream and cake at their first birthday party yesterday. Because their birthdays fall on three consecutive days, a single day was decided on for the celebration. Left to right are Judie; Jodie, the first born and male member of the trio who was honored by having his birthday selected for the celebration, and Julie. (Story at bottom of page)

Agreement May Bring Vote Today On 18-Year Draft

Ceiling Provision Approved 49 To 41

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP)—The Senate today voted a manpower ceiling of 4,000,000 for the nation's armed forces into the bill to draft 18-year-olds now and start universal military training in the future.

Then it agreed on a complicated schedule of debate limitation which might bring final action on the measure late tomorrow.

The voting agreement knocked out earlier plans to hold the senators in late session tonight in an effort to pass the bill.

The strength-limiting amendment, in effect a compromise between senators who wanted no curbs in the present world situation and others who wanted a lower lid, gives the military half a million men leeway over the figures they have talked about in public. But it applies a curb they still insist might be a danger in emergency.

It was written in a on a 49-41 roll-call vote after brief, sharp debate which ranged around solemnly-worded protests filed by the high command against a proposal to set the limit still lower. The Pentagon arguments were presented in letters read by Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex) to his colleagues. Secretary of Defense Marshall set the key--note with a statement that a fixed limit under present world conditions would be "a direct gamble with the national security."

The Senate refused late today to write into the measure a so-called "civil rights" amendment by Sen. Lehman (D-NY). The proposal was tabled, 57 to 30, after a long argument.

The amendment, originally urged by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, would have sought to extend the federal laws protecting certain federal officials, including the Coast Guard, to all persons in uniform with the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marines.

Sponsors of the proposal said there had been reports of assault and interference with negro servicemen in certain areas, without adequate aid from local officers.

The day's big business was the manpower ceiling.

That vote generally followed party lines. Forty Democrats teamed with nine Republicans for it. In opposition were 35 Republicans and six Democrats.

Power-Packed Assault Gains Up To 3 Miles

ROKs Driven Back On Eastern Front

TOKYO, Thursday, March 8 (AP)—Tanks and troops of the U. S. 25th Division fanned out today from a triple bridgehead across the Han River in a flanking drive east of Red-held Seoul.

More than 5,000 Chinese were killed, wounded or captured yesterday as the infantrymen surged across the Han in assault boats and established three bridgeheads 15 miles east of the ancient Korean capital. No other Allied troops in the current drive have crossed so near to Seoul.

The power-packed push, which gained up to three miles, was part of a general Allied attack pressed along a 70-mile front in West Central Korea. Gains elsewhere were as much as five miles.

AP Correspondent Jim Becker, across the Han with the 25th, said the stunned Chinese surrendered in groups. Yesterday's bag of 204 prisoners was the biggest one-day haul by a single division since the war's outset.

Counterattack Repulsed

Other Chinese fled in panic. Last night, the Reds managed only one counterattack. It was repulsed.

This morning, the infantrymen began expanding their hold on the sandy flatlands east of Seoul.

More than 1,000 Chinese were killed by American foot soldiers on the first day of the big operation. Intense Allied artillery fire accounted for most of the remaining 4,000 Chinese killed and wounded.

Gen. MacArthur was at the front yesterday when the Allied 70-mile-long attack began westward from the river crossings to Pangnim.

At the east end of the front an estimated 13,500 North Koreans struck hard at Republic of Korea troops and drove them back at least three miles.

These furious attacks and counterattacks may be a prelude to the expected Chinese spring offensive, with the Allies trying to keep the Reds off balance while the North Koreans probe for a soft spot in South Korean lines.

Allies Push Toward Hongchon

Other Allied units all down the line to Pangnim kicked off with general attacks. Thundering artillery barrages plowed enemy positions along the front.

A field dispatch said the major gain of the day was a five-mile advance on the west central front west of pivotal Hoengsong.

Infantrymen of the Ninth Corps pushed their way up rocky crags and cut the road between Yongdu and the major enemy base at Hongchon.

U. S. tanks swung northeast and drove along that main Chinese supply route leading to Hongchon.

The dispatch did not say how close the Ninth Corps elements were to Hongchon. But U. S. Marines farther east last were reported about nine miles south of that enemy massing point.

"Somebody Took Me In, I Guess," RFC's Boss Says

Admits His Friends Tried To "Use" Him

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP) — Walter L. Dunham, a director of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, acknowledged today that some members of a White House social circle in which he moved tried to "use" him in angling for huge government loans.

"Somebody took me in, I guess," he told the Senate Banking subcommittee, which is investigating alleged favoritism and political influence in RFC lending.

"I think I am entirely lacking in political sagacity."

Group Included Truman Aide

Dunham, a 68-year-old Detroit banker who has been a Republican all his life, said the social group he referred to included Donald Dawson, one of President Truman's aides; William E. Willett, another RFC director; E. Merl Young, well-to-do husband of a White House stenographer, and Rex Jacobs, a Detroit industrialist who Dunham described as having "some degree of White House entree."

But Dunham stated "I am positive no one has succeeded in exerting any improper 'influence' upon my decision on any RFC matter."

"With reference to Donald Dawson," he added, "I must state that I can recall no instance where he sought to influence my judgment on an RFC loan."

Star Witness

Dunham unburdened himself behind closed doors today, but the committee made public a prepared statement he submitted and later released a transcript of the testimony. In a session lasting more than three hours, he was the star witness.

"The boys took you in?" Sen. Capehart (R-Ind), a subcommittee "Somebody took me in, I guess," member asked.

Dunham replied. "They were kind to me and —"

"They took you in," Capehart repeated.

"That is your conclusion. I am not prepared to dispute it.'

Later, however, Dunham said he meant he was taken in by "a fellow who owned a house." There was no elaboration on this.

U. S. Navy Plane With 14 Persons Aboard Missing

ROME, March 7 (AP) —A U. S. Navy Privateer PB-4Y2 plane with 14 persons aboard disappeared in a storm this afternoon and was still missing tonight, Italian ships and planes gave up their search until tomorrow.

The plane left the Campo Formido military airfield near Udine, in the Trieste neighborhood, late this morning. It was due in Rome a little more than an hour later.

Ten minutes before its scheduled arrival, the plane radioed Ciampino airfield here that it had trouble with one of its four engines 10 miles from Rome. That was the last word.

Young Fanatic Assassinates Iran's Premier

TEHRAN, Iran, March 7 (AP) — Premier Gen. Ali Razmara, a tough anti-Communist whose reform program was backed by the United States, was shot to death today by a religous fanatic at a funeral in a Tehran mosque.

The assassination was the climax of weeks of political agitation in which nationalistic Iranians showed growing resentment against the Premier because he opposed nationalization of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company. The best sources, however, believed Communists were not involved.

The gunman, Abdulla Rastegar, a 26-year-old carpenter, and three suspected accomplices were arrested on the spot. One policeman was wounded as they closed in.

Informed sources identified Rastegar as a member of Fadayam Islam (Crusaders of Islam), a fanatical Moslem sect. His crime could easily upset the tranquility of this strategic, oil-rich country.

Young Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi immediately named as acting premier 70-year-old Khalil Fahimi, a former governor-general of Azerbaijan Province, Iran's trouble spot bordering Russia.

Russia Demands Trieste Situation Be Considered

Charges Territory U. S.-British Base

PARIS, March 7 (AP)—The Russians demanded an airing of the troublesome Trieste situation today as a condition for putting the Austrian independence treaty before the Big Four foreign ministers. They didn't seem to get far, but touched an old sore spot between Italy and Yugoslavia.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko put forward this plan—originally advanced by Russia as far back as last May — at a wrangling meeting of the Big Four deputies assigned to draw up an agenda for the foreign ministers. He charged that the Free Territory of Trieste is a British-American military base.

Philip Jessup, the chief United States delegates, said he would agree to consider putting Trieste on the agenda, but would refuse to make it a condition to consideration of the Austrian treaty.

The Italian peace treaty of 1947 provided that Trieste was to be demilitarized and neutral under a governor to be appointed by the United Nations Security Council after consulatation with the governments of Yugoslavia and Italy. The Security Council has never been able to get together on a nominee for the governorship acceptable to all the Big Four. Occupation by American, British and Yugoslav troops continues. Both Italy and Yugoslavia maintain claims to the strategic zone at the head of the Adriatic Sea.

Train Scatters $16,000 In Bills Over Landscape

LAWRENCEVILLE, Ill., March 7 (AP) — A mail bag tossed from a speeding train bounced under the wheels yesterday, and $16,000 was scattered over the landscape.

About 400 persons ran to the railroad yards and helped collect the cash, which was in ones, fives, tens and twenties. One man turned in about $1,400. A small boy took a stack of bills home and told his mother they fell from the sky. She turned in the money to the post office.

The money was sent from the Federal Reserve Bank at St. Louis to the Peoples National Bank of Lawrenceville.

A postal employe said about $1,000 still was missing.

Trial Defendants Called 'Traitors'

NEW YORK, March 7 (AP)—The prosecution charged today in the trial of three persons accused of passing atomic secrets to Russia that they were "traitorous Americans whose primary loyalty was to Communism.

"The sought to deliver to the Soviet Union information and weapons the Soviets could use to destroy us," said U. S. Attorney Irving H. Saypol in his opening remarks shortly after a jury was completed. Eleven men and one woman were chosen.

The defendants, Julius Rosenberg, 34, an electrical engineer; his wife, Ethel, 34, and Morton Sobell, 33, electronics and radar expert, all of New York, face a possible death penalty in the first U. S. Atomic spy trial.

Defense Attorney Emanuel H. Bloch, interrupted Saypol's remarks to protest that the charge was not that the defendants were members of the Communist Party.

When Saypol concluded, the defense demanded a mistrial on the ground the prosecutor's statement was "inflammatory" in introducing the Communist issue.

Federal Judge Irving R. Kaufman denied the motion.

USAF Asks Doolittle Aid

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP) — The Air Force has asked Lt. Gen. James M. (Jimmy) Doolittle to help it set up its new air research and development command.

Doolittle, who is now with Shell Oil Co. in New York, led the B-25 raid on Tokyo in 1942.

Army To Call Up 12,650 Officers

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP)—The Army today announced it would order to active duty 12,650 additional lieutenants and captains —including women—by June 29.

This will bring the total number of company grade officers on active duty to about 40,000.

Some 150 Women's Army Corps officers are among reservists to be called. The number will also include 300 Medical Service Corps officers, 150 chaplains and 50 Army field artillery aviators.

The order will affect 3,444 captains and 9,206 second and first lieutenants. They will report for duty between May 23 and June 29.

The Army said National Guard officers will be given active duty orders only if they volunteer and that no inactive reservists will be ordered to duty under this program unless it is at their own request.

Back To Fort Meade

FREDERICKSBURG, Va., March 7 — The Third Armored Cavalry Regiment, which has been training at A. P. Hill Military Reservation near here for about a year, has been ordered back to Fort Meade, Md.

Wilson Is Defended By UMW Publication

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP)—John L. Lewis' District 50 News today came to the defense of Mobilization Director Charles E. Wilson in his scrap with other labor leaders over control of manpower policy.

The News said it was "inclined to give Wilson the benefit of the doubt" in differences over who should decide manpower controls.

The bi-monthly mine workers union publication chided members of the United Labor Policy Committee, which Lewis has not joined. The committee represents all major labor unions except the mine workers and the railway operating unions.

Test Case

Crime Probers Would Cite John Carroll For Contempt

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP) — The Senate Crime Committee voted today to cite James J. Carroll, nationally-known betting commissioner, for contempt of Congress to test whether a witness can be forced to testify before televsion cameras.

Carroll refused to answer the committee's questions at a hearing in St. Louis last month on the ground that the television cameras recording his testimony invaded his constitutional right of privacy.

He said he was willing to testify, but told the committee at a stormy session that the televising of his appearance outraged his "sense of propriety."

Chairman Kefauver (D-Tenn) told reporters after a closed meeting of the Crime Investigating Committee that the members had voted to "make a test case" of Carroll's action and had recommended to the Senate that he be cited for contempt of Congress.

All the members of the committee voted for the resolution, he said, except Sen. O'Conor (D-Md.)

DuPont Sets Record

WILMINGTON, Del., March 7 (AP) —E. I. duPont de Nemours and Company surpassed all previous production records in 1950 and set a record for sales with a total of $1,297,000,000 the company announced today.

Mechanic Is Charged With Plane Sabotage

INDIANAPOLIS, March 7 (AP) — Sabotage charges were filed here today against a Camp Atterbury airplane mechanic accused of disabling two planes.

Harvey G. Foster, special FBI agent, said Sgt. Henry V. Green, 23, Niagara, Wis., "just wanted to keep the planes from flying." He said the mechanic denied he wanted to see any airmen injured or killed.

Houseboat Party

Happy One-A-Day Triplets Celebrate First Birthday

JONESVILLE, La., March 7 (AP)—Lester Hardie's one-a-day triplets celebrated their first birthday today with a lusty party in the best nautical tradition.

While the family houseboat bobbed on the Ouachita River, Papa Hardie, skipper of his 10-child crew, broke out a double portion of ice cream and cake for all hands.

Mama Hardie's morning washing fluttered from the houseboat's mast like the gayly-colored signal flags on a big ocean liner.

Actually today was Jodie Hardie's birthday. He, the male member of the trio, was born on March 7 a year ago. Julie followed the next day, March 8, and Judie ended the unusual birth when she arrived the third day, March 9.

Today the triplets thoroughly enjoyed the event by drooling ice cream and white cake frosting on their crisply-ironed yellow dresses.

The seven other Hardie children were excused from school to attend the river festivity and Papa Hardie left his fishing lines unattended all day to stay with the family.

Carroll refused to answer the committee's questions at a hearing in St. Louis last month on the ground that the television cameras recording his testimony invaded his constitutional right of privacy.

He said he was willing to testify, but told the committee at a stormy session that the televising of his appearance outraged his "sense of propriety."

Chairman Kefauver (D-Tenn) told reporters after a closed meeting of the Crime Investigating Committee that the members had voted to "make a test case" of Carroll's action and had recommended to the Senate that he be cited for contempt of Congress.

All the members of the committee voted for the resolution, he said, except Sen. O'Conor (D-Md.)

4,000,000 Limit On Military Manpower Backed By Senate

One-A-Day Triplets One Year Old

Their eyes sparkling brightly, the Hardie triplets of Jonesville, La., dig into ice cream and cake at their first birthday party yesterday. Because their birthdays fall on three consecutive days, a single day was decided on for the celebration. Left to right are Judie; Jodie, the first born and male member of the trio who was honored by having his birthday selected for the celebration, and Julie. (Story at bottom of page)

"Somebody Took Me In, I Guess," RFC's Boss Says

Admits His Friends Tried To "Use" Him

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP) — Walter L. Dunham, a director of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, acknowledged today that some members of a White House social circle in which he moved tried to "use" him in angling for huge government loans.

"Somebody took me in, I guess," he told the Senate Banking subcommittee, which is investigating alleged favoritism and political influence in RFC lending.

"I think I am entirely lacking in political sagacity."

Group Included Truman Aide

Dunham, a 68-year-old Detroit banker who has been a Republican all his life, said the social group he referred to included Donald Dawson, one of President Truman's aides; William E. Willett, another RFC director; E. Merl Young, well-to-do husband of a White House stenographer, and Rex Jacobs, a Detroit industrialist who Dunham described as having "some degree of White House entree."

But Dunham stated "I am positive no one has succeeded in exerting any improper 'influence' upon my decision on any RFC matter."

"With reference to Donald Dawson," he added, "I must state that I can recall no instance where he sought to influence my judgment on an RFC loan."

Star Witness

Dunham unburdened himself behind closed doors today, but the committee made public a prepared statement he submitted and later released a transcript of the testimony. In a session lasting more than three hours, he was the star witness.

"The boys took you in?" Sen. Capehart (R-Ind), a subcommittee "Somebody took me in, I guess," member asked.

Dunham replied. "They were kind to me and —"

"They took you in," Capehart repeated.

"That is your conclusion. I am not prepared to dispute it.'

Later, however, Dunham said he meant he was taken in by "a fellow who owned a house." There was no elaboration on this.

DuPont Sets Record

WILMINGTON, Del., March 7 (AP) —E. I. duPont de Nemours and Company surpassed all previous production records in 1950 and set a record for sales with a total of $1,297,000,000 the company announced today.

U. S. Navy Plane With 14 Persons Aboard Missing

ROME, March 7 (AP) —A U. S. Navy Privateer PB-4Y2 plane with 14 persons aboard disappeared in a storm this afternoon and was still missing tonight. Italian ships and planes gave up their search until tomorrow.

The plane left the Campo Formido military airfield near Udine, in the Trieste neighborhood, late this morning. It was due in Rome a little more than an hour later.

Ten minutes before its scheduled arrival, the plane radioed Ciampino airfield here that it had trouble with one of its four engines 10 miles from Rome. That was the last word.

Young Fanatic Assassinates Iran's Premier

TEHRAN, Iran, March 7 (AP) — Premier Gen. Ali Razmara, a tough anti-Communist whose reform program was backed by the United States, was shot to death today by a religous fanatic at a funeral in a Tehran mosque.

The assassination was the climax of weeks of political agitation in which nationalistic Iranians showed growing resentment against the Premier because he opposed nationalization of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company. The best sources, however, believed Communists were not involved.

The gunman, Abdulla Rastegar, a 26-year-old carpenter, and three suspected accomplices were arrested on the spot. One policeman was wounded as they closed in.

Informed sources identified Rastegar as a member of Fadayam Islam (Crusaders of Islam), a fanatical Moslem sect. His crime could easily upset the tranquility of this strategic, oil-rich country.

Young Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi immediately named as acting premier 70-year-old Khalil Fahimi, a former governor-general of Azerbaijan Province, Iran's trouble spot bordering Russia.

Mechanic Is Charged With Plane Sabotage

INDIANAPOLIS, March 7 (AP) — Sabotage charges were filed here today against a Camp Atterbury airplane mechanic accused of disabling two planes.

Harvey G. Foster, special FBI agent, said Sgt. Henry V. Green, 23, Niagara, Wis., "just wanted to keep the planes from flying." He said the mecnanic denied he wanted to see any airmen injured or killed.

Russia Demands Trieste Situation Be Considered

Charges Territory U. S.-British Base

PARIS, March 7 (AP)—The Russians demanded an airing of the troublesome Trieste situation today as a condition for putting the Austrian independence treaty before the Big Four foreign ministers. They didn't seem to get far, but touched an old sore spot between Italy and Yugoslavia.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko put forward this plan—originally advanced by Russia as far back as last May — at a wrangling meeting of the Big Four deputies assigned to draw up an agenda for the foreign ministers. He charged that the Free Territory of Trieste is a British-American military base.

Philip Jessup, the chief United States delegates, said he would agree to consider putting Trieste on the agenda, but would refuse to make it a condition to consideration of the Austrian treaty.

The Italian peace treaty of 1947 provided that Trieste was to be demilitarized and neutral under a governor to be appointed by the United Nations Security Council after consulatation with the governments of Yugoslavia and Italy. The Security Council has never been able to get together on a nominee for the governorship acceptable to all the Big Four. Occupation by American, British and Yugoslav troops continues. Both Italy and Yugoslavia maintain claims to the strategic zone at the head of the Adriatic Sea.

Agreement May Bring Vote Today On 18-Year Draft

Ceiling Provision Approved 49 To 41

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP)—The Senate today voted a manpower ceiling of 4,000,000 for the nation's armed forces into the bill to draft 18-year-olds now and start universal military training in the future.

Then it agreed on a complicated schedule of debate limitation which might bring final action on the measure late tomorrow.

The voting agreement knocked out earlier plans to hold the senators in late session tonight in an effort to pass the bill.

The strength-limiting amendment, in effect a compromise between senators who wanted no curbs in the present world situation and others who wanted a lower lid, gives the military half a million men leeway over the figures they have talked about in public. But it applies a curb they still insist might be a danger in emergency.

It was written in a on a 49-41 roll-call vote after brief, sharp debate which ranged around solemnly-worded protests filed by the high command against a proposal to set the limit still lower. The Pentagon arguments were presented in letters read by Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex) to his colleagues. Secretary of Defense Marshall set the key--note with a statement that a fixed limit under present world conditions would be "a direct gamble with the national security."

The Senate refused late today to write into the measure a so-called "civil rights" amendment by Sen. Lehman (D-NY). The proposal was tabled, 57 to 30, after a long argument.

The amendment, originally urged by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, would have sought to extend the federal laws protecting certain federal officials, including the Coast Guard, to all persons in uniform with the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marines.

Sponsors of the proposal said there had been reports of assault and interference with negro servicemen in certain areas, without adequate aid from local officers.

The day's big business was the manpower ceiling.

That vote generally followed party lines. Forty Democrats teamed with nine Republicans for it. In opposition were 35 Republicans and six Democrats.

Train Scatters $16,000 In Bills Over Landscape

LAWRENCEVILLE, Ill., March 7 (AP) — A mail bag tossed from a speeding train bounced under the wheels yesterday, and $16,000 was scattered over the landscape.

About 400 persons ran to the railroad yards and helped collect the cash, which was in ones, fives, tens and twenties. One man turned in about $1,400. A small boy took a stack of bills home and told his mother they fell from the sky. She turned in the money to the post office.

The money was sent from the Federal Reserve Bank at St. Louis to the Peoples National Bank of Lawrenceville.

A postal employe said about $1,000 still was missing.

Houseboat Party

Happy One-A-Day Triplets Celebrate First Birthday

JONESVILLE, La., March 7 (AP)—Lester Hardie's one-a-day triplets celebrated their first birthday today with a lusty party in the best nautical tradition.

While the family houseboat bobbed on the Ouachita River, Papa Hardie, skipper of his 10-child crew, broke out a double portion of ice cream and cake for all hands.

Mama Hardie's morning washing fluttered from the houseboat's mast like the gayly-colored signal flags on a big ocean liner.

Actually today was Jodie Hardie's birthday. He, the male member of the trio, was born on March 7 a year ago. Julie followed the next day, March 8, and Judie ended the unusual birth when she arrived the third day, March 9.

Today the triplets thoroughly enjoyed the event by drooling ice cream and white cake frosting on their crisply-ironed yellow dresses.

Power-Packed Assault Gains Up To 3 Miles

ROKs Driven Back On Eastern Front

TOKYO, Thursday, March 8 (AP) —Tanks and troops of the U. S. 25th Division fanned out today from a triple bridgehead across the Han River in a flanking drive east of Red-held Seoul.

More than 5,000 Chinese were killed, wounded or captured yesterday as the infantrymen surged across the Han in assault boats and established three bridgeheads 15 miles east of the ancient Korean capital. No other Allied troops in the current drive have crossed so near to Seoul.

The power-packed push, which gained up to three miles, was part of a general Allied attack pressed along a 70-mile front in West Central Korea. Gains elsewhere were as much as five miles.

AP Correspondent Jim Becker, across the Han with the 25th, said the stunned Chinese surrendered in groups. Yesterday's bag of 204 prisoners was the biggest one-day haul by a single division since the war's outset.

Counterattack Repulsed

Other Chinese fled in panic. Last night, the Reds managed only one counterattack. It was repulsed.

This morning, the infantrymen began expanding their hold on the sandy flatlands east of Seoul.

More than 1,000 Chinese were killed by American foot soldiers on the first day of the big operation. Intense Allied artillery fire accounted for most of the remaining 4,000 Chinese killed and wounded.

Gen. MacArthur was at the front yesterday when the Allied 70-mile-long attack began westward from the river crossings to Pangnim.

At the east end of the front an estimated 13,500 North Koreans struck hard at Republic of Korea troops and drove them back at least three miles.

These furious attacks and counterattacks may be a prelude to the expected Chinese spring offensive, with the Allies trying to keep the Reds off balance while the North Koreans probe for a soft spot in South Korean lines.

Allies Push Toward Hongchon

Other Allied units all down the line to Pangnim kicked off with general attacks. Thundering artillery barrages plowed enemy positions along the front.

A field dispatch said the major gain of the day was a five-mile advance on the west central front west of pivotal Hoengsong.

Infantrymen of the Ninth Corps pushed their way up rocky crags and cut the road between Yongdu and the major enemy base at Hongchon.

U. S. tanks swung northeast and drove along that main Chinese supply route leading to Hongchon.

The dispatch did not say how close the Ninth Corps elements were to Hongchon. But U. S. Marines farther east last were reported about nine miles south of that enemy massing point.

Trial Defendants Called 'Traitors'

NEW YORK, March 7 (AP)—The prosecution charged today in the trial of three persons accused of passing atomic secrets to Russia that they were "traitorous Americans whose primary loyalty was to Communism.

"The sought to deliver to the Soviet Union information and weapons the Soviets could use to destroy us," said U. S. Attorney Irving H. Saypol in his opening remarks shortly after a jury was completed. Eleven men and one woman were chosen.

The defendants, Julius Rosenberg, 34, an electrical engineer; his wife, Ethel, 34, and Morton Sobell, 33, electronics and radar expert, all of New York, face a possible death penalty in the first U. S. Atomic spy trial.

Defense Attorney Emanuel H. Bloch, interrupted Saypol's remarks to protest that the charge was not that the defendants were members of the Communist Party.

When Saypol concluded, the defense demanded a mistrial on the ground the prosecutor's statement was "inflammatory" in introducing the Communist issue.

Federal Judge Irving R. Kaufman denied the motion.

USAF Asks Doolittle Aid

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP) — The Air Force has asked Lt. Gen. James M. (Jimmy) Doolittle to help it set up its new air research and development command.

Doolittle, who is now with Shell Oil Co. in New York, led the B-25 raid on Tokyo in 1942.

Court Rejects "Lonely Hearts" Slayers' Appeal

ALBANY, N. Y., March 7 (INS)—The New York State Court of Appeals tonight turned down the last-ditch appeal of the lonely hearts murderers from a death sentence to be carried out at Sing Sing Prison tomorrow night.

Attorneys for Martha Beck and Raymond Fernandez said they would appeal immediately to the U. S. District Court in New York City and the U. S. Supreme Court.

The state court's action was on a petition for a writ of habeas corpus which had been denied earlier today by Supreme Court Justice J. Gordon Flannery at White Plains, N. Y.

Fernandez, a 36-year-old Hawaiian-born Spaniard, and his 31-year-old paramour have been in the Sing Sing death house since August, 1949. They were convicted in New York, Aug. 18, 1949, of murdering Mrs. Janet Fay, an Albany widow.

They also confessed killing Mrs. Delphine Downing, another widow, of Byron Center, Mich., and her infant daughter. They met their victims through "lonely hearts" correspondence clubs, and Fernandez wooed them to get their money, while fat Mrs. Beck posed as his sister.

Floridians Get Break, See Eclipse Best

MIAMI, Fla., March 7 (AP) — A partial eclipse of the sun, the first of 1951, was visible over most of the Eastern United States today but the view was best in Florida.

Partly cloudy weather gave Floridians a break but the eclipse also could be seen as far north as New England and west to Ohio and Missouri, except where cloud conditions interfered.

Cecil Gentry, Miami Weather Bureau forecaster, said the eclipse appeared as a total eclipse just north of the equator but in Florida about 20 per cent or less of the sun was obscured when the moon passed between it and the earth.

Four Charges Returned Against Joseph Holmes

BALTIMORE, March 7 (AP)—The grand jury today returned four charges against Joseph Holmes, the negro convict who tunneled his way out of the Maryland penitentiary.

If the 39-year-old prisoner is convicted on all of them he faces additional sentences which could total 42 years. On top of that, he still has 10 years of a burglary sentence to serve.

Holmes tunneled 70 feet to freedom Feb. 18, taking 20 months to bore a man-size hole from his cell to a point beyond the prison wall.

He was free 13 days when he returned to Baltimore and was nabbed after a $5 street holdup.

Butler's Manager Declares Tabloid Was "Not My Baby"

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP) — The campaign manager for Sen. Butler (R-Md) testified today a campaign tabloid about which former Sen. Tydings, Democrat, complained was "not my baby."

Jon M. Jonkel told a Senate Elections Subcommittee that as a result he knew little about its circulation during last year's Maryland senatorial campaign.

Tydings has described the tabloid, "From The Record," as a "tissue of lies."

He referred to the paper in testifying at the opening of the hearing into his complaints that "lies' and "scurrilous literature" were circulated by workers for Butler.

Butler countered with the charge that Tydings was making an unfounded attack on him.

In response to questions by Sen. Hennings (D-Mo), Jonkel said he did not know to what extent the tabloid was distributed.

"The project was not my baby and not one for me to worry about," he said. He added that the tabloid was sponsored by "The Young Democrats For Butler."

The witness said he knew the tabloid went to Baltimore.

"I knew at least one went out, for Tydings got one within three hours," he said.

Jonkel said he could not recall if he had approved a bill, dated Nov. 9, for distribution of the tabloid.

"I may have," he said. "I really don't know. The best answer I can give is I may have.'

He added that he had authorized payment of almost all campaign bills.

The bill showed charges for distribution of 10,000 copies in Hagerstown, 5,000 in Annapolis, 150,000 in Baltimore, and 4,000 in Dundalk.

Mayor, Police Hunt For Nail Strewers

WEST PATERSON, N. J., March 7 (AP) — Mayor Benjamin Cavalieri and police with aching backs were hunting today for someone who apparently think it's funny to strew one-inch roofing nails on a heavily-traveled street.

The nails, distributed over a half-mile stretch on New Street Monday night, showed up again last night to plague motorists. Automatic sweepers from neighboring Paterson were available Monday but yesterday the mayor and the police picked up about 1,000 nails by hand.

Lattimore Addresses 2,000 Baltimore Boys

BALTIMORE, March 7 (AP)—Owen Lattimore laid his foreign policy ideas before 2,000 high school boys today with barely a reference to the City Council's attempt to keep him off the platform.

The City College student body broke into a thunder of applause as he rose to speak. Holding up his hands to stop it, he said:

"You may have heard that there is some question about the wisdom of exposing you schoolboys to a discussion of political ideas."

He then launched into the theme that the United States needs a single foreign policy that will work well both in Europe and Asia at the same time.

At the behest of a local American Legion committee, the City Council Monday night voted 13-6 in favor of a resolution that Lattimore should be banned.

He had been invited by the school's United Nations Youth Council, with the consent of school authorities, and the school board voted yesterday to ignore the City Council resolution.

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP) — The House District of Columbia Committee today voted down a daylight savings bill for Washington.

Army Won't Take Md. Prisoners Anymore

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 7 (AP) — The Army won't take Maryland prisoners anymore.

F. Murray Benson, outgoing director of parole and probation, told a Senate committee today the armed forces simply will not renew a system that "worked very well" during World War II.

"One of the men even became a major," Benson said.

During the war, a working relationship was set up between the services and the State Department of Parole and Probation. It still would help the situation when his agency has difficulty in arranging employment for parolees, Benson said.

W. Va. House Passes Medical School Bill

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 7 (AP) — The House passed the medical school "site bill" by a 10-vote margin late today and sent it to the Senate.

The Senate, in a burst of activity, passed the motor vehicle bill providing for an overall revision of the state's 25-year-old highway code, but the measure contains amendments which may make it necessary for a conference committee of the two houses to work out.

About 92 per cent of all chicks hatched in the United States come from commercial hatcheries.

Pays To Be Nice To Animals, Even 8-Ton Stone One

LONDON, March 8 (AP) — A laborer proved today that it pays to be nice to animals — even an eight-ton stone one.

He scratched the back of the famed old "Lion of Hungerford"—now being refurbished for exhibition at the Festival of Britain—and discovered a secret compartment. The niche, long sealed by dozens of coats of red paint, yielded a bottle containing some coins dating back to William the Fourth (1830-1836) and a note which hasn't been deciphered yet.

W. Va. House Passes Medical School Bill

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 7 (AP) — The House passed the medical school "site bill" by a 10-vote margin late today and sent it to the Senate.

The Senate, in a burst of activity, passed the motor vehicle bill providing for an overall revision of the state's 25-year-old highway code, but the measure contains amendments which may make it necessary for a conference committee of the two houses to work out.

Pays To Be Nice To Animals, Even 8-Ton Stone One

LONDON, March 8 (AP) — A laborer proved today that it pays to be nice to animals — even an eight-ton stone one.

He scratched the back of the famed old "Lion of Hungerford"—now being refurbished for exhibition at the Festival of Britain—and discovered a secret compartment. The niche, long sealed by dozens of coats of red paint, yielded a bottle containing some coins dating back to William the Fourth (1830-1836) and a note which hasn't been deciphered yet.

Top Researchist Believes Effective Polio Vaccine May Soon Be Found

A top researchist working under a grant from the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis says in the following exclusive article that he believes "we are at last on the track of an effective polio vaccine."

The scientist, Dr. L. J. Gebhardt, head of the bacteriology department of the University of Utah, reports also that three separate types of polio virus have been isolated after painstaking research and that possibly a fourth or even fifth type may be found soon, perhaps this year.

By DR. L. J. GEBHARDT

SALT LAKE CITY (INS)—We believe we are at last on the track of an effective polio vaccine.

We are very hopeful one will be developed within the next few years—but we have no crystal ball. We just plug along.

Until a few years ago, the viruses which caused polio were all thought to be the same. It was suggested as early as 1931 that they might be different, but no serious work was done. The National Polio Foundation, in 1948, formed the Committee on Standards headed by Dr. H. M. Weaver, to determine if research on the problem were advisable.

We decided that trying to develop a vaccine without this information would be like trying to bake a cake without a recipe. The whole question was thrown wide open and it was decided that it was important enough to go into it thoroughly.

Four laboratories undertook the study beginning Jan. 1, 1949. They were at the Universities of Utah, Pittsburgh, Southern California and Kansas. Utah alone received $250,000 in grants from the National Foundation in 1949 and 1950.

We knew polio was caused by a virus—which is a sub-microscopic particle almost molecular in size—and unlike bacteria it can grow only in living tissue. Many of the common childhood diseases are caused by viruses—such as mumps, measles, chicken pox and smallpox.

The polio virus is among the smallest known and like the others is not visible by any ordinary means. It can be seen only by using the electron microscope.

Each of the universities set up a similar program. Samples of polio viruses were collected from literally all over the world. The samples were taken from persons having the disease, sewage, flies, and other sources.

The virus samples were shipped in test tubes packed in dry ice. Monkeys were used in research because they are the only animal which the polio virus affects.

Other research was being conducted and still is in an effort to find a vaccine. This has reached the stage where it is possible to immunize monkeys, although the process is dangerous because they sometimes get the disease.

By immunizing groups of the laboratory monkeys and then by injecting them with the various samples, we found that two types of virus caused exactly the same symptoms and the same disease. In other words, the monkey immunized against one type still could get polio from the second type of virus.

The process was continued and three separate types now have been found. Any one of the three can cause polio even though the monkey is immune to one or both of the other types.

By the end of this year it is hoped that all the samples will be classified by this means and it is possible a fourth or even a fifth type may be discovered. By then it may be possible to develop the vaccine with the proper substances.

The program has been going so well that Utah and Pittsburgh Universities have switched to a different project this year—chemotherapy and chemoprophylaxis. This means finding a chemical agent which will affect the polio virus.

Most people are familiar with the "wonder drugs" which are so potent against diseases caused by bacteria but we have had little success in finding similar agents effective against any type of virus—polio or otherwise.

Possibly the $64 question is why monkeys get polio and other animals do not. When we learn the answer to this question, we might have our problem solved.

The Paris Parley

The deputies of the Council of Foreign Ministers meeting at the Palais Rose in Paris have thus far agreed only to discuss discussions. Whether to hold a full-dress meeting of Big Four foreign ministers in Washington, and what to take up at any such meeting, are the two questions to be decided.

A Washington meeting would represent the eighth session of the Council of Foreign Ministers. The seventh was adjourned on June 20, 1949, after 29 days of fruitless discussion in Paris. A communique issued at adjournment spoke of "agreement" on certain preliminaries to an Austrian peace treaty and reaffirmed the lifting of the Russian blockade of Berlin. But the conference was generally regarded as ending in stalemate. Secretary Acheson upon his return from Paris told President Truman, "I don't really think we accomplished too much."

The Big Four powers were, the communique said, to arrange for the next conference when they met for UN General Assembly sessions in New York in September, 1949. The Foreign Ministers did meet informally and made some progress toward an Austrian treaty in September, but since then the Council has stagnated.

Russia, which on March 3 broke off private talks with the U.S. about a Japanese treaty, might now try to force that issue into the agenda for the Washington meeting. It was the West which insisted that the current talks include the whole compass of "serious tension" in the world situation. In proposing a conference, Russia had wanted to discuss only the "demilitarization" of Germany.

As set up under the terms of the August, 1945, Potsdam Agreement, the Council of Foreign Ministers was to prepare peace treaties for Italy, Bulgaria, Finland, Hungary, Rumania. France and China were invited to sign the agreement. But at the London conference of Foreign Ministers in September-October, 1945, Foreign Commissar Molotov demanded that China and France be excluded from discussions of treaties with European states. His grounds were that they were not signatories to the articles of surrender with those states.

Returning from London in October, 1945, Secretary of State Byrnes told the U. S. public he hoped Russia would "agree that the nations that fought the war . . . shall have a chance to make the world peace." The Moscow conference of December, 1945, must temporarily have encouraged Byrnes. There the ministers agreed to procedure for considering the satellite treaties and to a recommendation to the UN for an atomic energy commission. The U. S. agreed to share control of Japan in an 11-nation Far Eastern Commission and a four-power Allied Council for Japan.

The civil war in China and Russian opposition to Chiang Kai-Shek kept the Chinese minister from the Paris conference of the Council in April-May, 1946, (and from the four subsequent meetings). Although little agreement emerged from that meeting, a general peace conference of 21 nations at Paris in July-October, 1946, and a subsequent meeting of the Council of Foreign Ministers in New York in November-December, 1946, produced final peace treaties for Italy, Hungary, Bulgaria, Finland, Rumania.

The fifth session of the Council in Moscow in March-April, 1947, failed to produce a formula for German or Austrian peace treaties. The London conference in November-December, 1947, broke up after agreement on only two points: admission of Pakistan to the German peace treaty conference; raising of German steel output to 11.5 million tons a year.

Hope For Economy

A coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats, committed to drastic paring of the Truman budget, is said to be numerous enough to get the job done. If so, it will be a great stroke of fortune for the American people.

Estimates as to the size of the reduction of Mr. Truman's $71,600,000,000 budget vary widely. The top estimate is $10,000,000,000 and the low estimate $2,000,000,000. This gives hope that maybe $5,000,000,000 or $6,000,000,000 can be cut off.

Additional encouragement is in the fact that here and there a "Truman line" member of Congress is for cutting. Senator Douglas of Illinois, an independent who often leans to the Truman program, and Senator Humphrey of Minnesota, who in times past has been almost more Truman than Truman himself, both believe cuts of $2,000,000,000 to $9,000,000,000 are possible. Add a few like this to the Republican-Dixiecrat lineup and economy would seem to be a cinch.

The reductionists believe that savings can be achieved not only in nondefense spending but in military items as well. Of course military procurement, under government direction, is duplicating and wasteful. There is no reason why economy should not be applied there, too. True economy, rather than weakening preparedness, will strengthen it.

The President has dared them to lower his budget. If they take the dare, as they should, it will mean some proposed additional taxes won't have to be levied and the country will be stronger in every way to meet the issues that confront it.

Crisis In France

The fall of the Pleven Cabinet is fresh evidence of the deep-seated disunity in France which has had disastrous effects on Europe and the world during this century. The immediate cause involves technicalities of electoral reform. But the effect is a victory for the Communist minority, won because a majority in agreement on what had to be done could not unite on how to do it.

The Communists were all-out to block any electoral reform. A majority of members of the French Assembly were agreed on the importance of replacing the present proportional representation system, which contains loopholes that give Communists more than their fair share of representation. But unless the majority can agree on specific reform, the old system will be in effect for this year's national elections.

That is why Prime Minister Pleven and his Cabinet resigned without first calling for a vote of confidence on the issue. If they had forced one and lost, immediate elections under the old system favoring the Communists would have been mandatory.

What happens now is behind-the-scenes dickering among party leaders—each of whom presumably will ask a price for abandoning his pet reform. This looks unpleasantly like government by blackmail. But new elections under a fair new electoral system would weaken the Communists to the point where familiar tactics would have less scope. Much depends on President Auriol's ability to find a compromise that will make this possible.

How To Keep Well

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Modern Tuberculosis Treatment

INDIVIDUALS with pulmonary tuberculosis no longer travel about the country "chasing the cure." In the past many went into the desert or high and dry areas where they slept out of doors and stuffed themselves with milk and eggs. The west still abounds with these men and women and some cities trace their growth to "consumptives" and "lungers," and rightly so because many of these people were hardworking and intelligent.

The modern treatment of tuberculosis is much more scientific and logical and the results speak for themselves. The death rate is down considerably even though the disease heads the list of causes of death in the 15-34 age group. The present day management did not originate overnight. The first step occurred back in 1882 when Koch isolated the causative germ. This research work pigeonholed tuberculosis as an infection, which in turn offered clues as to its spread and control.

In 1895 the discovery of the X-ray opened up the road to early detection but it was not until World War I that we took advantage of this diagnostic aid in tuberculosis. Nowadays the machinery is available for microfilming thousands of persons so that early detection has become a reality. It leads to more satisfactory results in treatment and lessens the chance of transmitting the disorder to others. Another milestone was passed when our public health officials eliminated bovine tuberculosis. This was done by testing cattle and slaughtering infected animals. It was an expensive proposition but the plan is paying dividends in that we are seeing fewer and fewer humans with tuberculosis of the neck glands, the bones, and other organs. Immunization of children with BCG vaccine is being tried in various parts of the world.

Streptomycin and para-aminosalicylic acid are being used extensively in treatment. These drugs are not so effective as we would like but enough victims of the disease are helped to make the method worth while. Meanwhile research continues on other chemicals that have proved effective agaist the tubercle bacillus in the laboratory.

Improvements in chest surgery also have been a boon to the more stubborn cases. Many persons owe their lieves to one of the many procedures now being employed along this line. However, segregation still is the bottleneck in tuberculosis control. In many sections of the country we do not have the space or the facilities to isolate and treat the increasing number of cases that are turning up as a result of tuberculosis detection drives.

Bed rest still is good treatment but it is not imperative in all cases because of the additional aids we have in fighting the disease. Many sufferers do well after having air injected into the chest cavities or undergoing a procedure which temporarily paralyzes the diaphragm. Furthermore, we know that sanitarium care is best. It is not necessary to go to one located thousands of miles away because the climate is better. Most patients are happier and more co-operative when they are closer to family and friends. The diet need not include special items, so long as it is well balanced.

COCCYX DAMAGE

M. T. writes: I fell on the ice and my doctor tells me I have coccygodynia. Will this back pain disappear in time?

REPLY

Yes, as a rule, depending upon the severity of the injury to the coccyx. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on painful coccyx.

IODINE

H. T. writes: What is the difference between white iodine and the regular kind?

Iodine preparations can be decolorized through the addition of another drug such as sodium thiosulfate. In the process, they may lose much of their potency.

THE Rh FACTOR

S. B. writes: Do men have an Rh factor?

REPLY

Yes, we all do because it represents a type of blood. Of the population, 85 per cent are Rh positive and the remainder, Rh negative. This type of blood test is done more frequently on women in pregnacy. When it is positive, nothing more is done about it, but Daddy enters the picture when it is negative.

WALKING AFTER CONFINEMENT

Mrs. N. writes: After being in bed for three months I find my feet limp and ankles wobbly. I cannot wiggle my toes or stand without suppport. The doctor assures me I will be O. K. eventually. Is there any way I can speed up the process?

REPLY

Have patience because these symptoms are not unusual after being confined to bed for three months. The muscles have lost their strength, the tendons are overstretched, and the blood vessels are without tone.

Impoverished Albanians Figure They Have Nothing To Lose Trying New Experiments; Series Of Wars Have Made Them Easy Mark For Communism

(Editor's Note: Drew Pearson is on a flying tour of Europe and the Middle East, surveying the world situation.)

PEC, YUGOSLAVIA—For most of one day I have driven along what is sometimes called "the little iron curtain"—the border where Yugoslavia and Albania meet, for Yugoslavia enjoys the unenviable distinction of being squeezed between two sections of the iron curtain with Bulgaria and Hungary on one side and Albania on the other.

How tiny, primitive Albania—chiefly a Mohammedan country—happened to fall for Russian communism has always been a mystery to me. I lived on the Albanian border for two years after the First World War, once crossed it on horseback, and its people at that time were rugged individualists who hated all governments, including their own, with the passion of Pennsylvania's high-tariff Joe Grundy. Perhaps the explanation is that Albania is a nation of extreme poverty where the people have nothing to lose by trying new experiments plus the fact that any nation torn by a never-ending series of wars is an easy mark for communism.

At any rate, the border between Russianized Albania and anti-Russian Yugoslavia now is studded with armed guards, and strangers are not permitted within 20 kilometers (about 12½ miles).

I managed to remember enough of the local language to talk my way past the first guard in the restricted zone and thereafter managed to talk my way past guards who stopped our jeep every half hour until we had passed through the old Turkish Albanian city of Prizerend, the border town of Jakovitza, and Deceny monastery—one of the oldest in Serbia, but it now bristles with armament. The iron curtain here is not of barbed wire as it is around most satellite countries but consists of a steep mountain range, its base studded with troops.

Denounce Double Crossing

My purpose in visiting this isolated, desolate part of the Balkans was partly sentimental, partly to see whether the United States is getting credit for its good program, partly to gauge Yugoslav sentiment toward Russia and the United States in an area far from the official blarney handed out by the diplomats in Belgrade.

Regarding the food program, the United States has given the Yugoslav government $60,000,000 worth of flour with the understanding that they sell it through their regular ration system but making it clear that the flour comes from us. Its distribution was organized under Richard Allen of Carmel, Calif., a former Hoover food man who has also arranged for American inspectors to travel through the country. I traveled part of the time with one of these inspectors—efficient George Trett—as he interviewed local officials and local farmers and it appears the United States is getting credit.

Regarding Yugoslav feeling toward Russia, it seems similar to that of the bride who has been jilted at the church and then watched her fiance marry another man. Yugoslav papers are filled with bitter denunciations of Russia, reminding the people that anyone who deals with Russia always gets double-crossed and even playing up the Russian double-cross history back to 1700 as if it were hot first-page news today.

Later, I heard Marshal Pijade, considered the father of Yugoslav communism, address 50,000 people in one of the bitterest attacks I have ever heard against Russia. Pijade was jailed for 14 years by King Alexander, at which time he taught Marxism to other Yugoslav leaders but now Moscow calls him "the hideous hunchback of Belgrade." When I heard him he quoted Thomas Dewey, Walter Lippmann and Ernest Bevin as proof that Russia is a brutal nation and that the United States and England are vigorously supporting Yugoslavia.

Lesson For U. S.

Thirty years ago I had charge of 100 Bulgar prisoners in a diminutive Serbian village called Dobro Do, which means good valley—but the valley wasn't good, because it had been burned out by the Bulgarian army and my job was to rebuild the homes of Serbian widows, using Bulgarian prisoners for labor. We also had a transport company of 100 mules and 100 conscripted Albanian mule drivers who every night sat around campfires—the Albanians, the Bulgar prisoners and their Serbian guards discussing war and what caused war.

That was in 1919 and they recalled that in 1912 Serbia and Greece had fought Turkey, then in 1913 Bulgaria had fought Serbia and Greece, and in 1914 the World War started. Thus for six long years the Balkans were plunged in war—war which neither the Serbian guards nor their Bulgarian prisoners nor the Albanian conscripts wanted. Their hope, they said, was Woodrow Wilson—he was going to proclaim a new world in which there would be eternal peace.

Well, the years have come and gone since then. Woodrow Wilson tried and failed, and Dobro Do since then once again was ravished—this time by the Germans, later by the Italians—and then liberated by the Russians who, at times, acted more like conquerors than liberators.

This is the history of a typical Balkan village and when you look round at the poverty which always follows in the wake of war you understand why there is communism in the Balkans, for people who are poor, who are bled white, who have nothing to lose, turn in their desperation to desperate remedies.

This also may be a lesson for the United States for, if we get involved in war, its aftermath may find us nearer the communism which we are fighting so hard to avoid.

Matter Of Fact

Eisenhower And Taft

WASHINGTON

IT may seem like cruel and unusual punishment to keep dragging into discussions of domestic politics the name of a man who is doing a supremely important and wholly non-political job. Yet it has become downright impossible to write about American politics without using the name of General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower. For the very powerful forces within the Republican party which oppose Sen. Robert A. Taft are now to all intents and purposes wholly united behind Eisenhower. What is more, the broad outlines of the strategy for drafting Eisenhower are already pretty well established.

The key figure in the draft-Eisenhower movement is likely to be Sen. James Duff of Pennsylvania rather than Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York. Dewey is of course publicly on record for Eisenhower. Yet Dewey is not personally close to Eisenhower, Dewey has inevitably made innumerable enemies in the national Republican party; and these enemies equally inevitably suspect him, however unjustly, of using Eisenhower as a stalking horse. Duff suffers from none of these disabilities.

Duff is approaching seventy, and he has no Presidential ambitions. An internationally minded, liberal Republican, he is close to Eisenhower, both personally and in his political thinking. He has made few enemies nationally. Since his crushing defeat of the Grundy forces, he will control Pennsylvania's key delegation at the convention. Finally, he is all-out for Eisenhower's nomination.

Fence-Building For Eisenhower

Thus he is a sort of political loadstone, and the anti-Taft and pro-Eisenhower forces are already coalescing around him, in an informal alliance. The immediate object of this alliance is to perform a sort of holding operation—to prevent the Taft forces from capturing the nomination in advance during the coming year.

The great anti-Taft redoubts, the states of New York, Pennsylvania and California (which Gov. Earl Warren will hold against Taft) are counted on chiefly for this purpose. With these states, and others on the East and West coast acting as anti-Taft makeweights, the next 12 months will be devoted to quiet fence-building for Eisenhower.

Then, according to the dream of the Eisenhower men, Eisenhower will return next spring, his great mission of organizing the defense of Europe achieved. An Eisenhower boom, with Duff its chief spokesman and organizer, will get under way. His name will be filed in Republican primaries in such states as Nebraska and Wisconsin, where consent of the candidate is not required. The magic of the name will be conclusively demonstrated. The Taft forces will be beaten back. Eisenhower will be nominated triumphantly.

So much for the dream. Measured against reality, it contains one obvious possible flaw. The Eisenhower men profess absolute confidence that he will consent to run. But this is essentially because no politician wants to commit himself to a Presidential candidate who may not be a candidate at all. When pressed, the Eisenhower supporters admit that Eisenhower has never given anything like a firm commitment to anyone. And Eisenhower is certainly quite genuinely doubtful about the wisdom of a soldier becoming involved in politics. In the end, Eisenhower's decision is very likely to depend to a great extent on none other than Sen. Robert A. Taft.

Taft-McCarthy Alliance Possible

For one thing, Sen. Taft, after some hesitations, now appears firmly to have embraced substantially the "Chicago Tribune" version of foreign policy, which is of course dramatically opposed to everything Eisenhower stands for. For another thing, there are plenty of signs, as the "St. Louis Post-Dispatch" reported in a recent series of well-documented articles, that Taft has entered into what the Post-Dispatch calls "a sinister alliance" with Sen. Joseph McCarthy.

It may seem incredible that a man of Taft's great reputation for high integrity could ally himself with a McCarthy. Leaving aside such matters as the Wisconsin income tax and the $10,000 fee from Lustron, McCarthy's ideas of personal probity are illustrated by the fact that, according to an incomplete tabulation by the "Post-Dispatch," he has spewed forth a total of 70 distortions and demonstrable falsehoods on matters affecting the national interest in a short 12 months.

Yet, incredible or not, astute observers believe that an informal but solid Taft-McCarthy alliance is in the making. McCarthy is expected to start the spewing process soon again, this time from his strategic

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — There was nothing "illegal" about the fact that Senator Murray, Democrat, of Montana urged that a loan by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation be approved for a hotel company which his son served as a lawyer and received a $21,000 fee.

The question will be raised, however, as to whether there was an "impropriety" on the part of the Montana Senator. The answer will depend on how much of an inference of impropriety there is in the action of the members of the RFC — whether they were really influenced by the congressional approach.

This goes to the heart of various forms of lobbying in the national capital. It isn't the lobbying that's improper. It's the receptiveness of an official to unwarranted influence of any kind which raises the real issue.

Always Under Pressure

By and large, officials are honest. Those with discretionary powers given them under the laws of Congress are always under pressure to make this or that decision favorable to an applicant.

What Senator Murray did in going to the RFC was what some other members of Congress have been doing. What his son did was the same thing as any lawyer or paid lobbyist does — his object is to get favorable action. Like any lawyer here, he is paid to persuade. On Capitol Hill every day, members of Congress, besieged by their constituents, write letters to the executive departments and agencies and make a case for favorable action or negative action. Again and again lawyers come to senators and representatives and ask their intercession with governmental agencies both for constituents and persons outside their respective states.

The vice of the whole system is not that efforts are made to get congressional support for or opposition to action to be taken by executive agencies but how that congressional influence is exerted. If it is confined to letter writing or even to persuasive conversation, it is not improper. Government officials must listen to all who have pertinent information or argument to give them on vital problems confronting them. But if the member of Congress threatens to cut down appropriations of the agency unless he has his way or makes a promise of some other favor to be given the official by him or anyone else, this is a naked bribe. The federal statutes cover such crimes and provide for prosecution.

It is whether the member of Congress is himself susceptible to improper influence or invulnerable to improper pressures on legislation which constitutes the real problem that has to be examined in each case. To forbid lobbying or petitioning is wrong — though registration to require full knowledge and identification of lobbyists is correct. To forbid members of Congress to communicate with excutive agencies on matters of vital concern to their constituents or friends would be wrong — and to forbid their sons to engage in law business here would be wrong, too.

Any member of Congress, on the other hand, who does have a relative engaged in practice before government departments and wishes to avoid criticism should, strictly speaking, say to any government official with whom he happens to communicate in the course of his daily routine that he hopes the application or problem will be considered on its merits and without giving any weight to his relationship to the lawyer who represents the matter.

Many Ramifications

In judicial circles it is customary for a judge to disqualify himself from sitting on any case where a member of his family may be a litigant or a lawyer for either party. In legislative circles no such practice exists.

In fairness to Senator Murray of Montana, it should be said that, if his intervention was improper, then standards should be proclaimed by the Senate itself which makes the rules concerning the conduct of its own members. Maybe the time has come for the Senate and the House to draw up rules of conduct — setting forth perhaps whether members themselves may represent clients in state courts and then, without fee, intervene in their behalf on matters which those clients have before the federal government.

Maybe the inference of lack of integrity is in itself too sweeping just because a member of Congress intervenes for a constituent or friend in a financial transaction. Shall that constituent or friend be stopped, too, from expressing his gratitude later on in making a contribution to the congressman's campaign? These matters introduce many ramifications.

The all-important question in the final analysis is whether government officials in the executive agencies are themselves men of integrity or susceptible to political influence. Most of them are beyond reproach. It is, in every such case, a matter of simple honesty, and there are many more honest than dishonest people hereabouts.

Members of Congress may ask but members of the RFC should refuse if a loan application is without merit. Conversely, because an application has the backing of a member of Congress doesn't necessarily make it an unsound loan.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The State Of Missouri

THE KEFAUVER Committee reports:

"It was no secret in the State of Missouri . . . that the state government and its administration had narrowly escaped falling under the control of gangsters with criminal affiliations in the elections of 1948."

This does not make pleasant reading about any state or city, but this is what that same report says about St. Louis:

". . .In St. Louis, Morris Shenker appeared to have a substantial portion of the legal trade involving bookmakers who had fallen into the clutches of the law. It is noteworthy that Shenker appeared before the committee as counsel for William Molasky, one of the owners of Pioneer News Service, the racing wire news distributor in that city. He also appeared as counsel for Joe Uvanni, racetrack 'comeback money' agent for John Mooney, of St. Louis. According to testimony before the committee, Molasky contributed $2,000 to the gubernatorial campaign fund of Forest Smith on condition that Smith would name Shenker to the Police Board (of control) of St. Louis if elected."

Again, the report states:

"There is considerable evidence in the minutes of the testimony concerning contributions to political campaigns by gamblers and gangsters. . ."

In the new book by Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, "Washington Confidential," appears the following paragraph:

"At the first open hearing of the (Kefauver) committee, subpoenaed gamblers were represented by Morris Shenker, St. Louis lawyer, formerly on the Missouri Democratic Committee. As a result of his good work in obtaining campaign donations, Shenker was named by Bill Boyle to the Democratic Finance Committee. He hastily resigned after the deal was exposed. . ."

So, we come to the curious election which is to take place in St. Louis next Friday. Congressman John Sullivan, Democrat, representing the 11th District, having died, March 9 was set for a special election. His widow, who had been the congressman's secretary, expected to be the candidate. She was rejected by the aforesaid Morris Shenker, who controls what is roughly called the democracy. Shenker thereupon nominated Harry Schendel, sales manager of an automobile agency, as his candidate. The Republicans nominated Claude I. Bakewell, a former congressman.

The real issue in this contest is the power and authority of Morris Shenker, the mouthpiece. He is said to be unusually able. His own view is that he can separate his law practice from his political activities, which would be an interesting feat, if accomplishable. In a telegram to Senator Wiley of Wisconsin, he wrote:

"I have never permitted my political activities to interfere with my practice of law, nor have I attempted to associate the two. I have never solicited or accepted a political contribution from any of my clients."

Shenker is the lawyer who raised the question of the use of television in public hearings. One of the most valid purposes of congressional hearings is that they give the people an opportunity to know of corruptions, distortions and treasonable conduct of individuals. The newspapers, radio and now television bring these hearings close to the people. In the case of James J. Carroll, who calls himself a betting commissioner, Shenker said:

"Forcing a man to give testimony

Fellowship Of Prayer

Daily Lenten Devotional

IN EPHESUS

Wherefore take up the whole armor of God, that ye may be able to withstand in the evil day, and having done all, to stand.

Ephesians 6:13.
Read Acts 19:21-41.

When Paul and several companions landed in Ephesus they found that the center of the people's devotion was the Temple of Diana. Their goddess had been let down from Jupiter and was clothed in the garment of a huntress. She stood behind a curtain in a temple twice as large as St. Paul's in London.

No one saw her, but Demetrius the silversmith made little shrines, sold them to the people in the streets, and thus made a handsome living. The city was Roman in government, Greek in culture . . . and oriental in religion. To make the Christian religion a vital force in that environment was a colossal task. However, at the end of several years of preaching and teaching, Ephesus began to feel the influence of the gospel.

If Demetrius lost his standing it was because the Ephesian fellowship followed Paul's plea to "tighten the belt of truth . . . wear integrity as your coat of mail, and have your feet shod with the stability of the gospel of peace." (Moffatt) It would take some such armor of God to withstand in the evil day.

Let Us Pray: What wait we for, O Lord, but the revealing of thyself in the midst of an evil world? Even so, come Lord Jesus. Amen.

The Paris Parley

The deputies of the Council of Foreign Ministers meeting at the Palais Rose in Paris have thus far agreed only to discuss discussions. Whether to hold a full-dress meeting of Big Four foreign ministers in Washington, and what to take up at any such meeting, are the two questions to be decided.

A Washington meeting would represent the eighth session of the Council of Foreign Ministers. The seventh was adjourned on June 20, 1949, after 29 days of fruitless discussion in Paris. A communique issued at adjournment spoke of "agreement" on certain preliminaries to an Austrian peace treaty and reaffirmed the lifting of the Russian blockade of Berlin. But the conference was generally regarded as ending in stalemate. Secretary Acheson upon his return from Paris told President Truman, "I don't really think we accomplished too much."

The Big Four powers were, the communique said, to arrange for the next conference when they met for UN General Assembly sessions in New York in September, 1949. The Foreign Ministers did meet informally and made some progress toward an Austrian treaty in September, but since then the Council has stagnated.

Russia, which on March 3 broke off private talks with the U.S. about a Japanese treaty, might now try to force that issue into the agenda for the Washington meeting. It was the West which insisted that the current talks include the whole compass of "serious tension" in the world situation. In proposing a conference, Russia had wanted to discuss only the "demilitarization" of Germany.

As set up under the terms of the August, 1945, Potsdam Agreement, the Council of Foreign Ministers was to prepare peace treaties for Italy, Bulgaria, Finland, Hungary, Rumania. France and China were invited to sign the agreement. But at the London conference of Foreign Ministers in September-October, 1945, Foreign Commissar Molotov demanded that China and France be excluded from discussions of treaties with European states. His grounds were that they were not signatories to the articles of surrender with those states.

Returning from London in October, 1945, Secretary of State Byrnes told the U. S. public he hoped Russia would "agree that the nations that fought the war . . . shall have a chance to make the world peace." The Moscow conference of December, 1945, must temporarily have encouraged Byrnes. There the ministers agreed to procedure for considering the satellite treaties and to a recommendation to the UN for an atomic energy commission. The U. S. agreed to share control of Japan in an 11-nation Far Eastern Commission and a four-power Allied Council for Japan.

The civil war in China and Russian opposition to Chiang Kai-Shek kept the Chinese minister from the Paris conference of the Council in April-May, 1946, (and from the four subsequent meetings). Although little agreement emerged from that meeting, a general peace conference of 21 nations at Paris in July-October, 1946, and a subsequent meeting of the Council of Foreign Ministers in New York in November-December, 1946, produced final peace treaties for Italy, Hungary, Bulgaria, Finland, Rumania.

The fifth session of the Council in Moscow in March-April, 1947, failed to produce a formula for German or Austrian peace treaties. The London conference in November-December, 1947, broke up after agreement on only two points: admission of Pakistan to the German peace treaty conference; raising of German steel output to 11.5 million tons a year.

Hope For Economy

A coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats, committed to drastic paring of the Truman budget, is said to be numerous enough to get the job done. If so, it will be a great stroke of fortune for the American people.

Estimates as to the size of the reduction of Mr. Truman's $71,600,000,000 budget vary widely. The top estimate is $10,000,000,000 and the low estimate $2,000,000,000. This gives hope that maybe $5,000,000,000 or $6,000,000,000 can be cut off.

Additional encouragement is in the fact that here and there a "Truman line" member of Congress is for cutting. Senator Douglas of Illinois, an independent who often leans to the Truman program, and Senator Humphrey of Minnesota, who in times past has been almost more Truman than Truman himself, both believe cuts of $2,000,000,000 to $9,000,000,000 are possible. Add a few like this to the Republican-Dixiecrat lineup and economy would seem to be a cinch.

The reductionists believe that savings can be achieved not only in nondefense spending but in military items as well. Of course military procurement, under government direction, is duplicating and wasteful. There is no reason why economy should not be applied there, too. True economy, rather than weakening preparedness, will strengthen it.

The President has dared them to lower his budget. If they take the dare, as they should, it will mean some proposed additional taxes won't have to be levied and the country will be stronger in every way to meet the issues that confront it.

Crisis In France

The fall of the Pleven Cabinet is fresh evidence of the deep-seated disunity in France which has had disastrous effects on Europe and the world during this century. The immediate cause involves technicalities of electoral reform. But the effect is a victory for the Communist minority, won because a majority in agreement on what had to be done could not unite on how to do it.

The Communists were all-out to block any electoral reform. A majority of members of the French Assembly were agreed on the importance of replacing the present proportional representation system, which contains loopholes that give Communists more than their fair share of representation. But unless the majority can agree on specific reform, the old system will be in effect for this year's national elections.

That is why Prime Minister Pleven and his Cabinet resigned without first calling for a vote of confidence on the issue. If they had forced one and lost, immediate elections under the old system favoring the Communists would have been mandatory.

What happens now is behind-the-scenes dickering among party leaders—each of whom presumably will ask a price for abandoning his pet reform. This looks unpleasantly like government by blackmail. But new elections under a fair new electoral system would weaken the Communists to the point where familiar tactics would have less scope. Much depends on President Auriol's ability to find a compromise that will make this possible.

How To Keep Well

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Modern Tuberculosis Treatment

INDIVIDUALS with pulmonary tuberculosis no longer travel about the country "chasing the cure." In the past many went into the desert or high and dry areas where they slept out of doors and stuffed themselves with milk and eggs. The west still abounds with these men and women and some cities trace their growth to "consumptives" and "lungers," and rightly so because many of these people were hardworking and intelligent.

The modern treatment of tuberculosis is much more scientific and logical and the results speak for themselves. The death rate is down considerably even though the disease heads the list of causes of death in the 15-34 age group. The present day management did not originate overnight. The first step occurred back in 1882 when Koch isolated the causative germ. This research work pigeonholed tuberculosis as an infection, which in turn offered clues as to its spread and control.

In 1895 the discovery of the X-ray opened up the road to early detection but it was not until World War I that we took advantage of this diagnostic aid in tuberculosis. Nowadays the machinery is available for microfilming thousands of persons so that early detection has become a reality. It leads to more satisfactory results in treatment and lessens the chance of transmitting the disorder to others. Another milestone was passed when our public health officials eliminated bovine tuberculosis. This was done by testing cattle and slaughtering infected animals. It was an expensive proposition but the plan is paying dividends in that we are seeing fewer and fewer humans with tuberculosis of the neck glands, the bones, and other organs. Immunization of children with BCG vaccine is being tried in various parts of the world.

Streptomycin and para-aminosalicylic acid are being used extensively in treatment. These drugs are not so effective as we would like but enough victims of the disease are helped to make the method worth while. Meanwhile research continues on other chemicals that have proved effective agaist the tubercle bacillus in the laboratory.

Improvements in chest surgery also have been a boon to the more stubborn cases. Many persons owe their lieves to one of the many procedures now being employed along this line. However, segregation still is the bottleneck in tuberculosis control. In many sections of the country we do not have the space or the facilities to isolate and treat the increasing number of cases that are turning up as a result of tuberculosis detection drives.

Bed rest still is good treatment but it is not imperative in all cases because of the additional aids we have in fighting the disease. Many sufferers do well after having air injected into the chest cavities or undergoing a procedure which temporarily paralyzes the diaphragm. Furthermore, we know that sanitarium care is best. It is not necessary to go to one located thousands of miles away because the climate is better. Most patients are happier and more co-operative when they are closer to family and friends. The diet need not include special items, so long as it is well balanced.

The iron curtain here is not of barbed wire as it is around most satellite countries but consists of a steep mountain range, its base studded with troops.

Denounce Double Crossing

My purpose in visiting this isolated, desolate part of the Balkans was partly sentimental, partly to see whether the United States is getting credit for its good program, partly to gauge Yugoslav sentiment toward Russia and the United States in an area far from the official blarney handed out by the diplomats in Belgrade.

Regarding the food program, the United States has given the Yugoslav government $60,000,000 worth of flour with the understanding that they sell it through their regular ration system but making it clear that the flour comes from us. Its distribution was organized under Richard Allen of Carmel, Calif., a former Hoover food man who has also arranged for American inspectors to travel through the country. I traveled part of the time with one of these inspectors—efficient George Trett—as he interviewed local officials and local farmers and it appears the United States is getting credit.

Regarding Yugoslav feeling toward Russia, it seems similar to that of the bride who has been jilted at the church and then watched her fiance marry another man. Yugoslav papers are filled with bitter denunciations of Russia, reminding the people that anyone who deals with Russia always gets double-crossed and even playing up the Russian double-cross history back to 1700 as if it were hot first-page news today.

Later, I heard Marshal Pijade, considered the father of Yugoslav communism, address 50,000 people in one of the bitterest attacks I have ever heard against Russia. Pijade was jailed for 14 years by King Alexander, at which time he taught Marxism to other Yugoslav leaders but now Moscow calls him "the hideous hunchback of Belgrade." When I heard him he quoted Thomas Dewey, Walter Lippmann and Ernest Bevin as proof that Russia is a brutal nation and that the United States and England are vigorously supporting Yugoslavia.

Lesson For U. S.

Thirty years ago I had charge of 100 Bulgar prisoners in a diminutive Serbian village called Dobro Do, which means good valley—but the valley wasn't good, because it had been burned out by the Bulgarian army and my job was to rebuild the homes of Serbian widows, using Bulgarian prisoners for labor. We also had a transport company of 100 mules and 100 conscripted Albanian mule drivers who every night sat around campfires—the Albanians, the Bulgar prisoners and their Serbian guards discussing war and what caused war.

That was in 1919 and they recalled that in 1912 Serbia and Greece had fought Turkey, then in 1913 Bulgaria had fought Serbia and Greece, and in 1914 the World War started. Thus for six long years the Balkans were plunged in war—war which neither the Serbian guards nor their Bulgarian prisoners nor the Albanian conscripts wanted. Their hope, they said, was Woodrow Wilson—he was going to proclaim a new world in which there would be eternal peace.

Well, the years have come and gone since then. Woodrow Wilson tried and failed, and Dobro Do since then once again was ravished—this time by the Germans, later by the Italians—and then liberated by the Russians who, at times, acted more like conquerors than liberators.

This is the history of a typical Balkan village and when you look round at the poverty which always follows in the wake of war you understand why there is communism in the Balkans, for people who are poor, who are bled white, who have nothing to lose, turn in their desperation to desperate remedies.

This also may be a lesson for the United States for, if we get involved in war, its aftermath may find us nearer the communism which we are fighting so hard to avoid.

Matter Of Fact

Eisenhower And Taft

WASHINGTON

IT may seem like cruel and unusual punishment to keep dragging into discussions of domestic politics the name of a man who is doing a supremely important and wholly non-political job. Yet it has become downright impossible to write about American politics without using the name of General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower. For the very powerful forces within the Republican party which oppose Sen. Robert A. Taft are now to all intents and purposes wholly united behind Eisenhower. What is more, the broad outlines of the strategy for drafting Eisenhower are already pretty well established.

The key figure in the draft-Eisenhower movement is likely to be Sen. James Duff of Pennsylvania rather than Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York. Dewey is of course publicly on record for Eisenhower. Yet Dewey is not personally close to Eisenhower, Dewey has inevitably made innumerable enemies in the national Republican party; and these enemies equally inevitably suspect him, however unjustly, of using Eisenhower as a stalking horse. Duff suffers from none of these disabilities.

Duff is approaching seventy, and he has no Presidential ambitions. An internationally minded, liberal Republican, he is close to Eisenhower, both personally and in his political thinking. He has made few enemies nationally. Since his crushing defeat of the Grundy forces, he will control Pennsylvania's key delegation at the convention. Finally, he is all-out for Eisenhower's nomination.

Fence-Building For Eisenhower

Thus he is a sort of political loadstone, and the anti-Taft and pro-Eisenhower forces are already coalescing around him, in an informal alliance. The immediate object of this alliance is to perform a sort of holding operation—to prevent the Taft forces from capturing the nomination in advance during the coming year.

The great anti-Taft redoubts, the states of New York, Pennsylvania and California (which Gov. Earl Warren will hold against Taft) are counted on chiefly for this purpose. With these states, and others on the East and West coast acting as anti-Taft makeweights, the next 12 months will be devoted to quiet fence-building for Eisenhower.

Then, according to the dream of the Eisenhower men, Eisenhower will return next spring, his great mission of organizing the defense of Europe achieved. An Eisenhower boom, with Duff its chief spokesman and organizer, will get under way. His name will be filed in Republican primaries in such states as Nebraska and Wisconsin, where consent of the candidate is not required. The magic of the name will be conclusively demonstrated. The Taft forces will be beaten back. Eisenhower will be nominated triumphantly.

So much for the dream. Measured against reality, it contains one obvious possible flaw. The Eisenhower men profess absolute confidence that he will consent to run. But this is essentially because no politician wants to commit himself to a Presidential candidate who may not be a candidate at all. When pressed, the Eisenhower supporters admit that Eisenhower has never given anything like a firm commitment to anyone. And Eisenhower is certainly quite genuinely doubtful about the wisdom of a soldier becoming involved in politics. In the end, Eisenhower's decision is very likely to depend to a great extent on none other than Sen. Robert A. Taft.

Taft-McCarthy Alliance Possible

For one thing, Sen. Taft, after some hesitations, now appears firmly to have embraced substantially the "Chicago Tribune" version of foreign policy, which is of course dramatically opposed to everything Eisenhower stands for. For another thing, there are plenty of signs, as the "St. Louis Post-Dispatch" reported in a recent series of well-documented articles, that Taft has entered into what the Post-Dispatch calls "a sinister alliance" with Sen. Joseph McCarthy.

It may seem incredible that a man of Taft's great reputation for high integrity could ally himself with a McCarthy. Leaving aside such matters as the Wisconsin income tax and the $10,000 fee from Lustron, McCarthy's ideas of personal probity are illustrated by the fact that, according to an incomplete tabulation by the "Post-Dispatch," he has spewed forth a total of 70 distortions and demonstrable falsehoods on matters affecting the national interest in a short 12 months.

Yet, incredible or not, astute observers believe that an informal but solid Taft-McCarthy alliance is in the making. McCarthy is expected to start the spewing process soon again, this time from his strategic

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — There was nothing "illegal" about the fact that Senator Murray, Democrat, of Montana urged that a loan by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation be approved for a hotel company which his son served as a lawyer and received a $21,000 fee.

The question will be raised, however, as to whether there was an "impropriety" on the part of the Montana Senator. The answer will depend on how much of an inference of impropriety there is in the action of the members of the RFC — whether they were really influenced by the congressional approach.

This goes to the heart of various forms of lobbying in the national capital. It isn't the lobbying that's improper. It's the receptiveness of an official to unwarranted influence of any kind which raises the real issue.

Always Under Pressure

By and large, officials are honest. Those with discretionary powers given them under the laws of Congress are always under pressure to make this or that decision favorable to an applicant.

What Senator Murray did in going to the RFC was what some other members of Congress have been doing. What his son did was the same thing as any lawyer or paid lobbyist does — his object is to get favorable action. Like any lawyer here, he is paid to persuade. On Capitol Hill every day, members of Congress, besieged by their constituents, write letters to the executive departments and agencies and make a case for favorable action or negative action. Again and again lawyers come to senators and representatives and ask their intercession with governmental agencies both for constituents and persons outside their respective states.

The vice of the whole system is not that efforts are made to get congressional support for or opposition to action to be taken by executive agencies but how that congressional influence is exerted. If it is confined to letter writing or even to persuasive conversation, it is not improper. Government officials must listen to all who have pertinent information or argument to give them on vital problems confronting them. But if the member of Congress threatens to cut down appropriations of the agency unless he has his way or makes a promise of some other favor to be given the official by him or anyone else, this is a naked bribe. The federal statutes cover such crimes and provide for prosecution.

It is whether the member of Congress is himself susceptible to improper influence or invulnerable to improper pressures on legislation which constitutes the real problem that has to be examined in each case. To forbid lobbying or petitioning is wrong — though registration to require full knowledge and identification of lobbyists is correct. To forbid members of Congress to communicate with excutive agencies on matters of vital concern to their constituents or friends would be wrong — and to forbid their sons to engage in law business here would be wrong, too.

Any member of Congress, on the other hand, who does have a relative engaged in practice before government departments and wishes to avoid criticism should, strictly speaking, say to any government official with whom he happens to communicate in the course of his daily routine that he hopes the application or problem will be considered on its merits and without giving any weight to his relationship to the lawyer who represents the matter.

Many Ramifications

In judicial circles it is customary for a judge to disqualify himself from sitting on any case where a member of his family may be a litigant or a lawyer for either party. In legislative circles no such practice exists.

In fairness to Senator Murray of Montana, it should be said that, if his intervention was improper, then standards should be proclaimed by the Senate itself which makes the rules concerning the conduct of its own members. Maybe the time has come for the Senate and the House to draw up rules of conduct — setting forth perhaps whether members themselves may represent clients in state courts and then, without fee, intervene in their behalf on matters which those clients have before the federal government.

Maybe the inference of lack of integrity is in itself too sweeping just because a member of Congress intervenes for a constituent or friend in a financial transaction. Shall that constituent or friend be stopped, too, from expressing his gratitude later on in making a contribution to the congressman's campaign? These matters introduce many ramifications.

The all-important question in the final analysis is whether government officials in the executive agencies are themselves men of integrity or susceptible to political influence. Most of them are beyond reproach. It is, in every such case, a matter of simple honesty, and there are many more honest than dishonest people hereabouts.

Members of Congress may ask but members of the RFC should refuse if a loan application is without merit. Conversely, because an application has the backing of a member of Congress doesn't necessarily make it an unsound loan.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The State Of Missouri

THE KEFAUVER Committee reports:

"It was no secret in the State of Missouri . . . that the state government and its administration had narrowly escaped falling under the control of gangsters with criminal affiliations in the elections of 1948."

This does not make pleasant reading about any state or city, but this is what that same report says about St. Louis:

". . .In St. Louis, Morris Shenker appeared to have a substantial portion of the legal trade involving bookmakers who had fallen into the clutches of the law. It is noteworthy that Shenker appeared before the committee as counsel for William Molasky, one of the owners of Pioneer News Service, the racing wire news distributor in that city. He also appeared as counsel for Joe Uvanni, racetrack 'comeback money' agent for John Mooney, of St. Louis. According to testimony before the committee, Molasky contributed $2,000 to the gubernatorial campaign fund of Forest Smith on condition that Smith would name Shenker to the Police Board (of control) of St. Louis if elected."

Again, the report states:

"There is considerable evidence in the minutes of the testimony concerning contributions to political campaigns by gamblers and gangsters. . ."

In the new book by Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, "Washington Confidential," appears the following paragraph:

"At the first open hearing of the (Kefauver) committee, subpoenaed gamblers were represented by Morris Shenker, St. Louis lawyer, formerly on the Missouri Democratic Committee. As a result of his good work in obtaining campaign donations, Shenker was named by Bill Boyle to the Democratic Finance Committee. He hastily resigned after the deal was exposed. . ."

So, we come to the curious election which is to take place in St. Louis next Friday. Congressman John Sullivan, Democrat, representing the 11th District, having died, March 9 was set for a special election. His widow, who had been the congressman's secretary, expected to be the candidate. She was rejected by the aforesaid Morris Shenker, who controls what is roughly called the democracy. Shenker thereupon nominated Harry Schendel, sales manager of an automobile agency, as his candidate. The Republicans nominated Claude I. Bakewell, a former congressman.

The real issue in this contest is the power and authority of Morris Shenker, the mouthpiece. He is said to be unusually able. His own view is that he can separate his law practice from his political activities, which would be an interesting feat, if accomplishable. In a telegram to Senator Wiley of Wisconsin, he wrote:

"I have never permitted my political activities to interfere with my practice of law, nor have I attempted to associate the two. I have never solicited or accepted a political contribution from any of my clients."

Shenker is the lawyer who raised the question of the use of television in public hearings. One of the most valid purposes of congressional hearings is that they give the people an opportunity to know of corruptions, distortions and treasonable conduct of individuals. The newspapers, radio and now television bring these hearings close to the people. In the case of James J. Carroll, who calls himself a betting commissioner, Shenker said:

"Forcing a man to give testimony

Fellowship Of Prayer

Daily Lenten Devotional

IN EPHESUS

Wherefore take up the whole armor of God, that ye may be able to withstand in the evil day, and having done all, to stand.

Ephesians 6:13.
Read Acts 19:21-41.

When Paul and several companions landed in Ephesus they found that the center of the people's devotion was the Temple of Diana. Their goddess had been let down from Jupiter and was clothed in the garment of a huntress. She stood behind a curtain in a temple twice as large as St. Paul's in London.

No one saw her, but Demetrius the silversmith made little shrines, sold them to the people in the streets, and thus made a handsome living. The city was Roman in government, Greek in culture . . . and oriental in religion. To make the Christian religion a vital force in that environment was a colossal task. However, at the end of several years of preaching and teaching, Ephesus began to feel the influence of the gospel.

If Demetrius lost his standing it was because the Ephesian fellowship followed Paul's plea to "tighten the belt of truth . . . wear integrity as your coat of mail, and have your feet shod with the stability of the gospel of peace." (Moffatt) It would take some such armor of God to withstand in the evil day.

Let Us Pray: What wait we for, O Lord, but the revealing of thyself in the midst of an evil world? Even so, come Lord Jesus. Amen.

ALONG THE POTOMAC TO WASHINGTON

(By Representative J. Glenn Beall, Sixth Maryland District)

THE National Production Authority has given priority to orders for materials to be used for maintenance, operation and repair in businesses ranging from the little shoe repair shop to the big industrial plants with public and private institutions receiving the same protection. The NPA administrator stated that all establishments in the United States including warehouses, factories, retail and wholesale stores, service shops, farms, hospitals, schools, libraries, churches, federal, state and local governmental agencies, may when necessary use a priority rating to procure equipment and supplies for maintenance, repair and operation of their present facilities at the same rate as the dollar purchases of last year. This will enable the producers of goods and services to operate efficiently during this emergency.

Two events happened last week which have a direct bearing on each other. In the United States natural rubber for passenger car tires was reduced to 15 per cent natural rubber while larger car tires were reduced to 22 per cent. This is to save natural rubber, which must be imported, for military use and for stockpiling. Airplane tires, for instance, require all natural rubber. As we cut down on the use of natural rubber, British Colonial Affairs Minister John Dudgale told the House of Commons that Britain will not stop the flow of vital Mayalan rubber to Russia and her satellites because the Attlee Government considers the trade "normal." Fourteen per cent of Malaya's rubber production is going to Russia, China, Czechoslovakia and Poland.

The Defense Department reports combat casualties in Korea now total over 50,000 men. United Nations countries have a total of 44,000 troops in Korea. American casualties in the Korean War now exceed the number of supporting troops sent by other UN nations. In contrast to the combined 44,000 fighting troops from other nations, Gen. Omar Bradley in testifying before the House Armed Services Committee on February 26, said, "Over in Korea there are approximately one-quarter of a million Americans who are fighting for this nation and our position in world affairs."

A Soviet economic party has arrived in Genoa, Italy, to speed up delivery of electric cranes and thermal power stations which would ease up Russia's fuel position in case of war or blockade this summer. The two factories producing these vital cranes and power stations were subsidized by the American taxpayers through $1,625,000 of Marshall Plan money.

School superintendents meeting in Atlantic City recently were told that the nation's public schools are the bull's-eye in the target of subversive pressure groups in attempts to influence our children. Virgil M. Rogers, head of the Battle Creek, Michigan, schools, said subversive organizations are trying to "block, control and determine what American boys and girls read and say and hear."

UNDER THE DOME

On March 1 I received a commission and honorary membership in the United States Park Police. The award was made by Mr. Edward J. Kelly, superintendent of National Capital Parks, and Captain Mark Rasbery, chief of the Park Police. This was done in recognition of my interest in the Park Police.

At the requests of residents in an Allegany County community, I got in touch with the power company relative to the installation of power lines in that area.

As a member of the Public Buildings and Grounds Sub-Committee of the Public Works Committee, I went with the group on an inspection tour of government-owned ground in connection with their consideration of the Dispersal Bill, H. R. 1728. Land in both Maryland and Virginia was inspected.

Again I contacted the Veterans Administration relative to the closing of contact offices and was advised that they have asked the Bureau of the Budget to reconsider such a move on the basis of the work load rather than on contact offices. The Veterans Administraton feels that this should be the method of closing offices; however, no understanding has been reached as yet by the two agencies. I have brought the good work done by the contact offices to the attention of both agencies and hope the offices will be retained.

Time for a Scotch story, don't you think? This one concerns the evening Mrs. McDermott looked out the window just as the family was going on to dinner, and wailed, "Och, Sandy, here comes company. County Bird Club To Hear Maslowski

The Allegany County Bird Club will have Karl Maslowski as the speaker for the meeting tomorrow at 8 p. m., in Allegany High School auditorium.

A well known lecturer, naturalist and owner of a superb collection of colored films of North American animal life, Mr. Maslowski is to give an illustrated lecture on "Beneath Buckeye Skies."

A veteran of two and one half years in the Army Air Corps in the ETO, Mr. Maslowski has worked with the Ohio Division of Conservation as photographer-naturalist; with the University of Cincinnati, as lecturer in nature study; at the Cincinnati Museum of Natural History as curator of birds and written a weekly nature column as well as numerous illustrated articles on natural science.

In this different out-of-doors film, weird fantastic larvae transform to gorgeous butterflies. Wide-eyed screech owls and tiger-ish shrews, diminutive yet fierce, play leading roles. Whether out in the clear meadows, at the shrubby woods-edge or deep in the fern-cool forest, the wild creatures, large and small, winged or afoot, form parts of inter-balanced wildlife communities, which Karl Maslowski portrays and brings to life in his motion picture lecture program, "Beneath Buckeye Skies."

THE PROPER ACCESSORIES, WORN JUDICIOUSLY, CAN BE WHAT MAKE YOUR EASTER OUTFIT MEMORABLE

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Fashion Editor

The styles that make the headlines in the Easter parade often are accessories.

A dream of a hat, a dramatic handbag, an ingenious scarf, a new twist with a veil, a striking piece of costume jewelry, a belt, a fob, a pair of gloves—there are the things that give life to a costume, and make it memorable.

This year you may be making last year's suit do—but you can take your place in the big parade with a judicious choice of fresh accessories. The most important of these, of course, are gloves and hats. Frenen women long have known the secret of superlative chic—an outrageously pretty hat, perfectly coordinated gloves, smart shoes, and any simple little suit or dress you happen to own.

There's a graceful, feminine look to the 1951 silhouette when its stem-slim lines are offset by an important flattering hat and graceful gloves.

Top milliners recognize that this is the year for the "pretty hat, with wider brim, flower trimming, feminine veiling, in pale, delicate shades which are matched by the season's French kid and doeskin gloves.

Among the important pastels for Easter are: sherbet, a subtle off-white; creme, a butter shade, and French beige, a neutral to go with anything.

You'll be seeing these tints in hats by such noted milliners as Sally Victor, Laddie Northridge and Walter Florell, matched exactly to new glove colors.

One type of work that doesn't pay off is laboring under the idea that this old world owes you a living.

Brunets survive better than blonds in climates where there is an abundance of sunlight.

Want to know whether your voice is a liability or an asset? This test will give you your answer!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

WHEN and what was the last comment you received on your voice from someone you care about? Was it flattering...or stunning?

My reader correspondence proves that more and more women are realizing that a woman's voice is a major factor in her charm and success.

Whether your voice woos people to your side or makes them seek space elsewhere is a matter that is entirely within your control. If you have been pursuing an improved voice, this self-rating test will show you what progress you have made. If you've never given the latent power of your voice much thought, the quiz may point out a path you can take to boost your charm rating way above its present mark.

Think These Over

Get your pencil ready, but don't rush this quiz. Sit back and think very carefully before you mark "no" or "yes" to every question.

1. In small social gatherings, do you readily and easily gain the attention and interest of others when you are talking?

2. Has anyone ever said, "slow up," "not so loud," "I didn't hear you," or something similar to you?

3. Without having to resort to something that sounds heavy-handed, angry or hurt, do you usually gain your desired response?

4. Have you ever been accused of sounding bossy, bored affected or tired when you didn't feel that way?

Masculine Preference

5. Are you aware of the fact that men rate a pretty voice above a pretty face when seeking companionship from women?

If your voice is what it should be, only the first and last questions will be followed by a "yes". For your charm's sake, all others require a negative answer. If you missed one or more, you can depend on this column to help you add a new facet to your charm. Watch for the lessons dealing with voice. With just a little effort, you will see what you considered an everyday voice flower into an attractive effective, powerful tool in dealing with your public.

WASHINGTON

JOHN F. SHELLEY of San Francisco is being rehearsed to run against Senator Knowland in '52 . . . So say G. O. Powers . . . Basis for their charge: Representative Shelley comes from San Francisco and San Francisco was made regional headquarters for the all-powerful Office of Price Stabilization . . . Los Angeles with its much greater population, is f-u-u-uri-i-ous! One reason why Democrat Shelley's district got the plum: so that business men from all over the state, who will be begging favors from Price Stabilization headquarters, will have to trot to San Francisco —to Shelley's district, and to Shelley.

AUSTINE

"And don't think this price stabilization is not going to be a political weapon," moan Republicans. "It'll will be a rat race from start to finish—and we'll be the rats!"

Spring-Can't-Be-Far-Behind-Note: When crews on American airliners start dashing off poetry on those little slips of paper they pass around the planes to tell passengers about altitude, airspeed, and location—that's the day the robins are due.

The slip said, "Our position is over Philadelphia . . . Our Captain is R. Burford, stewardess, Miss M. Sorenson . . . First Officer, T. S. Grow.

Then followed this artistic outburst:

"'Tis mighty small we must appear
To those below who gaze up here,
And see us, a speck up in the sky
As southwest on our course we fly.
A mile we sit above the ground
Four miles a minute southwest bound,
And at 55 we'll be down
On scheduled time at Truman Town."

Anna Jean Harrison (mentioned in that mag article on "The Mystery Billionaire") sneaked down to the National Gallery, looked at the mystery billionaire Gulbenkian Collection with fervid attention . . . She's probably one of the few people who have met recluse Gulbenkian . . . And, if you can believe the article, the only woman who ever slammed a door on him! Right now she has the President of a foreign country mad for her!

Secretary of the Army Frank Pace resolved that his six-year-old Priscilla should know the facts of life —life in Washington . . . Why, the child didn't even know what her Daddy did for a living! So he began telling her about his job, and then gave her a short lecture on government, civics and patriotism . . . When he had finished, the tot said, "Daddy can I ask a question?"

"Of course, dear."

"Is 'President Truman' a boy or a girl?"

Ex-pot holder distributor, ex-school teacher, ex-farmer, ex-Naval officer in World War II, Horace Seely-Brown, Jr., considers his mission here is telling folks back home in five-cent words what it's all about.

This freshman Congressman with the fancy name, among other fresh ideas, plans to put out a miniature newspaper to constituents . . . "I promised that every six weeks I will report to all Republicans, as well as Democrats in my district what I'm doing. Why I'm doing it. Whether I'm living up to campaign promises."

Incidentally, during his unorthodox campaign (his big district covers almost half the State of Connecticut) he stopped at the door of every housewife and gave away pot holders reading: "Make a Note—Remember to Vote—For Seely-Brown."

The good-looking representative, who is married and has three kids, did not hold rallies; but he canvassed chosen homes, and asked them to invite 15 people in . . . He said he'd answer any questions . . . At the party he'd ask one of the 15 to ask 15 others. And so on ad electionitum . . . He specialized in visiting neighborhood housewives when they were out in the yard hanging up the wash . . . They'd agree to listen to his campaign speeches, "if you'll help me hang up the clothes."

In England not long ago a man with a great heritage crossed the bar . . . The 91-year-old Earl Nelson was great-great-nephew of the man who made history, not only at sea, but as the lover of the beautiful Lady Hamilton . . . When the aged Earl died, the 5,000 pounds pension which Britain awarded 'way back in 1806 to the heirs of the Great Admiral ceased . . . The decision to stop the pension came in 1946 when the government voted to put an end to it . . . The present heir to the title, 50-year-old Viscount Trafalger has calculated that in the 144 years since the pension was first granted, the Nelson Family and descendants have been given close to a million pounds by the British Government.

THE PROPER ACCESSORIES, WORN JUDICIOUSLY, CAN BE WHAT MAKE YOUR EASTER OUTFIT MEMORABLE

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Fashion Editor

The styles that make the headlines in the Easter parade often are accessories.

A dream of a hat, a dramatic handbag, an ingenious scarf, a new twist with a veil, a striking piece of costume jewelry, a belt, a fob, a pair of gloves—there are the things that give life to a costume, and make it memorable.

This year you may be making last year's suit do—but you can take your place in the big parade with a judicious choice of fresh accessories. The most important of these, of course, are gloves and hats. French women long have known the secret of superlative chic—an outrageously pretty hat, perfectly coordinated gloves, smart shoes, and any simple little suit or dress you happen to own.

There's a graceful, feminine look to the 1951 silhouette when its stem-slim lines are offset by an important flattering hat and graceful gloves.

Top milliners recognize that this is the year for the "pretty hat, with wider brim, flower trimming, feminine veiling, in pale, delicate shades which are matched by the season's French kid and doeskin gloves.

Among the important pastels for Easter are: sherbet, a subtle off-white; creme, a butter shade, and French beige, a neutral to go with anything.

You'll be seeing these tints in hats by such noted milliners as Sally Victor, Laddie Northridge and Walter Florell, matched exactly to new glove colors.

One type of work that doesn't pay off is laboring under the idea that this old world owes you a living.

Brunets survive better than blonds in climates where there is an abundance of sunlight.

Want to know whether your voice is a liability or an asset? This test will give you your answer!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

WHEN and what was the last comment you received on your voice from someone you care about? Was it flattering...or stunning?

My reader correspondence proves that more and more women are realizing that a woman's voice is a major factor in her charm and success.

Whether your voice woos people to your side or makes them seek space elsewhere is a matter that is entirely within your control. If you have been pursuing an improved voice, this self-rating test will show you what progress you have made. If you've never given the latent power of your voice much thought, the quiz may point out a path you can take to boost your charm rating way above its present mark.

Think These Over

Get your pencil ready, but don't rush this quiz. Sit back and think very carefully before you mark "no" or "yes" to every question.

1. In small social gatherings, do you readily and easily gain the attention and interest of others when you are talking?

2. Has anyone ever said, "slow up," "not so loud," "I didn't hear you," or something similar to you?

3. Without having to resort to something that sounds heavy-handed, angry or hurt, do you usually gain your desired response?

4. Have you ever been accused of sounding bossy, bored affected or tired when you didn't feel that way?

Masculine Preference

5. Are you aware of the fact that men rate a pretty voice above a pretty face when seeking companionship from women?

If your voice is what it should be, only the first and last questions will be followed by a "yes". For your charm's sake, all others require a negative answer. If you missed one or more, you can depend on this column to help you add a new facet to your charm. Watch for the lessons dealing with voice. With just a little effort, you will see what you considered an everyday voice flower into an attractive effective, powerful tool in dealing with your public.

P. S. from J. R. P.
YOUR STEPS TO A SUCCESSFUL CAREER

A worthwhile investment in charm for every girl starting a business career — every girl or woman now in business who is eager to reach top-flight success. It tells you how to make that important "good impression" to get your job . . . reveals secrets on how to hold your job. See how easy it is to choose a suitable wardrobe. Save time — uncertainity — needless worry through these short cut steps in charm that lead to YOUR SUCCESS. "House Of Magic" Show Planned At Allegany High

General Electric's famous "House of Magic" is scheduled to be presented in the Allegany High School auditorium the afternoon and evening of Friday, March 16, Potomac Edison Company, sponsors of the show, announced yesterday.

William A. Gluesing, magician and General Electric Company engineer, will present the show. The program for students will be given during the school hours. The show for the general public has been scheduled for 8 p. m. No admission will be charged.

This "House of Magic" show has been seen by well over 13,000,000 persons from coast to coast.

Now entering its 17th season, the "House of Magic" has attracted capacity crowds at each performance, and has proved so popular that new demonstrations are being constantly added to keep the show as up-to-date as possible.

funds—gasoline taxes, titling taxes and registration taxes—could be used for anything but road purposes.

Joseph Lanigan, a representative of the petroleum industry, said road taxes are collected from the motorist for the benefit of the motorist and it would be unfair to divert them for any other purpose.

"There has not been a single thing in Maryland that has contributed more to good schools than good highways," he said.

"It made consolidation possible and put an end to the little red school house."

Demo Plan Delayed.

Once again the Senate declined to act on the Democrats' outline for a seventh congressional district in Maryland. And again the delay was pushed by Senator Phipps (D-Anne Arundel), who has expressed dissatisfaction with his party's measure.

By a vote of 16-13, senators placed the bill on tomorrow's calender.

Governor McKeldin's main budget proposal is still under finance committee scrunity. He worked for hours today on supplemental budget recommendations, which may be presented the General Assembly next Monday night.

Kelly Springfield Engineer Accepts New Jersey Position

J. R. CONNELLY

John R. Connelly, 835 Braddock Road, chief engineer of the Kelly Springfield Tire Company, has accepted the position of engineer with the New Jersey Zinc Company, Palmerton, Pa.

Kelly officials, in announcing Connelly's action yesterday, said he will leave March 15 for his new post. No successor has been named.

Connelly came to Kelly as chief engineer September 17, 1946 after his discharge as a major from the Ordinance Department of the Army at Springfield, Mass.

Prior to that he had been with the Illinois Power and Light Corporation, the Engineer's Experiment Station of the University of Illinois; associate professor of industrial engineering at Lehigh University; and Western Electric Corporation.

He attended the universities of Pennsylvania, Illinois and Lehigh.

Connelly is married and the father of three children, John, Jr., Joan and Ann. His family will remain here until after the end of the school term.

While here he has been president of the Presbyterian Men's Council, a member of the Advisory and Appeal Board for Smoke Control, Rotary Club and Engineer's Club. He is also alternate Maryland member of the Interstate Commission of the Potomac River Basin, a member of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers and a registered engineer in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Connelly has authored numerous technical papers.

Condemnation Suit Initiated Here

The State Roads Commission, through its chairman, Russell H. McCain, yesterday filed a condemnation suit against the Clary Club and Liberty Trust Company, this city, the mortgagee, in connection with a parcel of land adjoining the club at Clarysville.

Comprising about .84 acres, the land is needed in relocating and eliminating curves on Route 55 between Clarysville and Vale Summit.

A check for $3,150 was deposited with Clerk of Court Joseph E. Boden by the commission to cover the estimated value of the land.

Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris has signed an order requiring the Clary Club and bank to appear in court on or before March 17 to show cause why the condemnation proceedings should not be allowed.

The State Roads Commission is undertaking a project whereby the Vale Summit road, long considered one of the most hazardous in this county, will be resurfaced, widened and curves eliminated. Part of the right-of-way work has been completed and as soon as weather permits the work will be resumed.

Democrats Back Local Bid For Army Laboratory

George P. Mahoney, Democratic national committeeman from Maryland, has sent telegrams to President Truman and Secretary of the Army Marshall in behalf of Cumberland's bid for a proposed Army Quartermaster laboratory.

Mahoney acted at the request of the Young Democrats Club of Allegany County, Leslie J. Clark president, said yesterday.

The Young Democrats in a wire to Mahoney said: "Cumberland x x x is being considered as a location of a Quartermaster Research laboratory. This county, normally Republican, was carried by Truman last time. President Truman has promised to exert every effort of the federal government to solve our unemployment problem here. That was on May 16, 1950, but to date, nothing has been done. This project is locally regarded as a test of the President's sincerity."

Francis W. Bush, executive secretary to Mahoney, replied to Clark that in addition to the President and Marshall, Mahoney also spoke to William M. Boyle chairman of the Democratic National Committee, about the city's request.

Young Democrats, meeting Monday at the Algonquin Hotel, were informed of action on their telegram. Graydon S. Dunlap, vice-president, presided in the absence of Clark who was ill.

Some 4,000,000 more hogs will be slaughtered in 1951 than were in 1950, according to the Agriculture department.

Four County Restoration Of Forests To Begin Soon

A reforestration project in Allegany, Garrett, Washington and Frederick counties will get underway next week provided the weather does not change for the worse, according to William H. Johnson, district forester.

Johnson said about 410,000 trees will be planted on private lands and an additional 50,000 in state forests of the district.

The bulk of the trees will be planted in Frederick county as part of the program in the Monocacy watershed. This project, which comprises Frederick and Carroll counties in Maryland and several adjacent counties in Pennsylvania, is being handled through the State Department of Forests and Parks and the U.S. Soil Conservation Service.

Planting of the trees on larger tracts will be expedited by the use of machines especially adapted to this work. One of the machines will be used in Garrett county.

The species selected include what are considered fast growing types. They are white pine, red pine, Scotch pine, white spruce, Norway spruce, arbor vitae, cedar trees and yellow poplar.

Principal reason for the plantings is to place in use idle or marginal lands, prevention of soil erosion and the increase in the income of land owners.

Johnson said that the trees will be ready within eight to 10 years as Christmas trees, 20 to 25 years as pulpwood, 40 to 50 years as small saw logs and as large size saw logs within 70 to 100 years.

Visitors to the Arbois, France, wine festival in 1950 were offered all the wine they could drink in an hour for the equivalent of 30 cents.

The victory was Barton's 19th of the season as against only three defeats. Two of the losses came at the hands of Fort Hill and the third from Allegany's Campers.

Chandler's Fate In Hands Of League Officials Monday

Meeting Is Scheduled To Pick Commissioner

BY JAMES RUSSELL

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 7—(INS)—The owners of the 16 major league clubs meet Monday in Miami Beach for a momentous session at which the fate of Baseball Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler is scheduled to be decided.

Chandler himself called the meeting at the request of the heads of both the American and National Leagues, and Chandler himself will be perhaps the most avid observer on the scene.

His $65,000-a-year job as commissioner is much in jeopardy, for the Florida meeting was called for the express purpose of choosing a commissioner of baseball.

Although Chandler is an outspoken candidate to succeed himself, there has been no positive indication that there are enough club owners supporting his candidacy to assure his re-nomination.

Just three months ago, the colorful ex-senator from Kentucky almost got the boot from the men who pay his salary and it was only at his own insistence that he has lasted this long.

By discreetly holding his ground, Chandler fought off his tormentors in a delaying action that brought on Monday's scheduled showdown and in the time that has elapsed since St. Petersburg, he is said to have lined up 11 of the 12 votes he needs.

The actual number of Chandler supporters varies from day to day, but it is known that he has some strong men like Connie Mack and Clark Griffith on his side.

Latest to board the Chandler band-wagon is Ellis Ryan, president of the Cleveland Indians. Ryan announced that he would vote for Chandler's re-election, saying he knows of no reason why Happy should be fired.

Such reputable national figures as Ohio Gov. Frank Lausche and former Postmaster-General James A. Farley have been mentioned as possible successors to the smiling Kentuckian who succeeded the late Kenesaw M. Landis.

If one of them—or someone else of that caliber—is chosen, the club owners are expected to buy up the remainder of Chandler's contract and install the new commissioner without delay.

Miami Amateur Leads Qualifiers

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 7 (AP) — Tim Holland, University of Miami amateur golfer, today scored a 34-33—67 to lead qualifiers in the $10,000 Miami Beach Open tournament starting tomorrow.

Holland's score was five under regulation figures for the 6,222-yard Bayshore Golf Club course where par is 36-36—72.

Three professionals tied for second among the 74 qualifiers with three under par 69s. They are Al Kreuger, Beloit, Wisc.; Earl Christiansen, Miami, and Jim Simpson, Santa Monica, Calif.

A field of 128 competed for the 74 places and it took a score of 76 or better to gain a starting place in the tournament. Sixty-nine were exempt from qualifying.

Rookie First Sacker Groomed As Catcher

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif., March 7 (AP)—Unpredictable Branch Rickey, never at a loss to introduce baseball novelties, is aiming at a new act for the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Williamsport Drops 66-42 Tilt To Coney

Losers Get Only 13 Markers In The Second Half

HAGERSTOWN, March 7—Central High's cagers held Williamsport to 13 points in the second half and downed the Washington County five 66-42 in the finals of the District No. 1 Class B state basketball championships here tonight.

The Williamsport cagers made a battle of it for the first two quarters, trailing only 17-14 and 36-29 at the close of the periods. But then Coach Johnny Meyers' Tigers got their defenses tightened and went to town.

Outscoring Williamsport 15 to 7 in the third quarter Central took a 51-36 lead into the final eight minutes of play and were never threatened.

Heading the 26-goal assult for the Lonaconing brigade were Kenneth Burt, Don McKenzie and Tom Kelly. Burt and McKenzie each racked up nine field goals with the former tallying 23 points and the latter 24. Kelly chipped in with 11.

In racking up their 18th victory in 24 starts this season Central gained the right to meet the District No. 2 Class B finalists at Frostburg either Monday or Tuesday of next week. The game will be played on Beall High's court.

Kelly and Jim Stafford of Central were the only two players ejected on personals during the game with the latter leaving in the third period and Kelly going out in the fourth. The lineups:

Brigham Young Cagers To Vie For Grand Slam

Team Doesn't Have Regulation Court

PROVO, Utah, March 7 (AP) — A team that lacks even a regulation size floor on which to practice is attempting a grand slam in America's college basketball.

Brigham Young University has tickets to the National Invitational Tournament in New York's Madison Square Garden and to the western regional NCAA playoffs in Kansas City.

Yet at their home in this central Utah town of 29,000 the BYU Cougars practice on the third floor of a teacher training school building. Their practice floor is less than standard size and its out of bounds markings are along the room's outer edges.

How does it happen that a school with such meager facilities consistently is a power in western basketball? University authorities say it's largely because the Latter-Day Saints (Mormon) Church, which owns and operates Brigham Young University, emphasizes basketball in its youth program.

Brigham Young has an enrollment of 5,600 students. About 95 per cent of them are Mormons. Virtually all of them grew up in communities in which the church's basketball program has an active place.

The school's basketball facilities will be much better for next season. Now nearly completed is a $1,100,000 field house which will accommodate nearly 10,000 spectators. Brigham Young has played its home games this year in the University of Utah fieldhouse in Salt Lake City, about 40 miles away.

Brigham Young has won 24 of its 31 games this season. It has rolled up 2,027 points for an average of 65.4 per game. Opponents have been held to an average of 54.7. And in the seven games it lost, Brigham Young's deficit was just 4.4 points per game. Two of the losses were by one point margins.

George Ratterman, New York Yankee football quarterback, set a club record in 1950 with 140 completions in 294 attempts for 2,251 yards.

SRC Head Defends Group On "Dereliction" Charge

House Asks Official Investigation Of Case

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 7 (AP)—A member of the racing commission defended it today against complaints it is more concerned with welfare of track owners than the public.

Wilbur R. Dulin, one of the three commissioners, spoke in rebuttal to a resolution introduced Monday night in the House of Delegates asking for an investigation of the commission.

Dulin used a letter to House Speaker Luber (D-Balto 5th) as the means to give his personal assurance that "the interest of the state and of the public will be protected."

Delegates Tawney and Buffington of Baltimore's third district said in their resolution that the commission "evidently is more concerned with the interests and welfare of the tracks and of private individuals than with the interests and welfare of the citizens of the entire state."

They asked for appointment of five delegates to inquire if the commission has been "derelict in its public trust."

Dulin, a former state senator from Anne Arundel County, said he believed the resolution may have been prompted by the commission's silence on its investigation of the Bowie track.

In other matches last night all were decided by 3-0 scores except SERC-Clingerman's tilt. SERC copped two games. Other results Cresap Tavern defeated Woodmen of the World, Moose topped Veterans of Foreign Wars, Stadium Inn tripped Frostburg American Legion.

High scorers were Vi Gibson, B. Lee and C. Harmison for Cresap Tavern each with 21 points; W. Champ Keeps Title; Battle Goes Limit

Ezzard Booed By Crowd After Gaining Unanimous Decision

DETROIT, March 7 (AP)—Ezzard Charles retained his heavyweight title tonight by winning a unanimous decision from Jersey Joe Walcott, in a 15-round bout before 13,852 fans at Olympia Stadium.

The crowd, which was with underdog Walcott all the way, booed more than it cheered when the decision was announced.

Walcott was given a terrific hand by the fans before he left the ring.

Charles was staggered by Walcott in the fourth round and Charles floored Jersey Joe for a nine count in the ninth.

Charles was booed as he stepped out of the ring.

For one long minute in the fourth round, old Jersey Joe Walcott held the world's heavyweight title in his grasp. But it was not to be as Heavyweight Champion Ezzard Charles shook off the effects of a powerful right to the jaw and came back to win a unanimous 15-round decision and retain his title.

Boos rang through the Olympic Stadium as the 13,852 fans greeted the verdict with one cat-call after another.

The fans thought 37-year-old Jersey Joe had deserved the nod in his fourth, and no doubt final shot at the prized title.

Down to 193 pounds, the lightest he has weighed in four years, the Camden, N. J. veteran gave the 29-year-old campion the scare of his life. It was Ezzard's seventh title defense and his toughest. The crown almost tottered from his brow in that long sixty seconds.

Walcott caught the lean Cincinnati champ with a smashing overhand right to the head and Charles was staggered.

From then on Charles was more cautious, so cautious that booes rang out in several of the rounds but the champion piled up points.

Blackwell To Hurl

TAMPA, Fla., March 7 (AP) —Manager Luke Sewell gave his Cincinnati Reds a "vacation" today—they only had one workout. And there will be only a light drill tomorrow prior to an intra-squad game.

The reason for all that is that Sewell believes his lads have rounded into excellent shape already. "Not a one of our pitchers has a sore arm," he said. "There hasn't been a suspicion of charley-horse."

Sewell also said he would give Ewell Blackwell his first pitching assignment in tomorrow's intra-squad tilt. Blackwell, on whose right arm a big part of the Reds' hopes rest, was reported by Sewell to be "rarin' to go."

Hancock No Match For Winners; Arnold Tichnell Scores 23

Barton's rampaging Braves continued toward their second straight state Class C title by trouncing Hancock last night on the Campobello court here by a convincing 66 to 27 score for the District No. 1 title.

Coach John Thomas' high-scoring machine hopped off to a 21-12 lead in the initial quarter and were never in danger thereafter. Quarter scores were 40-19 and 55-23.

Arnold Tichnell, high scoring center who took the Western Maryland Interscholastic title, grabbed offensive laurels again last night by pounding the hoops for nine field goals and five of eight free throws for 23 markers. Tim Clark was runner-up in the 25-goal parade by the Barton hoopsters with 15 tallies.

The victory was Barton's 19th of the season as against only three defeats. Two of the losses came at the hands of Fort Hill and the third from Allegany's Campers.

Scoring honors for the outclassed Hancock five went to Faith with 11 points. The lanky forward tallied five of his team's 12 goals.

Chandler's Fate In Hands Of League Officials Monday

BY JAMES RUSSELL

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 7—(INS)—The owners of the 16 major league clubs meet Monday in Miami Beach for a momentous session at which the fate of Baseball Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler is scheduled to be decided.

Chandler himself called the meeting at the request of the heads of both the American and National Leagues, and Chandler himself will be perhaps the most avid observer on the scene.

His $65,000-a-year job as commissioner is much in jeopardy, for the Florida meeting was called for the express purpose of choosing a commissioner of baseball.

Although Chandler is an outspoken candidate to succeed himself, there has been no positive indication that there are enough club owners supporting his candidacy to assure his re-nomination.

Just three months ago, the colorful ex-senator from Kentucky almost got the boot from the men who pay his salary and it was only at his own insistence that he has lasted this long.

By discreetly holding his ground, Chandler fought off his tormentors in a delaying action that brought on Monday's scheduled showdown and in the time that has elapsed since St. Petersburg, he is said to have lined up 11 of the 12 votes he needs.

The actual number of Chandler supporters varies from day to day, but it is known that he has some strong men like Connie Mack and Clark Griffith on his side.

Latest to board the Chandler band-wagon is Ellis Ryan, president of the Cleveland Indians. Ryan announced that he would vote for Chandler's re-election, saying he knows of no reason why Happy should be fired.

Such reputable national figures as Ohio Gov. Frank Lausche and former Postmaster-General James A. Farley have been mentioned as possible successors to the smiling Kentuckian who succeeded the late Kenesaw M. Landis.

If one of them—or someone else of that caliber—is chosen, the club owners are expected to buy up the remainder of Chandler's contract and install the new commissioner without delay.

Champ Keeps Title; Battle Goes Limit

Ezzard Booed By Crowd After Gaining Unanimous Decision

DETROIT, March 7 (AP)—Ezzard Charles retained his heavyweight title tonight by winning a unanimous decision from Jersey Joe Walcott, in a 15-round bout before 13,852 fans at Olympia Stadium.

The crowd, which was with underdog Walcott all the way, booed more than it cheered when the decision was announced.

Walcott was given a terrific hand by the fans before he left the ring.

Charles was staggered by Walcott in the fourth round and Charles floored Jersey Joe for a nine count in the ninth.

Charles was booed as he stepped out of the ring.

For one long minute in the fourth round, old Jersey Joe Walcott held the world's heavyweight title in his grasp. But it was not to be as Heavyweight Champion Ezzard Charles shook off the effects of a powerful right to the jaw and came back to win a unanimous 15-round decision and retain his title.

Boos rang through the Olympic Stadium as the 13,852 fans greeted the verdict with one cat-call after another.

The fans thought 37-year-old Jersey Joe had deserved the nod in his fourth, and no doubt final shot at the prized title.

Down to 193 pounds, the lightest he has weighed in four years, the Camden, N. J. veteran gave the 29-year-old campion the scare of his life. It was Ezzard's seventh title defense and his toughest. The crown almost tottered from his brow in that long sixty seconds.

Walcott caught the lean Cincinnati champ with a smashing overhand right to the head and Charles was staggered.

From then on Charles was more cautious, so cautious that booes rang out in several of the rounds but the champion piled up points.

Blackwell To Hurl

TAMPA, Fla., March 7 (AP) —Manager Luke Sewell gave his Cincinnati Reds a "vacation" today—they only had one workout. And there will be only a light drill tomorrow prior to an intra-squad game.

The reason for all that is that Sewell believes his lads have rounded into excellent shape already. "Not a one of our pitchers has a sore arm," he said. "There hasn't been a suspicion of charley-horse."

Sewell also said he would give Ewell Blackwell his first pitching assignment in tomorrow's intra-squad tilt. Blackwell, on whose right arm a big part of the Reds' hopes rest, was reported by Sewell to be "rarin' to go."

St. Francis-Spas, Hagerstown-Fort Hill Clash Here Tonight

College Quint With 19-3 Mark Seeks 2nd Win Over Local Pros

Victory Would Put Spas In .500 Class, Game Set For 9 P. M.

Coach William V. Keegan's greatly improved Cumberland Spas, who have clinched a playoff berth in the All-American Professional Basketball League, will be out to avenge one of their early season defeats tonight when they tackle St. Francis College, of Loretto, Pa., one of the top ranking Collegiate quints of the tri-state district and leader of the Eastern Catholic Intercollegiate League, tonight at 9:15 o'clock on SS. Peter and Paul court.

Lost First Game

In their second game of the current campaign, the Spas dropped a 64-55 decision to Coach "Skip" Hughes' Frankies in a hard-fought affair and Coach Keegan is confident the locals are capable of upsetting the tables in the return tilt.

St. Francis comes here with a record of 19 wins and three losses. Next Tuesday the Frankies open play in the National Catholic Invitation Tournament at Albany, N. Y.

Spas Nearing .500

The Spas will be engaging in their 26th game of the season tonight and they need one more victory to reach the .500 class. Keegan's hoopsters, led by the sharpshooting Ed "Whitey" Mathewson who has rolled up 383 points in 23 games for a 16.7 average, boast a record of 12 wins and 13 losses to date. The locals have won seven out of their last nine starts and in their last six games they've racked up 553 points—an average of 92.1 per game—including last Sunday's 110-56 decision over the Altoona Flyers.

John Bodner and Ed Sharick are St. Francis College's "big guns" with over 300 points each to their credit. Other members of the Loretto aggregation are George Banchansky, Bill Wanish, John Clancy, Walter Stapleton, Andrew Hleba, Ray Palonis, John O'Brien, Ed Dugan, Gene Phelps, Lou Chernauskas, Pat Farce and Frank Collins.

Average 78.7 Points

The Frankies have been averaging 78.7 points per game and their victimes include V.P.I., Quantico Marines, Creighton U., Iona College, Akron U., Youngstown, Texas Wesleyan, Westminster, Geneva and Upsala.

Tonight's game looms as one of the best attractions of the season and a real battle is in store for the fans.

Blue Speed Cops Another

Wins Third In Row At Gulfstream Park

HALLANDALE, Fla., March 7 (AP)—Blue Speed, which has a knack of winning for different owners, made it three in a row here this winter as he sped to victory in the featured seventh race, a test for three-year-olds, that drew a field of twelve useful springers at Gulfstream Park this afternoon.

Blue Speed ran for the first time in the silks of Savoy Stable, which claimed the colt from Perne Grissom on March 1 for $10,000. Before that Grissom had haltered the colt from Mrs. Wallace Gilroy for the same amount, also at Hialeah. He has won for all three of these owners.

Though placed to a strong drive, Blue Speed got home a neck before A. H. Warner's Loridale in the brisk time of 1.10 2/5 for the six-furlongs and paid a liberal $12.10 straight. Loridale, last out, had finished ninth in the Bahamas Handicap.

Hampton Stable's Alerted, bred by Calumet Farm, was third, two lengths farther back, while Fred W. Hooper's Officious, the 2 to 1 favorite, finished a full fourth, while racing on the outside all the way.

School Cagers Play Class 'A' District Final

Sentinels Are Choice To Win Third In Row From Hub City Quint

The Class "A" basketball championship of District No. 1, comprising the counties of Allegany, Garrett, Washington and Frederick, will be at stake tonight when Fort Hill High School meets Hagerstown High School tonight at 8 o'clock on the Fort Hill floor.

A two-times winner in their regular season series, Fort Hill is favored to make it three straight over Coach Mel Henry's team tonight. Scores of the first two games were 53-41 and 66-49.

Fort Hill won the toss for this game after eliminating Frederick High School's Cadets on Tuesday night at Hagerstown by the score of 59-55. Frederick split even with the Hubs during the regular season.

Hagerstown rung down the curtain on its regular schedule last week-end, suffering a 64-45 trouncing at the hands of Chambersburg High School. It was the 5th loss against 13 victories for the Maroon and Gray.

Major John J. Cavanaugh's Hilltoppers have won their last four games, have a season's record of 21-2, piled up 1,254 points, an average of 54.5 per game, and won the city, W. M. I. League and Allegany County Class "A" titles.

The Scarlet and White also is undefeated in 11 games played on the home floor this season.

Tonight's winner will play the victor in the Montgomery Blair (Silver Spring) and Maryland Park High (Seat Pleasant) District No. 2 final also set for tonight.

Officials for tonight's game here are Gordon Eismon, Charles Town, and Estel "Eck" Miers, Piedmont.

The highest attendance at Ebbets Field for a single baseball game was 37,512 when the Dodgers played the Giants Aug. 30, 1947.

Crosley Field in Cincinnati was dedicated on Saturday afternoon, May 18, 1912.

Only two members of the 22-man University of Florida basketball team live out of the state.

Rudy Valentino, captain and star tumbler on the Penn State gymnastics team, is also a Lion cheerleader.

St. Francis-Spas, Hagerstown-Fort Hill Clash Here Tonight

Victory Would Put Spas In .500 Class, Game Set For 9 P. M.

Coach William V. Keegan's greatly improved Cumberland Spas, who have clinched a playoff berth in the All-American Professional Basketball League, will be out to avenge one of their early season defeats tonight when they tackle St. Francis College, of Loretto, Pa., one of the top ranking Collegiate quints of the tri-state district and leader of the Eastern Catholic Intercollegiate League, tonight at 9:15 o'clock on SS. Peter and Paul court.

Lost First Game

In their second game of the current campaign, the Spas dropped a 64-55 decision to Coach "Skip" Hughes' Frankies in a hard-fought affair and Coach Keegan is confident the locals are capable of upsetting the tables in the return tilt.

St. Francis comes here with a record of 19 wins and three losses. Next Tuesday the Frankies open play in the National Catholic Invitation Tournament at Albany, N. Y.

Spas Nearing .500

The Spas will be engaging in their 26th game of the season tonight and they need one more victory to reach the .500 class. Keegan's hoopsters, led by the sharpshooting Ed "Whitey" Mathewson who has rolled up 383 points in 23 games for a 16.7 average, boast a record of 12 wins and 13 losses to date. The locals have won seven out of their last nine starts and in their last six games they've racked up 553 points—an average of 92.1 per game—including last Sunday's 110-56 decision over the Altoona Flyers.

John Bodner and Ed Sharick are St. Francis College's "big guns" with over 300 points each to their credit. Other members of the Loretto aggregation are George Banchansky, Bill Wanish, John Clancy, Walter Stapleton, Andrew Hleba, Ray Palonis, John O'Brien, Ed Dugan, Gene Phelps, Lou Chernauskas, Pat Farce and Frank Collins.

Average 78.7 Points

The Frankies have been averaging 78.7 points per game and their victimes include V.P.I., Quantico Marines, Creighton U., Iona College, Akron U., Youngstown, Texas Wesleyan, Westminster, Geneva and Upsala.

Tonight's game looms as one of the best attractions of the season and a real battle is in store for the fans.

Wins Third In Row At Gulfstream Park

HALLANDALE, Fla., March 7 (AP)—Blue Speed, which has a knack of winning for different owners, made it three in a row here this winter as he sped to victory in the featured seventh race, a test for three-year-olds, that drew a field of twelve useful springers at Gulfstream Park this afternoon.

Blue Speed ran for the first time in the silks of Savoy Stable, which claimed the colt from Perne Grissom on March 1 for $10,000. Before that Grissom had haltered the colt from Mrs. Wallace Gilroy for the same amount, also at Hialeah. He has won for all three of these owners.

Though placed to a strong drive, Blue Speed got home a neck before A. H. Warner's Loridale in the brisk time of 1.10 2/5 for the six-furlongs and paid a liberal $12.10 straight. Loridale, last out, had finished ninth in the Bahamas Handicap.

Hampton Stable's Alerted, bred by Calumet Farm, was third, two lengths farther back, while Fred W. Hooper's Officious, the 2 to 1 favorite, finished a full fourth, while racing on the outside all the way.

School Cagers Play Class 'A' District Final

Sentinels Are Choice To Win Third In Row From Hub City Quint

The Class "A" basketball championship of District No. 1, comprising the counties of Allegany, Garrett, Washington and Frederick, will be at stake tonight when Fort Hill High School meets Hagerstown High School tonight at 8 o'clock on the Fort Hill floor.

A two-times winner in their regular season series, Fort Hill is favored to make it three straight over Coach Mel Henry's team tonight. Scores of the first two games were 53-41 and 66-49.

Fort Hill won the toss for this game after eliminating Frederick High School's Cadets on Tuesday night at Hagerstown by the score of 59-55. Frederick split even with the Hubs during the regular season.

Hagerstown rung down the curtain on its regular schedule last week-end, suffering a 64-45 trouncing at the hands of Chambersburg High School. It was the 5th loss against 13 victories for the Maroon and Gray.

Major John J. Cavanaugh's Hilltoppers have won their last four games, have a season's record of 21-2, piled up 1,254 points, an average of 54.5 per game, and won the city, W. M. I. League and Allegany County Class "A" titles.

The Scarlet and White also is undefeated in 11 games played on the home floor this season.

Tonight's winner will play the victor in the Montgomery Blair (Silver Spring) and Maryland Park High (Seat Pleasant) District No. 2 final also set for tonight.

Officials for tonight's game here are Gordon Eismon, Charles Town, and Estel "Eck" Miers, Piedmont.

The highest attendance at Ebbets Field for a single baseball game was 37,512 when the Dodgers played the Giants Aug. 30, 1947.

Crosley Field in Cincinnati was dedicated on Saturday afternoon, May 18, 1912.

Only two members of the 22-man University of Florida basketball team live out of the state.

By JOHN KAMPS

GREAT FALLS, Mont.—(AP)—Dr. Paul P. McBride and his Red Cross nurses are breaking records in Montana in the collection of blood for wounded fighting men in Korea.

Driving over snow-covered mountain roads and blizzard-swept prairies, McBride's bloodmobile is averaging one pint of blood a mile in an area which has less than two persons per square mile.

Working 60 hours a week, the doctor and his nurses collected 2,025 pints of blood in February, while the temperature dropped to nearly 50 degrees below zero.

McBride's 31-county area is 600 by 400 miles, but it has only 291,000 residents. Of these, 2,250 greeted the mobile blood collection unit. That's a turnout equivalent to about 600,000 in New York City.

The bloodmobile arrived with a blizzard at Valier, Northern Montana town lashed by bitter winds from Glacier Park mountains, but 242 offered their blood. The town's population is 750.

A similar turnout in New York City would be about 1,500,000 persons. It would be more than 720,000 in Chicago, nearly 500,000 in Philadelphia.

The temperature was 18 below zero at Glasgow in Northeastern Montana, but donors drove as far as 50 miles to give their blood. It was 20-below and blizzarding at Harlem, Indian reservation town in Northern Montana, but 189 of the 1,175 residents turned out, including Indians traveling by sleigh and horseback.

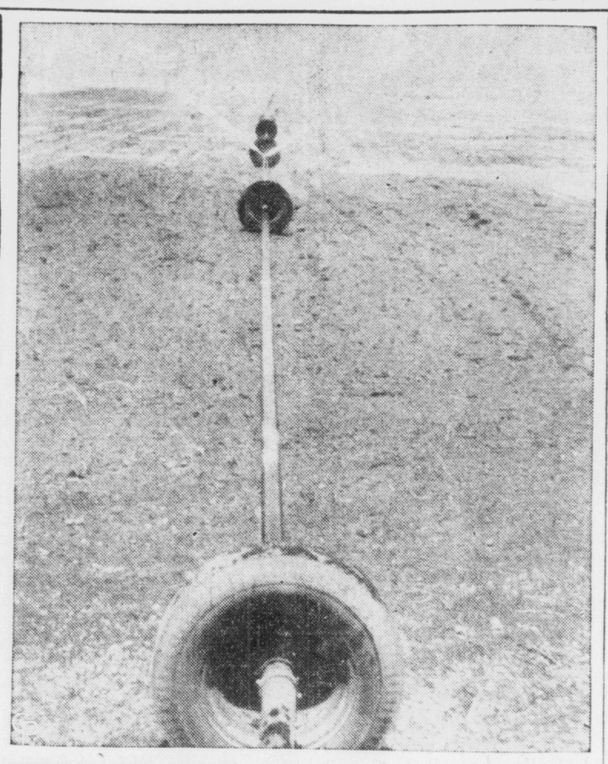
Seventy per cent of the Great Northern Railway shop crew at Havre offered blood and it was taken from 210 men. Blood was taken from 200 of the 600 inmates of the Montana prison at Deer Lodge.

Red Cross officials believe blood collection per capita is a record in Montana. They point out that blood is taken only from persons 18 to 59 years old and from those medically-fit, about 60 per cent of the population. This means that about half the number of eligible donors turned out in some Montana towns.

Collections of the Montana bloodmobile jumped 450 per cent since the Korean war began. Most of the blood is flown to Korea, but McBride still is keeping about 40 Montana hospitals supplied.

Six Red Cross nurses who travel with the bloodmobile are helped by more than 100 nurses being trained by McBride in towns visited regularly. Arrangements for the visits are made by Red Cross chapters.

"These Montana people are amazing," said McBride who came to Montana from Portland, Ore. "I've never seen anything like them."



STOCKMAN ERVIN SCHMIDT of Beryl, Ut., has set up a sprinkler system on wheels that is the envy of his rancher-neighbors. Schmidt got the idea when he discovered how much it would cost to grade 20 acres for irrigation by flooding. His wheel-move system, 900 feet long, is made of four-inch tubing with collars welded into the wheels, and 16-inch wheels with tires. The sprinklers are 60 feet apart and have a sprinkling radius of 60 feet. (International)

Musician Regains His Sight As He Romps With Children

GLENDALE, Calif., (AP) —Bouncing around with children in a happy backyard romp, Gilbert Sawyer regained his sight after a year and a half of blindness.

Sawyer, 42, a musician, told the story today. As little Michael Humburger, his wife's three-year old grandson, grabbed him around the neck and kissed him, Sawyer said he suddenly could see.

"Everything I looked at seemed to smash into my face," said Sawyer, who was plunged into a world of darkness by an explosion in 1949. Sight returned only to the left eye, but a doctor said it was "quite likely" that vision also might be restored to the right eye.

Dr. Clarence H. Albaugh gave this explanation:

"Sawyer struck his head during the explosion and due to a hemorrhage or a clot forming in the brain his vision was cut off. I told him more than a year ago that he had a good chance to regain his sight if he would build up his general health to the maximum level.

"His whole eye apparatus was perfectly normal. It was a case of the receiving or interpretative center of the brain being damaged.

"In other words, his eye was taking pictures, but his brain was unable to interpret them."

Sawyer, it was learned, had twice received light flashes recently, indicating that sight might be returning.

Best of all—

He saw his wife, Frances, for the first time. They met at the Braille Institute and were married last November. She is not blind.

Berlin Reds Woo Westerners With Talks With Mayor

BY TOM REEDY

BERLIN (AP)—East Berlin Communists are trying to win West Germans with honey now.

The city administration has inaugurated a "come into my parlor" game for the thousands of residents of West Germany who visit the Soviet sector over a year's time to see relatives or friends.

In the last few weeks, Mayor Fritz Ebert has taken it upon himself to woo these visitors.

As soon as a West German enters the Soviet sector, his presence is recorded by the people's police. Under the German system whereby a traveler must announce himself to the police, this is a simple proposition. The list of visitors is sent daily to Mayor Ebert's office.

From the Mayor himself then comes an invitation to the visitor to come to the City Hall for a chat. Most of the invitations draw a response because the West German does not want to embarrass the relative or friend he is visiting.

The Mayor receives the West German in his private office and sits him or her before a table decked with coffee, cake and liqueur. Cigarets and cigars are available.

The bewildered visitor may be only a shoemaker but to Ebert he is a very important person. The talk shifts from conditions in the west to conditions in the east. The Mayor and his staff go to great lengths to describe the success of the program in East Berlin and East Germany.

The Soviet area is presented as a place where Germans don't have much, but they have enough and what they have is their own. Whenever possible, Ebert digs at the west as an area where current prosperity some day will have to be paid out of German pocketbooks.

The talk is very pleasant and the Mayor says how pleased he is to be able to sit across the table with another German despite east-west barriers.

As the visitor leaves, he is handed leaflets describing the East German democratic republic, and the Mayor suggests that he show his western friends how things are here. The people's police usher the visitor out as though he owned the place.

There is only one flaw in the scheme. The visitor returns to the west, sees high quality goods on the store shelves, plenty of food and bustling business. No matter how Ebert painted East Berlin, he didn't see these things there.

Diamonds, coal and the graphite used in pencils are all forms of pure carbon.

Little To Stop Red Army In Event Of Mid-East Invasion, Expert Says

NEW YORK—(INS)—A warning that Soviet Russia could drive to any point in the oil-rich Middle East in "a matter of days" was voiced yesterday in an article appearing in the United Nations World.

Such an invasion could be carried out by land or airborne operations, the magazine said in an article by Don Peretz, an expert on Middle East problems.

The article pointed out that although there is only "negligible native Communist strength" in the Middle East "the weakest prop in any defense scheme . . . is the great underprivileged masses of the population."

"Only the Communists have made any appeal to these broad masses of the people," the publication said. It added:

"Anglo-American strategy has been based solely on the geographical containment of Russia by military means. It has overlooked the weak ideological foundation upon which these means are based."

The article emphasized that the only ground force of any competent size in the Middle East is the Turkish army numbering from 400 to 500 thousand mep. It described the forces of other Arab states as "lilliputian."

(Editor's Note: Turkey has proposed to the State Department in Washington that the United States join in the treaty of mutual assistance against military aggression that was signed in 1939 by Turkey, Great Britain and France. The suggestion is under government consideration).

The inventor of the little metallic heel plate realized $1,500,000 in royalties annually for several years.

Gov. Patteson Sends Green Bag To W. Va. Senate

Area Citizens May Get Appointments

CHARLESTON, W. Va., (AP) — Appointments sent to the Senate Wednesday by Gov. Patteson included that of C. E. Nethken of Keyser, reappointed to the Public Service Commission.

The Senate had indicated it will meet in secret session Friday to consider the appointments.

If confirmed, Nethken's new term will run to May 31, 1955.

Mrs. Katherine M. Fisher of Moorefield was named for a three-year term as a representative citizen member of the State Board of Health.

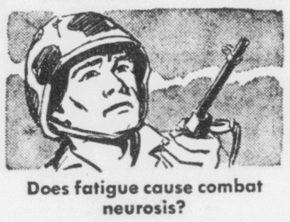
MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Can paying bills be a pleasure?

Answer: Believe it or not, yes. I once knew a man who told me quite sincerely: "I am always happy when the first of the month comes around so that I can get my bills paid." He had an exaggerated dread of being in debt which made him find actual pleasure in the feeling that he owed nothing to anybody. But while such a feeling is, no doubt, slightly neurotic, it is no less so to be unhappy and resentful at having to pay for what you have bought and enjoyed. The implied belief that your creditors "owe you a living" is as childish as belief in Santa Claus.



Does fatigue cause combat neurosis?

Answer: Not in itself, writes Dr. Frederick R. Hanson in the Bulletin of the U. S. Army Medical Department. What physical exhaustion does is to lower the soldier's "resistance to the emotional stress of combat." But such changes in resistance are "reversible" as the fatigue wears off, so that an important part of the treatment of mental casualties in forward areas is to provide complete physical rest through warmth, food, sleep and sedatives. You, too—if you can—should learn to have a night's sleep before facing serious problems.

May suspicions reflect secret wishes?

Answer: Yes, if they are without real foundation. When you believe something which you have no real ground for thinking, it is apt to be because you either want or "need" to do so to preserve your peace of mind. If you are planning to wrong someone, you may need to suspect him of hostile intentions to you because this is the one way to salve your conscience. A dishonest person usually suspects everyone of trying to cheat him, and a wife or a husband who suffers from groundless jealousy may have an unconscious wish to be unfaithful.

Hill was sentenced to one to five years in the state penitentiary but was paroled for three years under good behavior and the payment of court costs by next term of court.

Hoye White, 39, of Thomas, pleaded guilty to brandishing a weapon when he appeared before Judge Ernest A. See and fined $50. Costs must be paid by next term of court.

Delbert Turner, Hendricks, pleaded not guilty to charge of incest and will stand trial on Monday March 19 at which time the petit jury has been summoned.

The case of Luke Mullenaux vs. Everett Price in a $10,000 alienation of affections suit is set for March 22.

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Can paying bills be a pleasure?

Answer: Believe it or not, yes. I once knew a man who told me quite sincerely: "I am always happy when the first of the month comes around so that I can get my bills paid." He had an exaggerated dread of being in debt which made him find actual pleasure in the feeling that he owed nothing to anybody. But while such a feeling is, no doubt, slightly neurotic, it is no less so to be unhappy and resentful at having to pay for what you have bought and enjoyed. The implied belief that your creditors "owe you a living" is as childish as belief in Santa Claus.

Does fatigue cause combat neurosis?

Answer: Not in itself, writes Dr. Frederick R. Hanson in the Bulletin of the U. S. Army Medical Department. What physical exhaustion does is to lower the soldier's "resistance to the emotional stress of combat." But such changes in resistance are "reversible" as the fatigue wears off, so that an important part of the treatment of mental casualties in forward areas is to provide complete physical rest through warmth, food, sleep and sedatives. You, too—if you can—should learn to have a night's sleep before facing serious problems.

May suspicions reflect secret wishes?

Answer: Yes, if they are without real foundation. When you believe something which you have no real ground for thinking, it is apt to be because you either want or "need" to do so to preserve your peace of mind. If you are planning to wrong someone, you may need to suspect him of hostile intentions to you because this is the one way to salve your conscience. A dishonest person usually suspects everyone of trying to cheat him, and a wife or a husband who suffers from groundless jealousy may have an unconscious wish to be unfaithful.

Edmond O'Brien has taken off 30 pounds in the past seven weeks by running the four-mile track course at UCLA every morning. He looks terrific.

Lee Tracy is being given a big welcome by all of his pals. He's been a great "success" on Broadway and has returned to Hollywood for a brief visit.

I couldn't believe it when someone told me that Gregory Ratoff was back in town having dinner with Charles Feldman and Linda Darnell. Sure enough, Greg is back after months in Europe. He's here to see his mother and to attend to some business.

Leslie Charteris, mystery writer, walked into Ciro's with RKO's lovely Audrey Long on his arm. Created quite a stir.

Jackie Cooper arrives in New York in several weeks following his successful run in "Mister Roberts" with Tyrone Power in London. He'll come on to the coast to see his baby whom he hasn't seen in over a year.

That is all today. See you tomorrow!

Most Headaches Psychological, Doctor Declares

CHICAGO—(INS)—The patient with the severe headache usually gives the doctor one, too.

Dr. Russell N. Dejong, professor of neurology at the University of Michigan, told a meeting at the annual clinical conference of the Chicago Medical Society that the great majority of headaches are psychological in origin.

He told the doctors:

"Patients with headaches of this type represent a challenging therapeutic problem to the physician. Many patients have already consulted many different physicians and have had various treatment regimes advised. . . .

"Often we get a history that there is temporary relief with every new physician and with every new therapy, but still the headaches persist and interfere with the patient's work, home life, and so on."

To aid such patients, Dr. De Jong noted, it is vital that the doctor succeed in gaining their confidence, learn all he can about their backgrounds, homes, work situations and childhood.

For it is only when the doctor has such an understanding of the patient with the headache, according to Dr. De Jong, that he is able to understand the factors which bring on the pain.

Dr. De Jong explained:

"It is essential to help the patient understand that anxiety, fear, depression and frustration may cause physiologic changes that can bring on a headache."

The doctor can explain, Dr. De Jong pointed out, that tension is transmitted through the muscles to the nerves and thence to nerve centers that cause pain in the head.

Similarly, he added, it can be explained that anger causes dilation and contraction in the blood system which can and often does bring pain in the skull.

Said Dr. De Jong:

"The important part of the therapy is the treatment of the total personality, helping the patient to understand his conflicts and overcome his anxieties and tensions."

The Michigan specialist stressed that headaches are a symptom, not a disease, and cautioned that the presence of a severe or frequent headache warrants a complete examination to determine whether it might have a definite physical origin—such as brain tumor or sinus disease.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK (INS)—THOUSANDS OF questions emerging from the mass uprooting of civilians now being called into the armed forces are neatly answered in the "Handbook For Servicemen," by Parnell Callahan (Oceana Publications, New York, $1.)

Callahan, a member of the New York Bar, was a captain in the Judge Advocate General's department in the last war. With that background, he appears to know just what's eating the average draftee or retreated reservist.

Debts, for example. Will your car, television, refrigerator, etc., be repossessed because you can no longer pay for it on, say, $75 a month?

No, or practically no, says Callahan. But you must apply to a state or federal court for relief, if granted, will apply not only through the term of your service but for six months after discharge. You can do it through your legal officer.

But the courts offer full protection usually only to those men whose service income is substantially below the money they were making as civilians. Men who receive commissions (a captain's basic pay is $487 a month, for instance) have a smaller chance of impressing a court.

Courts are similarly interested in protecting the man or firm to whom the money is owed, Callahan points out. A draftee who still owes, say, $1,250 or a $2,000 car, and, aside from the down payment has made only one monthly payment, may have the car repossessed—with the court's understanding that he gets back all or most of his dough.

Insurance payments? The government will insure each member of the armed forces for $10,000, but a great percentage of these men have been paying private insurance premiums for years. Once again the courts must be appealed to, to reduce those premiums to figures which the serviceman can pay on his abbreviated new income, or declare a holiday on payments until the insured can get back into the groove of civilian life again.

But those servicemen who make as much in uniform as they were making out of it, or more, must keep up their insurance payments, or lose their policies.

Support of dependents? A draftee is required to continue to support his wife and minor children. He may appeal for aid under the Soldiers and Sailors Civil Relief Act. A divorced draftee paying alimony may have his payments reduced under the same act, if he can prove hardship. Dependent-duckers may be court-maritaled.

Taxes? All state and federal taxes, by and large, including those already owed, are pigeon-holed throughout the duration of service, plus six months after discharge. No such relief, however, is given to those ex-civilians whose income was derived from stocks, bonds, etc. still earning money during his stay in the forces.

Savings? Enlisted personnel are permitted to deposit their savings in sums of not less than $5 with any finance officer. Such savings draw at the rate of four per cent interest a year. The savings cannot be withdrawn until the saver is discharged.

Income from injuries? To gain full benefits, one must be injured "in the line of duty, and not as a result of his own misconduct." But "line of duty" became very flexible during World War II and remains so. Callahan's pamphlet states that an injury received while playing tennis during a furlough will be considered a "line of duty" injury.

Transportation of dependents? Commissioned officers, warrant officers and enlisted men of the first three grades, together with enlisted men of the fourth grade having more than seven years' service, are entitled to transportation at government expense for their dependents when they are ordered to make a permanent change of station."

Marriage? No serviceman stationed outside the continental United States may marry without permission of the theater commander.

Discharges? They range from honorable to dishonorable, and have several variations. A "general discharge" means that the man has failed to meet the high standards required for an honorable discharge, but it entitles the vet to all benefits under the G. I. Bill of Rights.

An "undersirable discharge" holder may apply to the Veterans Bureau for certain rights accorded other vets, but his case and plea are given extreme scrutiny. A "bad conduct" discharge definitely bars certain veterans' boons, and a "dishonorable discharge" may entail loss of civil rights.

Lot of solid stuff in "Handbook For Servicemen."

"Texas Look" Demonstrated

DALLAS—(AP)—You'll be seeing the "Texas look" at our country clubs and resorts this summer.

This was demonstrated to fashion writers as the initial summer showings of Texas dress manufacturers got under way. Opening the two-day showing was the collection of Malouf-Holmes, showing simple, thriftily priced cottons in the shorts-shirt-skirt combinations that have become the U. S. summer leisure uniform.

Cool, washable outfits for golf, tennis or just plain loafing were shown in high-color chambrays and cotton broadcloths, with the special tailored touches that distinguish the designs of the casual southwest.

Chaiken showed a series of sleeveless, full-skirted cottons in such colors as deep red, peacock, bottle green and lilac, as simple as grandpa's nightshirt, but capable of being dressed up or down by assessories to make them suitable for any occasion from morning shopping at 5 o'clock cocktails on the club terrace.

Most of the styles shown will retail at less than $20, wash like a handkerchief and look cool and fresh.

Edmond O'Brien has taken off 30 pounds in the past seven weeks by running the four-mile track course at UCLA every morning. He looks terrific.

Lee Tracy is being given a big welcome by all of his pals. He's been a great "success" on Broadway and has returned to Hollywood for a brief visit.

I couldn't believe it when someone told me that Gregory Ratoff was back in town having dinner with Charles Feldman and Linda Darnell. Sure enough, Greg is back after months in Europe. He's here to see his mother and to attend to some business.

Leslie Charteris, mystery writer, walked into Ciro's with RKO's lovely Audrey Long on his arm. Created quite a stir.

Jackie Cooper arrives in New York in several weeks following his successful run in "Mister Roberts" with Tyrone Power in London. He'll come on to the coast to see his baby whom he hasn't seen in over a year.

That is all today. See you tomorrow!

TOUGH GOING doesn't bother Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, Commander of the 8th Army, as he smilingly slogs his way along a muddy path during a visit to a Marine Command post on the Wonju front. He invariably packs a grenade—just in case. (International)

Most Headaches Psychological, Doctor Declares

CHICAGO—(INS)—The patient with the severe headache usually gives the doctor one, too.

Dr. Russell N. Dejong, professor of neurology at the University of Michigan, told a meeting at the annual clinical conference of the Chicago Medical Society that the great majority of headaches are psychological in origin.

He told the doctors:

"Patients with headaches of this type represent a challenging therapeutic problem to the physician. Many patients have already consulted many different physicians and have had various treatment regimes advised. . . .

"Often we get a history that there is temporary relief with every new physician and with every new therapy, but still the headaches persist and interfere with the patient's work, home life, and so on."

To aid such patients, Dr. De Jong noted, it is vital that the doctor succeed in gaining their confidence, learn all he can about their backgrounds, homes, work situations and childhood.

For it is only when the doctor has such an understanding of the patient with the headache, according to Dr. De Jong, that he is able to understand the factors which bring on the pain.

Dr. De Jong explained:

"It is essential to help the patient understand that anxiety, fear, depression and frustration may cause physiologic changes that can bring on a headache."

The doctor can explain, Dr. De Jong pointed out, that tension is transmitted through the muscles to the nerves and thence to nerve centers that cause pain in the head.

Similarly, he added, it can be explained that anger causes dilation and contraction in the blood system which can and often does bring pain in the skull.

Said Dr. De Jong:

"The important part of the therapy is the treatment of the total personality, helping the patient to understand his conflicts and overcome his anxieties and tensions."

The Michigan specialist stressed that headaches are a symptom, not a disease, and cautioned that the presence of a severe or frequent headache warrants a complete examination to determine whether it might have a definite physical origin—such as brain tumor or sinus disease.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK (INS)—THOUSANDS OF questions emerging from the mass uprooting of civilians now being called into the armed forces are neatly answered in the "Handbook For Servicemen," by Parnell Callahan (Oceana Publications, New York, $1.)

Callahan, a member of the New York Bar, was a captain in the Judge Advocate General's department in the last war. With that background, he appears to know just what's eating the average draftee or retreated reservist.

Debts, for example. Will your car, television, refrigerator, etc., be repossessed because you can no longer pay for it on, say, $75 a month?

No, or practically no, says Callahan. But you must apply to a state or federal court for relief, if granted, will apply not only through the term of your service but for six months after discharge. You can do it through your legal officer.

But the courts offer full protection usually only to those men whose service income is substantially below the money they were making as civilians. Men who receive commissions (a captain's basic pay is $487 a month, for instance) have a smaller chance of impressing a court.

Courts are similarly interested in protecting the man or firm to whom the money is owed, Callahan points out. A draftee who still owes, say, $1,250 or a $2,000 car, and, aside from the down payment has made only one monthly payment, may have the car repossessed—with the court's understanding that he gets back all or most of his dough.

Insurance payments? The government will insure each member of the armed forces for $10,000, but a great percentage of these men have been paying private insurance premiums for years. Once again the courts must be appealed to, to reduce those premiums to figures which the serviceman can pay on his abbreviated new income, or declare a holiday on payments until the insured can get back into the groove of civilian life again.

But those servicemen who make as much in uniform as they were making out of it, or more, must keep up their insurance payments, or lose their policies.

Support of dependents? A draftee is required to continue to support his wife and minor children. He may appeal for aid under the Soldiers and Sailors Civil Relief Act. A divorced draftee paying alimony may have his payments reduced under the same act, if he can prove hardship. Dependent-duckers may be court-maritaled.

Taxes? All state and federal taxes, by and large, including those already owed, are pigeon-holed throughout the duration of service, plus six months after discharge. No such relief, however, is given to those ex-civilians whose income was derived from stocks, bonds, etc. still earning money during his stay in the forces.

Savings? Enlisted personnel are permitted to deposit their savings in sums of not less than $5 with any finance officer. Such savings draw at the rate of four per cent interest a year. The savings cannot be withdrawn until the saver is discharged.

Income from injuries? To gain full benefits, one must be injured "in the line of duty, and not as a result of his own misconduct." But "line of duty" became very flexible during World War II and remains so. Callahan's pamphlet states that an injury received while playing tennis during a furlough will be considered a "line of duty" injury.

Transportation of dependents? Commissioned officers, warrant officers and enlisted men of the first three grades, together with enlisted men of the fourth grade having more than seven years' service, are entitled to transportation at government expense for their dependents when they are ordered to make a permanent change of station."

Marriage? No serviceman stationed outside the continental United States may marry without permission of the theater commander.

Discharges? They range from honorable to dishonorable, and have several variations. A "general discharge" means that the man has failed to meet the high standards required for an honorable discharge, but it entitles the vet to all benefits under the G. I. Bill of Rights.

An "undersirable discharge" holder may apply to the Veterans Bureau for certain rights accorded other vets, but his case and plea are given extreme scrutiny. A "bad conduct" discharge definitely bars certain veterans' boons, and a "dishonorable discharge" may entail loss of civil rights.

Lot of solid stuff in "Handbook For Servicemen."

"Texas Look" Demonstrated

DALLAS—(AP)—You'll be seeing the "Texas look" at our country clubs and resorts this summer.

This was demonstrated to fashion writers as the initial summer showings of Texas dress manufacturers got under way. Opening the two-day showing was the collection of Malouf-Holmes, showing simple, thriftily priced cottons in the shorts-shirt-skirt combinations that have become the U. S. summer leisure uniform.

Cool, washable outfits for golf, tennis or just plain loafing were shown in high-color chambrays and cotton broadcloths, with the special tailored touches that distinguish the designs of the casual southwest.

Chaiken showed a series of sleeveless, full-skirted cottons in such colors as deep red, peacock, bottle green and lilac, as simple as grandpa's nightshirt, but capable of being dressed up or down by assessories to make them suitable for any occasion from morning shopping at 5 o'clock cocktails on the club terrace.

Most of the styles shown will retail at less than $20, wash like a handkerchief and look cool and fresh.

New "At-Home" Look

Good-by to Smoking Jackets

FASHION: Old-time smoking jackets are being supplanted by sport shirts. John Conte (left), of TV's "Star Time," wears a new type that is ideal for lounging and television-watching. Of rayon gabardine, it comes in several colors

Anniversary This column completes its first year today. I'd like to mark the occasion by saying thanks to the many nice people who have indicated that they like it.

Motor Hints: Don't use harsh scouring powder to remove curb markings on white wall tires. A scrub with soap and water will do the job without scratching the surface. . . . Keep a container of soapy water and another of clean water in the glove compartment—against the day you have to make repairs.

Drinking Notes: Friends tell me that a pat of butter, swallowed before going out on a big night, will keep you in better shape—being a temperate man, I wouldn't know

Incidental Information: WNBC's "Answer Man" informs us that the average man of seventy has spent five whole months tying and untying his shoelaces! . . . B.V.D.s were named for their original distributors—Bradley Voorhees & Day.

Sleeve Pressing: Next time you have a suit pressed, don't have the sleeves creased. Your suit will have a better, more casual appearance—and will wear longer Signal the tailor for "rolled sleeves" (shown at right) by turning up one cuff (left)

Amateur Chef: If you're going to make sandwiches and the bread is too fresh—chill it in the refrigerator before using. . . . Cooking outdoors? Rub bottoms of pots and pans with a wet cake of soap first—soot is easily wiped off afterward.

New Ideas: Lightweight, stockingfoot-type, hip-length boots of plastic that can be carried in pocket. . . . Red muslin nightshirts—for laughs and for comfortable sleeping. . . . Argyle colors and patterns in ties—to match socks.

Odd Items: Auto accidents in '50 killed 3,500 more people than in '49. . . . Sammy Kaye often writes music arrangements on restaurant tablecloths—and has to buy 'em to take along. . . . The first commercial TV set that Dr. Du Mont made, in 1938, still works perfectly. . . . "Pass the Cigars" to comedian Morey Amsterdam, who didn't wait for the USO but financed his own troupe to visit camps and hospitals.

Hearing Date Changed For Three Officers

A hearing for three probationary members of the Police Department dismissed for "conduct unbecoming an officer" will be held Wednesday, March 21 instead of March 24, the Civil Service Commission announced.

H. Clifford Spiker, chairman, said Karl W. Frankfort, Vernon E. Browning and Lewis A. Miller, filed an appeal to the board on February 24 after their dismissal.

The men, having a total of 14 months service with the department, were suspended indefinitely on January 30 as a result of an incident at Midway Inn on McMullen Highway, early on the morning of January 28.

Organized Reserves Must Attend Summer Camps

BALTIMORE— (AP) —Maryland members of the Army's Organized Reserve Corps will have to have gilt-edged excuses to avoid 15 days of field training this year.

Col. Arthur L. Shreve, chief of the Maryland Military District, estimates about 1,100 officers and 1,400 enlisted men in the state will have to go to camp.

"Only under the most compelling circumstances will reservists be excused from training," he said.

Col. Shreve asked employers to cooperate by extending military leave so reservists can go to camp. Fifteen days of field training will be required. The schedule starts in May.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

FASHION: Old-time smoking jackets are being supplanted by sport shirts. John Conte (left), of TV's "Star Time," wears a new type that is ideal for lounging and television-watching. Of rayon gabardine, it comes in several colors

Anniversary: This column completes its first year today. I'd like to mark the occasion by saying thanks to the many nice people who have indicated that they like it.

Motor Hints: Don't use harsh scouring powder to remove curb markings on white wall tires. A scrub with soap and water will do the job without scratching the surface. . . . Keep a container of soapy water and another of clean water in the glove compartment—against the day you have to make repairs.

Drinking Notes: Friends tell me that a pat of butter, swallowed before going out on a big night, will keep you in better shape—being a temperate man, I wouldn't know

Incidental Information: WNBC's "Answer Man" informs us that the average man of seventy has spent five whole months tying and untying his shoelaces! . . . B.V.D.s were named for their original distributors—Bradley Voorhees & Day.

Sleeve Pressing: Next time you have a suit pressed, don't have the sleeves creased. Your suit will have a better, more casual appearance—and will wear longer Signal the tailor for "rolled sleeves" (shown at right) by turning up one cuff (left)

Amateur Chef: If you're going to make sandwiches and the bread is too fresh—chill it in the refrigerator before using . . . Cooking outdoors? Rub bottoms of pots and pans with a wet cake of soap first—soot is easily wiped off afterward.

New Ideas: Lightweight, stockingfoot-type, hip-length boots of plastic that can be carried in pocket. . . . Red muslin nightshirts—for laughs and for comfortable sleeping. . . . Argyle colors and patterns in ties—to match socks.

Odd Items: Auto accidents in '50 killed 3,500 more people than in '49. . . . Sammy Kaye often writes music arrangements on restaurant tablecloths—and has to buy 'em to take along. . . . The first commercial TV set that Dr. Du Mont made, in 1938, still works perfectly. . . . "Pass the Cigars" to comedian Morey Amsterdam, who didn't wait for the USO but financed his own troupe to visit camps and hospitals.

Hearing Date Changed For Three Officers

A hearing for three probationary members of the Police Department dismissed for "conduct unbecoming an officer" will be held Wednesday, March 21 instead of March 24, the Civil Service Commission announced.

H. Clifford Spiker, chairman, said Karl W. Frankfort, Vernon E. Browning and Lewis A. Miller, filed an appeal to the board on February 24 after their dismissal.

The men, having a total of 14 months service with the department, were suspended indefinitely on January 30 as a result of an incident at Midway Inn on McMullen Highway, early on the morning of January 28.

Organized Reserves Must Attend Summer Camps

BALTIMORE— (AP) —Maryland members of the Army's Organized Reserve Corps will have to have gilt-edged excuses to avoid 15 days of field training this year.

Col. Arthur L. Shreve, chief of the Maryland Military District, estimates about 1,100 officers and 1,400 enlisted men in the state will have to go to camp.

"Only under the most compelling circumstances will reservists be excused from training," he said.

Col. Shreve asked employers to cooperate by extending military leave so reservists can go to camp. Fifteen days of field training will be required. The schedule starts in May.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

T B H H S K V T W S D Z R K Q H O T B L, W B T R Z O R D F W T B O T F R E K O?—N O P Z O.

Stock Prices Turn Upward Following Two-Day Decline

NEW YORK, March 7 (AP) — A stiffening in the motor shares today provided the base for a rally in the stock market.

Prices turned upward after a two-day decline. The advance was modest, around a dollar a share among the leaders. Declines were held in somewhat the same range.

Volume expanded a bit on the upswing to 1,700,000 shares, the best in a couple of weeks. Yesterday in a declining market the volume contracted sharply to 1,490,000 shares, the lowest in six months.

That action was heartening to the bulls who cite it as evidence of fundamental strength of the market.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks moved up 30 cents to $95.20. The industrial component advanced 50 cents, the rails 30 cents and utilities 10 cents.

Packard Motor again today was the most active issue up ½ at 6¾ a new high for 1950-51. There were 106,100 shares traded.

International Telephone was second most active up ½ at 18⅛. General Motors was ninth most active up ¾ at 51¾.

Some issues stood out sharply in contrast the rest of the market, especially in its early stages.

position on the Appropriations subcommittee, to which he was appointed with Taft's acquiescense. And the Taft camp in turn relies on McCarthy's "revelations" to fuel the Taft boom.

Eisenhower is now the only man who can beat Taft for the nomination, and he must know it. He must also know what the results are likely to be if a major American party becomes committed to McCarthyism at home and the foreign policy views of Col. Robert R. McCormick abroad. The signs may be illusory, and Taft may yet stand out as the great spokesman of the true conservative interest which his admirers believe him capable of being. Yet the Eisenhower supporters confidently expect Taft to make up Eisenhower's mind for him, forcing Eisenhower to become a candidate in order to safeguard everything he believes in.

Stock Prices Turn Upward Following Two-Day Decline

NEW YORK, March 7 (AP) — A stiffening in the motor shares today provided the base for a rally in the stock market.

Prices turned upward after a two-day decline. The advance was modest, around a dollar a share among the leaders. Declines were held in somewhat the same range.

Volume expanded a bit on the upswing to 1,700,000 shares, the best in a couple of weeks. Yesterday in a declining market the volume contracted sharply to 1,490,000 shares, the lowest in six months.

That action was heartening to the bulls who cite it as evidence of fundamental strength of the market.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks moved up 30 cents to $95.20. The industrial component advanced 50 cents, the rails 30 cents and utilities 10 cents.

Packard Motor again today was the most active issue up ½ at 6¾ a new high for 1950-51. There were 106,100 shares traded.

International Telephone was second most active up ½ at 18⅛. General Motors was ninth most active up ¾ at 51¾.

Some issues stood out sharply in contrast the rest of the market, especially in its early stages.

Textron raised its dividend to 50 cents as against 25 cents previously paid. It closed up ⅝ at 22⅞.

Homestake mining, the nation's biggest gold producer, fell 1¼ at 40¾.

position on the Appropriations subcommittee, to which he was appointed with Taft's acquiescense. And the Taft camp in turn relies on McCarthy's "revelations" to fuel the Taft boom.

Eisenhower is now the only man who can beat Taft for the nomination, and he must know it. He must also know what the results are likely to be if a major American party becomes committed to McCarthyism at home and the foreign policy views of Col. Robert R. McCormick abroad. The signs may be illusory, and Taft may yet stand out as the great spokesman of the true conservative interest which his admirers believe him capable of being. Yet the Eisenhower supporters confidently expect Taft to make up Eisenhower's mind for him, forcing Eisenhower to become a candidate in order to safeguard everything he believes in.

City Election Bills Approved By Delegation

Frostburg Finance Bill Passes House

The Allegany County Delegation yesterday released with favorable reports three bills which would make Cumberland elections conform with the present fiscal year and provide for continuous registration.

The first, House Bill 472, would change the date from which the Mayor and Council of Cumberland hold office from the first Monday in April to the first Monday in July following their election.

The second, House Bill 473, sets up a system of continuous registration for municipal elections in the City of Cumberland.

The third, House Bill 474, changes the date of Cumberland city elections from the third Tuesday in March to the third Tuesday of June of each even year.

A spokesman for the delegation indicated that the bills are expected to pass the House within a few days.

Passed by the House yesterday were bills relating to Frostburg and Westernport.

Bills Pass House

The first, House Bill 396 introduced by the Allegany County Delegation, would authorize the Mayor and Council of Frostburg to borrow up to $100,000 for town improvements.

The measure authorizes the expenditure of up to $50,000 for improvements and extensions of the city's water system, $25,000 for street and highway improvements and $25,000 for improvements and enlargement of the city's sewer and sewage disposal system.

The second, House Bill 407, sponsored by Delegate Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., specifies that the town of Westernport shall be liable for damage suits for injury only if notice in writing is given to the Mayor and Council within 30 days after injury is suffered.

It also provides that the town shall not be liable for damage or injury on any public street, highway or grounds, including accumulation of ice or snow, or public work in the town, unless the defect has not been called to the attention of town authorities at least 24 hours prior to the injury or damage, and proper diligence has not been used.

Hearing Is Planned

Charles M. See, chairman, said the Allegany County Delegation will hold a hearing Tuesday at 3 p. m. at the State House, Annapolis, on House Bill 444, setting up a special taxing area in Bowling Green.

The bill would authorize the levying of a tax of not more than 30 cents on each $100 of assessable property to maintain a lighting system and fire hydrants and a tax of not more than 25 cents to defray the costs of installing and purchasing water pipes and hydrants effective until installation costs are met. It also authorizes a nine-member Citizens Committee to borrow up to $20,000 to finance the installation of the program. The bill carries a referendum provision.

To Consider New Offices

The Senate is slated to resume consideration of Phipps' office building measure. The Anne Arundel senator has urged a new $5,000,000 state building just outside Annapolis. His proposal ran into trouble last month because the budget had not yet been passed. The constitution says all financial measures must follow the budget through the legislature.

Phipps' bill is a special order of business for the Senate, but associates said he wanted to keep it on the shelf until the budget clears the Senate. That could take three more weeks.

Finance Caucus Set

All 18 Senate Democrats were slated to go into caucus to hear a subcommittee report on state finances. Party leaders are aiming for a united front on state

Dr. Murray Has Long Service

Dr. F. A. G. Murray, who will be honored by Old Rail Post No. 6025, Veterans of Foreign Wars, at Mt. Savage at 8 o'clock tonight is the second oldest physician in Allegany county in point of service and probably holds a similar rank in the entire state.

The honored physician has 53 years of service to his credit. The only medical man in the county who surpasses him in longevity of service is Dr. A. H. Hawkins, Cumberland, who has been a physician for 56 years. It is believed that no other physicians in the state have such lengthy records.

A veteran of World War I, Dr. Murray is a charter member of Old Rail Post. Principal speaker at tonight's open meeting will be Thomas B. Finan, Cumberland attorney and veteran of World War II.

WEATHER

Apparently the pleasant weather Cumberlanders have been enjoying is coming to an end. Today's prediction is for some cloudiness and colder with the high around 50. Yesterday was intermittantly sunny and cloudy with some wind.

Five Generations Together

These five Cumberlanders, whose ages cover a range of almost 90 years, got together for this traditional five generation picture. They gathered at 401 Beall Street for this family group picture shortly after the 91st birthday of Mrs. Sophie Hoenicka, of the Beall Street address. She observed her birthday last Friday. In the group, left to right, are retired Fire Chief Reid C. Hoenicka, 62, of 119 Polk Street; Mrs. Margaret H. Lindner, 41, of 104 Park Street; Mrs. Sophie Hoenicka, Mrs. Rita V. Stofer, 21, of 104 Park Street, and Kenny D. Stofer, 22 months.

Conlon Heads Armed Forces Observance

Civilian, Military Groups To Parade

Thomas F. Conlon, local postmaster, has been appointed chairman of the Armed Forces Day Committee which will organize preparations for the observance to be held here May 19, according to Lt. Col. Lewis W. Shropshire, senior project officer.

Conlon will coordinate the various members of committees and attend to sending out letters to members of fraternal, civic, business and professional groups as well as invitations to city, county, and legislative officials.

Roland Tabler, commander of Knobley Mountain Post No. 136, American Legion, Ridgeley, said yesterday that application forms for the West Virginia Veterans Bonus are expected to be available on July 1, 1951.

The bonus which was enacted into law by passage of enabling legislation by the 50th West Virginia Legislature on February 5, 1951 will be received by eligible veterans of World War I and World War II.

Tabler added that a special staff will be set up by the Ridgeley post to assist veterans in making applications.

Those eligible include veterans of World War I with at least 90 days' active duty in the United States Armed Forces between April 6, 1917, and November 11, 1918 inclusive; or if less than 90 days' active duty within those dates, were discharged because of a service connected disability.

Veterans of World War II with at least 90 days' active duty in the armed forces between December 7, 1941 and September 2, 1945 inclusive are eligible. City Trucker Hospitalized In Highway Mishap

Vehicle Plunges Over 75-Foot Embankment

Marshall Spencer, 464 Goethe Street was admitted to the Tucker County Hospital in Parsons, W. Va., yesterday morning following an accident on U. S. Route 219 about one mile east of Parsons, W. Va.

At 9:30 o'clock yesterday morning Spencer was enroute to Hambelton, W. Va. He had slowed down the truck on Route 219 in order to turn into Route 72 into Hambelton but the truck continued across the highway and went over a 75 foot embankment.

The driver either jumped or was thrown from the cab of the truck as it plummeted down the embankment clipping off a telephone pole, several trees and turned completely over before it came to a stop near a large tree.

Produce from the loaded truck was strewn over the area and the vehicle itself was demolished. Passengers on a Reynolds bus coming along the highway after the truck said the truck failed to make the turn and careened across the highway.

Bernard A. Harris, warehouse foreman of the local branch office said last night that possibly the brakes failed as the driver attempted to make the turn. He said that Spencer crawled up the bank following the mishap and an automobile that was at the scene took him to the Tucker County Hospital for treatment.

Spencer's left ear was severely cut but the hospital physicians were able to save it from being taken off. He also received cuts about the head.

Sheriff D. E. Crosten of Tucker County is investigating the accident.

Kimble Finds $15,400,000 "Pot Of Gold" To Provide Salary Boost For Teachers

Suggests Grabbing Of SRC Titling Tax Surplus

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 7 (AP)—Sen. Kimble (R-Allegany) today reported discovery of a "pot of gold" for giving school teachers their requested pay raise.

He said there is $15,400,000 of surplus titling taxes on motor vehicles which the state should grab. It would be enough to give teachers a $300 raise for the next three years, the minority floor leader said.

Kimble sprung the news of his "strike" on a Senate dominated by Democrats who had been prospecting feverishly for money to give teachers a raise without raising taxes.

Kimble told them if they have the moral courage to take funds from the roads commission "we have the money, we can find the money and we can make the necessary adjustments" in teacher pay.

Kimble, under questioning by Democratic Sens. Melincove of Baltimore City's Fourth District and Turnbull of Baltimore County, said he had not informed Republican Gov. McKeldin of his "find." He added he was not reporting it as minority leader either, only as senator from Allegany County.

Kimble said he hadn't had time to tell the Governor or other Republicans of his plan because he started gathering the facts only this morning.

Turnbull sarcastically praised Kimble for arriving in a matter of hours "at a solution of this problem the Governor has not been able to solve in the months since the general election."

Suggests $300 Boost

The Governor and Senate Democratic leaders both have opposed teacher raises if it means new taxes. A $500 yearly hike has been asked for them, but Sen. Kimble proposed $300 as a "reasonable increase."

"The General Assembly is perfectly justified in taking back from the roads commission" surplus titling taxes because "not one cent can be justified as highway tax revenue," Kimble argued.

He traced the history of the tax in support of his argument. The two per cent levy on car purchases was started in the 1936 depression as "aid to the needy."

Three years later, receipts were disbursed like other general funds. Then in 1947 they were dedicated to amortization of $100,000,000 in highway bonds. Any surplus is to be used for road construction.

Kimble estimated the surplus at the end of this fiscal year will be more than $15,000,000. During the first three years of the tax it brought in $15,640,000 and only $2,235,521 had to be set aside to amortize the $50,000,000 in issued bonds. The commission expects to issue the rest of the bonds this year and in 1953, Kimble said.

"Every dollar over and above that necessary to guarantee the bonds should be taken back," declared the Allegany senator. "No one can accuse us of taking highway revenues because it should not have been given them originally."

Draws SRC Fire

The titling tax, he contended, is a sales tax similar to that on a suit of clothes and as such should be expended for general purposes.

The subject of putting the titling tax back in general funds came up yesterday at a Senate Finance Committee meeting. Russell H. McCain, roads commission chairman, said it would "mean that much less for road construction and also endanger the bond issues to which it is pledged."

Shortly after Kimble made his speech, the House Judiciary Committee held a hearing on a measure to amend the constitution to bar for all time just what Kimble proposed.

The house bill would rewrite the constitution to specify that no road

Reid Is Praised For Service On Fire Department

Parker Slated For Temporary Position

Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long last night accepted with reluctance the resignation of Assistant Fire Chief R. Paul Reid from the Cumberland Fire Department.

In a letter acknowledging the resignation request of the veteran fire fighter, Commissioner Long said:

"Your rapid rise from the ranks and your many years of loyal and unselfish devotion to duty in the Cumberland Fire Department is a splendid tribute to your efficient public service.

"I want to express my gratitude for your excellent work as an executive officer; for your diligent labor in the Inspection Department, and for your untiring efforts in the Civilian Defense program from the time of its inception up to and including the present.

"Your unswerving devotion to your many duties and your intelligent service won for you the admiration of your associates."

Assistant Chief Reid, in his resignation, asked that he be placed on the city's pension lists as of March 15. He terminated his duties with the department, which he entered July 1, 1920, on Tuesday.

Commissioner Long said Capt. Virgil Parker, of East Side Fire Company, will be named as acting assistant fire chief on March 15 and will serve in that capacity until April, when the Civil Service Commission will hold examinations for all police and fire posts.

He began work in the department January 18, 1925.

Capt. Parker, the oldest men in service on the department, become eligible for the post as the present Civil Service list does not contain a candidate certified as chief or assistant chief.

County Boards Discuss Boost For Teachers

State Action Is Awaited Here

Allegany County's Board of Commissioners and Board of Education held a three-hour joint session at the school board office but reached no decision concerning suggested teachers salary increases for the 1951-52 school year.

William H. Lemmert, president of the board of commissioners, said that one of the difficulties is the uncertainty as to what the State Legislature will do in the matter. Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, state superintendent of schools, some weeks ago suggested that each Maryland teacher receive a salary increase from the state of $500 per year. Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin has opposed any increase by the state.

There has been some indication from Annapolis that a compromise of $300 per teacher may be the result.

Have Two Proposals

Harold C. Wickard, chairman of the legislative committe of the Allegany County Teachers Association, yesterday offered two suggestions for pay raises, he said. Neither appeared to meet with favor from the county commissioners, he added. Other members of that committee who met with the two county boards were Joseph K. Haugen and Ralph R. Webster.

Although he would not divulge specific details, Wickard stated that one of the proposals was based on the assumption that the state would raise salaries $500 and the other on the assumption that the state increase would be less than $500.

Presently, Allegany county teachers receive a starting salary of $2,400 per year and a maximum of $3,900. The top figure, Wickard said, is reached after 17 years, with $100 increases each year. The state range is between $2,200 and $3,800.

Wickard said that he presented to the two boards figures which showed that teachers are paid less than many laboring people in this county. For instance, he stated that an apprentice in the B&O shops gets $208 per month while a starting teacher receives only $200 per month. In addition, after four years, the apprentice's salary goes to $3,800 whereas it takes the teacher 17 years to get to $3,900.

Comparative Figures

Employes in the City of Cumberland's Street Department are paid $1.15 per hour, Wickard asserted, which is more than many teachers receive. As another illustration, he noted that the Cumberland Transit Company bus drivers turned down a guaranteed annual salary of $3,700, which is more than the majority of teachers obtain in compensation.

Wickard stated that he spoke for approximately 575 teachers and principals in the county school system.

Lemmert indicated that the commissioners will have further meetings with the school board before reaching a decision.

The teachers' spokesman said the commissioners informed him that a decision would be reached by the March 13 meeting of that body.

Wickard added that his committee plans to go to Annapolis the day after the commissioners act, to confer with the county delegation about a local bill which would provide a county supplement to the pay increase granted by the state.

First Parcel For Housing Project Bought

2.86 Acres Acquired From F. A. Wempe

The Housing Authority of the City of Cumberland has purchased its first piece of real estate in the Mapleside area on which the first project of Cumberland's low rent housing program will be constructed, James B. Raines, executive director of the authority, announced yesterday.

This first parcel consists of 2.86 acres of land and was purchased from Frederick A. Wempe. The deed for this property will be recorded today in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of the Allegany County Circuit Court by Thomas B. Finan, the authority's attorney.

An additional six acres will be acquired in a short time, Raines added.

The first parcel will be the site for 125 homes. It is located in the general area bounded by First Street, Memorial Avenue, Somerville Avenue and Second Street.

Raines stated yesterday that the allocation of $1,297,440 for constructing this first project received the approval of President Truman's office on February 6. The first installment of $68,000 was received by the local authority February 19.

S. Russ Minter, local architect, has nearly completed the intermediate drawings for the project. The authority hopes that the construction can be let by spring.

Finan said last night that in the event the defense preparations should cause a curtailment in the construction of low rent housing the local authority has received assurances that the project still will be approved as a defense housing project.

Woman Injured After Argument

Mrs. A. J. Hutton, Cumberland, Md., was admitted to Allegany Hospital yesterday afternoon for treatment following an incident in a driveway off North George Street.

Her physician said she was nervous and hysterical when she was examined and received bruises and abrasions about the body. X-rays will be taken today.

Also involved in the mishap was A. J. Hutton, Mrs. Hutton's estranged husband, who is general manager of the Cumberland Transit Lines.

Hutton told authorities he and Mrs. Hutton became involved in an argument near his parked automobile. She was from eight to ten feet from the car when he drove off, he said, and when he glanced in his rear view mirror as he approached George Street, noticed her in a semi-lying position in the driveway.

Hutton surmised that she started running after the car, and tripped and fell on the cobblestones.

Authorities questioned Hutton yesterday afternoon and then released him in custody of his attorney, Thomas B. Finan, pending completion of the investigation.

City police had no comment on the incident.

Separate maintenance proceedings were entered in Circuit Court here recently by Mrs. Hutton and Hutton's answer to the bill was filed yesterday a short time before the mishap.

City Election Bills Approved By Delegation

Frostburg Finance Bill Passes House

The Allegany County Delegation yesterday released with favorable reports three bills which would make Cumberland elections conform with the present fiscal year and provide for continuous registration.

The first, House Bill 472, would change the date from which the Mayor and Council of Cumberland hold office from the first Monday in April to the first Monday in July following their election.

The second, House Bill 473, sets up a system of continuous registration for municipal elections in the City of Cumberland.

The third, House Bill 474, changes the date of Cumberland city elections from the third Tuesday in March to the third Tuesday of June of each even year.

A spokesman for the delegation indicated that the bills are expected to pass the House within a few days.

Passed by the House yesterday were bills relating to Frostburg and Westernport.

Bills Pass House

The first, House Bill 396 introduced by the Allegany County Delegation, would authorize the Mayor and Council of Frostburg to borrow up to $100,000 for town improvements.

The measure authorizes the expenditure of up to $50,000 for improvements and extensions of the city's water system, $25,000 for street and highway improvements and $25,000 for improvements and enlargement of the city's sewer and sewage disposal system.

The second, House Bill 407, sponsored by Delegate Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., specifies that the town of Westernport shall be liable for damage suits for injury only if notice in writing is given to the Mayor and Council within 30 days after injury is suffered.

It also proyides that the town shall not be liable for damage or injury on any public street, highway or grounds, including accumulation of ice or snow, or public work in the town, unless the defect has not been called to the attention of town authorities at least 24 hours prior to the injury or damage, and proper diligence has not been used.

Hearing Is Planned

Charles M. See, chairman, said the Allegany County Delegation will hold a hearing Tuesday at 3 p. m. at the State House, Annapolis, on House Bill 444, setting up a special taxing area in Bowling Green.

The bill would authorize the levying of a tax of not more than 30 cents on each $100 of assessable property to maintain a lighting system and fire hydrants and a tax of not more than 25 cents to defray the costs of installing and purchasing water pipes and hydrants effective until installation costs are met. It also authorizes a nine-member Citizens Committee to borrow up to $20,000 to finance the installation of the program. The bill carries a referendum provision.

To Consider New Offices

The Senate is slated to resume consideration of Phipps' office building measure. The Anne Arundel senator has urged a new $5,000,000 state building just outside Annapolis. His proposal ran into trouble last month because the budget had not yet been passed. The constitution says all financial measures must follow the budget through the legislature.

Phipps' bill is a special order of business for the Senate, but associates said he wanted to keep it on the shelf until the budget clears the Senate. That could take three more weeks.

The honored physician has 53 years of service to his credit. The only medical man in the county who surpasses him in longevity of service is Dr. A. H. Hawkins, Cumberland, who has been a physician for 56 years. It is believed that no other physicians in the state have such lengthy records.

A veteran of World War I, Dr. Murray is a charter member of Old Rail Post. Principal speaker at tonight's open meeting will be Thomas B. Finan, Cumberland attorney and veteran of World War II.

Kimble, under questioning by Democratic Sens. Melincove of Baltimore City's Fourth District and Turnbull of Baltimore County, said he had not informed Republican Gov. McKeldin of his "find." He added he was not reporting it as minority leader either, only as senator from Allegany County.

Kimble said he hadn't had time to tell the Governor or other Republicans of his plan because he started gathering the facts only this morning.

Turnbull sarcastically praised Kimble for arriving in a matter of hours "at a solution of this problem the Governor has not been able to solve in the months since the general election."

Suggests $300 Boost

The Governor and Senate Democratic leaders both have opposed teacher raises if it means new taxes. A $500 yearly hike has been asked for them, but Sen. Kimble proposed $300 as a "reasonable increase."

"The General Assembly is perfectly justified in taking back from the roads commission" surplus titling taxes because "not one cent can be justified as highway tax revenue," Kimble argued.

He traced the history of the tax in support of his argument. The two per cent levy on car purchases was started in the 1936 depression as "aid to the needy."

Three years later, receipts were disbursed like other general funds. Then in 1947 they were dedicated to amortization of $100,000,000 in highway bonds. Any surplus is to be used for road construction.

Kimble estimated the surplus at the end of this fiscal year will be more than $15,000,000. During the first three years of the tax it brought in $15,640,000 and only $2,235,521 had to be set aside to amortize the $50,000,000 in issued bonds. The commission expects to issue the rest of the bonds this year and in 1953, Kimble said.

"Every dollar over and above that necessary to guarantee the bonds should be taken back," declared the Allegany senator. "No one can accuse us of taking highway revenues because it should not have been given them originally."

Draws SRC Fire

The titling tax, he contended, is a sales tax similar to that on a suit of clothes and as such should be expended for general purposes.

The subject of putting the titling tax back in general funds came up yesterday at a Senate Finance Committee meeting. Russell H. McCain, roads commission chairman, said it would "mean that much less for road construction and also endanger the bond issues to which it is pledged."

Shortly after Kimble made his speech, the House Judiciary Committee held a hearing on a measure to amend the constitution to bar for all time just what Kimble proposed.

The house bill would rewrite the constitution to specify that no road

Carver Pupils Display Art

A display of the artistic creations of the pupils of Carver Elementary School is being featured this week in the children's room of the Cumberland Free Public Library.

Periodically, pupils from various schools exhibit their art at the library in a program sponsored by the Junior Woman's Civic Club.

A paper wishing well, complete with a metal bucket and crank, prepared by Jesse Nailor, Jr., a third grade pupil, is one of the features. His finger painting of a dragon also has attracted much attention, according to Miss Mary G. Walsh, librarian.

Other pupils who have made contributions to the display are Huston Leath, Tanya Darr, France Smith, Robert Bromery, Patricia Matthews, James Hurt, James Hilton, Mary Ella Smith, Donald Pope, Calvin Jones, Gary Stephens and Betty Stephens.

Reid Is Praised For Service On Fire Department

Parker Slated For Temporary Position

Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long last night accepted with reluctance the resignation of Assistant Fire Chief R. Paul Reid from the Cumberland Fire Department.

In a letter acknowledging the resignation request of the veteran fire fighter, Commissioner Long said:

"Your rapid rise from the ranks and your many years of loyal and unselfish devotion to duty in the Cumberland Fire Department is a splendid tribute to your efficient public service.

"I want to express my gratitude for your excellent work as an executive officer; for your diligent labor in the Inspection Department, and for your untiring efforts in the Civilian Defense program from the time of its inception up to and including the present.

"Your unswerving devotion to your many duties and your intelligent service won for you the admiration of your associates."

Assistant Chief Reid, in his resignation, asked that he be placed on the city's pension lists as of March 15. He terminated his duties with the department, which he entered July 1, 1920, on Tuesday.

Commissioner Long said Capt. Virgil Parker, of East Side Fire Company, will be named as acting assistant fire chief on March 15 and will serve in that capacity until April, when the Civil Service Commission will hold examinations for all police and fire posts.

He began work in the department January 18, 1925.

Capt. Parker, the oldest men in service on the department, become eligible for the post as the present Civil Service list does not contain a candidate certified as chief or assistant chief.

County Boards Discuss Boost For Teachers

State Action Is Awaited Here

Allegany County's Board of Commissioners and Board of Education held a three-hour joint session at the school board office but reached no decision concerning suggested teachers salary increases for the 1951-52 school year.

William H. Lemmert, president of the board of commissioners, said that one of the difficulties is the uncertainty as to what the State Legislature will do in the matter. Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, state superintendent of schools, some weeks ago suggested that each Maryland teacher receive a salary increase from the state of $500 per year. Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin has opposed any increase by the state.

There has been some indication from Annapolis that a compromise of $300 per teacher may be the result.

Have Two Proposals

Harold C. Wickard, chairman of the legislative committe of the Allegany County Teachers Association, yesterday offered two suggestions for pay raises, he said. Neither appeared to meet with favor from the county commissioners, he added. Other members of that committee who met with the two county boards were Joseph K. Haugen and Ralph R. Webster.

Although he would not divulge specific details, Wickard stated that one of the proposals was based on the assumption that the state would raise salaries $500 and the other on the assumption that the state increase would be less than $500.

Presently, Allegany county teachers receive a starting salary of $2,400 per year and a maximum of $3,900. The top figure, Wickard said, is reached after 17 years, with $100 increases each year. The state range is between $2,200 and $3,800.

Wickard said that he presented to the two boards figures which showed that teachers are paid less than many laboring people in this county. For instance, he stated that an apprentice in the B&O shops gets $208 per month while a starting teacher receives only $200 per month. In addition, after four years, the apprentice's salary goes to $3,800 whereas it takes the teacher 17 years to get to $3,900.

Comparative Figures

Employes in the City of Cumberland's Street Department are paid $1.15 per hour, Wickard asserted, which is more than many teachers receive. As another illustration, he noted that the Cumberland Transit Company bus drivers turned down a guaranteed annual salary of $3,700, which is more than the majority of teachers obtain in compensation.

Wickard stated that he spoke for approximately 575 teachers and principals in the county school system.

Lemmert indicated that the commissioners will have further meetings with the school board before reaching a decision.

The teachers' spokesman said the commissioners informed him that a decision would be reached by the March 13 meeting of that body.

Wickard added that his committee plans to go to Annapolis the day after the commissioners act, to confer with the county delegation about a local bill which would provide a county supplement to the pay increase granted by the state.

First Parcel For Housing Project Bought

2.86 Acres Acquired From F. A. Wempe

The Housing Authority of the City of Cumberland has purchased its first piece of real estate in the Mapleside area on which the first project of Cumberland's low rent housing program will be constructed, James B. Raines, executive director of the authority, announced yesterday.

This first parcel consists of 2.86 acres of land and was purchased from Frederick A. Wempe. The deed for this property will be recorded today in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of the Allegany County Circuit Court by Thomas B. Finan, the authority's attorney.

An additional six acres will be acquired in a short time, Raines added.

The first parcel will be the site for 125 homes. It is located in the general area bounded by First Street, Memorial Avenue, Somerville Avenue and Second Street.

Raines stated yesterday that the allocation of $1,297,440 for constructing this first project received the approval of President Truman's office on February 6. The first installment of $68,000 was received by the local authority February 19.

S. Russ Minter, local architect, has nearly completed the intermediate drawings for the project. The authority hopes that the construction can be let by spring.

Finan said last night that in the event the defense preparations should cause a curtailment in the construction of low rent housing the local authority has received assurances that the project still will be approved as a defense housing project.

Woman Injured After Argument

Mrs. A. J. Hutton, Cumberland, Md., was admitted to Allegany Hospital yesterday afternoon for treatment following an incident in a driveway off North George Street.

Her physician said she was nervous and hysterical when she was examined and received bruises and abrasions about the body. X-rays will be taken today.

Also involved in the mishap was A. J. Hutton, Mrs. Hutton's estranged husband, who is general manager of the Cumberland Transit Lines.

Hutton told authorities he and Mrs. Hutton became involved in an argument near his parked automobile. She was from eight to ten feet from the car when he drove off, he said, and when he glanced in his rear view mirror as he approached George Street, noticed her in a semi-lying position in the driveway.

Hutton surmised that she started running after the car, and tripped and fell on the cobblestones.

Authorities questioned Hutton yesterday afternoon and then released him in custody of his attorney, Thomas B. Finan, pending completion of the investigation.

City police had no comment on the incident.

Separate maintenance proceedings were entered in Circuit Court here recently by Mrs. Hutton and Hutton's answer to the bill was filed yesterday a short time before the mishap.

Death For Collazo Decreed By Jury

Puerto Rican Revolutionary Found Guilty

Accepts Verdict Calmly; Appeal Due

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP)—A federal jury decreed death today for Oscar Collazo who stormed President Truman's home Nov. 1 in the name of Puerto Rican independence.

Actual fixing of sentence in a federal court is in the hands of the judge but the jury found the little 37-year-old revolutionary guilty on two counts of first degree murder. The law makes death in the electric chair mandatory on each such count.

Both the charges were based on the death of Private Leslie Coffelt of the White House guard, shot to death in the furious gunplay outside Blair House on Pennsylvania Avenue. The government itself conceded that the actual death bullet was fired by Collazo's accomplice, Griselio Torresola, also slain in the gunfight, but the jury agreed with the prosecution contention that participation in the crime made Collazo equally guilty.

Collazo's Plea Rejected

The jury rejected Collazo's plea that he and Torresola did not intend to kill anybody. Collazo's story was that they only wanted to make a demonstration in favor of Puerto Rican independence.

The jury also convicted Collazo on two other counts of assault with intent to kill in connection with the wounding of Officers Joseph H Downs and Donald T. Birdzell of the White House guard.

It took the jury of nine women and three men only an hour and 42 minutes to reach its verdict. It took the case at 3:40 p. m., EST, and sent word at 5:22 that it was ready to report.

Collazo was smiling in apparent confidence when he was brought in to hear his fate.

Wife Blows Him Kiss

Collazo was still apparently unshaken as he was led back to jail. He smilingly whispered something to his wife, Rosa, as he went past her. She blew him a kiss but he was unable to respond because of his handcuffs.

Mrs. Collazo told reporters later she had no statement to make.

Leo A. Rover, head of Collazo's court-appointed counsel, said he will appeal.

He has five days for the customary motion for a new trial. Formal sentencing is not expected until that motion has been disposed of. Then the appeals will go to the circuit court here and, presumably, to the Supreme Court if the first appeal fails.

Army To Call Up 12,650 Officers

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP)—The Army today announced it would order to active duty 12,650 additional lieutenants and captains —including women—by June 29.

This will bring the total number of company grade officers on active duty to about 40,000.

Some 150 Women's Army Corps officers are among reservists to be called. The number will also include 300 Medical Service Corps officers, 150 chaplains and 50 Army field artillery aviators.

The order will affect 3,444 captains and 9,206 second and first lieutenants. They will report for duty between May 23 and June 29.

The Army said National Guard officers will be given active duty orders only if they volunteer and that no inactive reservists will be ordered to duty under this program unless it is at their own request.

Wilson Is Defended By UMW Publication

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP)—John L. Lewis' District 50 News today came to the defense of Mobilization Director Charles E. Wilson in his scrap with other labor leaders over control of manpower policy.

The News said it was "inclined to give Wilson the benefit of the doubt" in differences over who should decide manpower controls.

The bi-monthly mine workers union publication chided members of the United Labor Policy Committee, which Lewis has not joined. The committee represents all major labor unions except the mine workers and the railway operating unions.

DEATH DECREED—The death verdict was returned yesterday at Washington against Oscar Collazo (above), 37, one of two Puerto Ricans who failed in the attempted assassination of President Truman last November. A White House guard and Collazo's accomplice were slain in the gun battle. (AP Wirephoto)

Johnston Works For Compromise On Labor Issue

20% Steel Cut Will Take Effect April 1

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP) — Eric Johnston, the economic stabilizer, today strove for a compromise between labor and management on the hot issue of whether to give the Wage Stabilization Board any power to settle labor disputes in defense plants.

But his superior, Charles E. Wilson, the defense mobilizer, told reporters the prospects "don't appear to look any brighter" for peace in the bitter squabble between labor leaders and the government — a squabble of which the wage board issue is only a part.

Wilson was reported opposed to labor's demand that the wage board be given dispute-settling power. His aides said he is considering a radio and television speech to the nation Monday night.

Steel Cut Ordered . . . . . .

Meantime the government banged out new orders on:

1. Steel. An expected steel cut of 20 per cent was ordered, effective April 1, and about 150 products to which the cut will apply were listed for the first time. They include autos, baby beds, burial vaults, dishwashers, lawnmowers, radios, television sets, and so on.

2. Autos. Dealers were permitted to raise the retail prices of new cars. Last week the manufacturers were given a 3½ per cent increase, and now the dealers may pass on the exact dollars-and-cents amount to their customers.

Shortening Prices Rolled Back

3. Vegetable shortening and salad oils. The manufacturers' ceiling prices were rolled back from one to two cents a pound. The Office of Price Stabilization said this isn't likely to change retail prices, but it "eliminates the possibility" of retail increases.

Johnston met for hours today with industry leaders, and Wilson had lunch with Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) of the Senate Labor Committee, but all their talking didn't budge the stalemate over labor's cooperation in the mobilization program.

Back To Fort Meade

FREDERICKSBURG, Va., March 7 — The Third Armored Cavalry Regiment, which has been training at A. P. Hill Military Reservation near here for about a year, has been ordered back to Fort Meade, Md.

Senate Units Okay Sending GIs To Europe

Approve Proposal To Do 'Fair Share'

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP) — Two Senate committees today approved sending "our fair share" of American troops to Europe.

The Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees, sitting jointly, adopted the major provisions of an administration resolution still awaiting their final approval. This may come tomorrow.

The committees also approved the selection of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as supreme commander of the Allied army in Europe.

House Would Have No Say

As the resolution stands, the House would not be in on the decision. The resolution would give Senate sanction to dispatch of armed forces for joint defense of the North Atlantic area.

President Truman already has announced plans to send four more divisions to serve with two U. S. divisions already in Europe. They will be assigned to the international army being formed under command of Eisenhower. Mr. Truman claims the power to deploy troops as he deems necessary without direct congressional approval.

Today's decision was made by the Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees on a resolution by the two chairmen, Connally (D-Tex) and Russell (D-Ga). These groups have been considering the hard-fought issue of sending an American land army to join other treaty nations in guarding the West against any Russian invasion.

Lodge Substitute Loses

The administration's troops-for-Europe clause barely squeaked through. Sen. Lodge (R-Mass) offered a substitute which lost on a 12-12 vote, and the committee then accepted this original language:

"It is the belief of the Senate that the threat to the security of the United States and our North Atlantic Treaty partners makes it necessary for the United States to station abroad such units of our armed forces as may be necessary and appropriate to contribute our fair share of the forces needed for the joint defense of the North Atlantic area."

Soviet Budget Asks Boost In Arms Fund

MOSCOW, March 7 (AP)—Finance Minister Arseny G. Zverev presented to the Supreme Soviet (parliament) tonight a budget calling for an arms expenditure of 96,376,000,000 rubles in 1951—16,976,000,000 rubles more than last year.

Prime Minister Stalin himself was present with other important Politburo members to witness the introduction of the budget, totaling 457,900,000,000 rubles, which reflected the quickening Soviet preparedness measures.

Russia values her rubles at 25 cents. At this rate the defense budget would compare with $24,094,000,000, or $4,244,000,000 more than last year. The 1950 defense budget was 79,400,000,000 rubles, including 15,000,000,000 rubles for the Navy.

(An exact comparison with United States defense expenditures is difficult without a breakdown of the Russian budget showing appropriations under other items which might be of military value. President Truman has asked Congress for a "national survival" budget of $71,594,000,000, of which $41,421,000,000 is listed for direct military purposes and $7,461,000,000 for "international security," mostly in the form of aid to other nations.)

Test Case

Crime Probers Would Cite John Carroll For Contempt

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP) — The Senate Crime Committee voted today to cite James J. Carroll, nationally-known betting commissioner, for contempt of Congress to test whether a witness can be forced to testify before televsion cameras.

Carroll refused to answer the committee's questions at a hearing in St. Louis last month on the ground that the television cameras recording his testimony invaded his constitutional right of privacy.

He said he was willing to testify, but told the committee at a stormy session that the televising of his appearance outraged his "sense of propriety."

Chairman Kefauver (D-Tenn) told reporters after a closed meeting of the Crime Investigating Committee that the members had voted to "make a test case" of Carroll's action and had recommended to the Senate that he be cited for contempt of Congress.

All the members of the committee voted for the resolution, he said, except Sen. O'Conor (D-Md.)

Agreement May Bring Vote Today On 18-Year Draft

Ceiling Provision Approved 49 To 41

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP)—The Senate today voted a manpower ceiling of 4,000,000 for the nation's armed forces into the bill to draft 18-year-olds now and start universal military training in the future.

Then it agreed on a complicated schedule of debate limitation which might bring final action on the measure late tomorrow.

The voting agreement knocked out earlier plans to hold the senators in late session tonight in an effort to pass the bill.

The strength-limiting amendment, in effect a compromise between senators who wanted no curbs in the present world situation and others who wanted a lower lid, gives the military half a million men leeway over the figures they have talked about in public. But it applies a curb they still insist might be a danger in emergency.

It was written in a on a 49-41 roll-call vote after brief, sharp debate which ranged around solemnly-worded protests filed by the high command against a proposal to set the limit still lower. The Pentagon arguments were presented in letters read by Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex) to his colleagues. Secretary of Defense Marshall set the key--note with a statement that a fixed limit under present world conditions would be "a direct gamble with the national security."

The Senate refused late today to write into the measure a so-called "civil rights" amendment by Sen. Lehman (D-NY). The proposal was tabled, 57 to 30, after a long argument.

The amendment, originally urged by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, would have sought to extend the federal laws protecting certain federal officials, including the Coast Guard, to all persons in uniform with the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marines.

Sponsors of the proposal said there had been reports of assault and interference with negro servicemen in certain areas, without adequate aid from local officers.

The day's big business was the manpower ceiling.

That vote generally followed party lines. Forty Democrats teamed with nine Republicans for it. In opposition were 35 Republicans and six Democrats.

Power-Packed Assault Gains Up To 3 Miles

ROKs Driven Back On Eastern Front

TOKYO, Thursday, March 8 (AP) —Tanks and troops of the U. S. 25th Division fanned out today from a triple bridgehead across the Han River in a flanking drive east of Red-held Seoul.

More than 5,000 Chinese were killed, wounded or captured yesterday as the infantrymen surged across the Han in assault boats and established three bridgeheads 15 miles east of the ancient Korean capital. No other Allied troops in the current drive have crossed so near to Seoul.

The power-packed push, which gained up to three miles, was part of a general Allied attack pressed along a 70-mile front in West Central Korea. Gains elsewhere were as much as five miles.

AP Correspondent Jim Becker, across the Han with the 25th, said the stunned Chinese surrendered in groups. Yesterday's bag of 204 prisoners was the biggest one-day haul by a single division since the war's outset.

Counterattack Repulsed

Other Chinese fled in panic. Last night, the Reds managed only one counterattack. It was repulsed.

This morning, the infantrymen began expanding their hold on the sandy flatlands east of Seoul.

More than 1,000 Chinese were killed by American foot soldiers on the first day of the big operation. Intense Allied artillery fire accounted for most of the remaining 4,000 Chinese killed and wounded.

Gen. MacArthur was at the front yesterday when the Allied 70-mile-long attack began westward from the river crossings to Pangnim.

At the east end of the front an estimated 13,500 North Koreans struck hard at Republic of Korea troops and drove them back at least three miles.

These furious attacks and counterattacks may be a prelude to the expected Chinese spring offensive, with the Allies trying to keep the Reds off balance while the North Koreans probe for a soft spot in South Korean lines.

Allies Push Toward Hongchon

Other Allied units all down the line to Pangnim kicked off with general attacks. Thundering artillery barrages plowed enemy positions along the front.

A field dispatch said the major gain of the day was a five-mile advance on the west central front west of pivotal Hoengsong.

Infantrymen of the Ninth Corps pushed their way up rocky crags and cut the road between Yongdu and the major enemy base at Hongchon.

U. S. tanks swung northeast and drove along that main Chinese supply route leading to Hongchon.

The dispatch did not say how close the Ninth Corps elements were to Hongchon. But U. S. Marines farther east last were reported about nine miles south of that enemy massing point.

"Somebody Took Me In, I Guess," RFC's Boss Says

Admits His Friends Tried To "Use" Him

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP) — Walter L. Dunham, a director of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, acknowledged today that some members of a White House social circle in which he moved tried to "use" him in angling for huge government loans.

"Somebody took me in, I guess," he told the Senate Banking subcommittee, which is investigating alleged favoritism and political influence in RFC lending.

"I think I am entirely lacking in political sagacity."

Group Included Truman Aide

Dunham, a 68-year-old Detroit banker who has been a Republican all his life, said the social group he referred to included Donald Dawson, one of President Truman's aides; William E. Willett, another RFC director; E. Merl Young, well-to-do husband of a White House stenographer, and Rex Jacobs, a Detroit industrialist who Dunham described as having "some degree of White House entree."

But Dunham stated "I am positive no one has succeeded in exerting any improper 'influence' upon my decision on any RFC matter."

"With reference to Donald Dawson," he added, "I must state that I can recall no instance where he sought to influence my judgment on an RFC loan."

Star Witness

Dunham unburdened himself behind closed doors today, but the committee made public a prepared statement he submitted and later released a transcript of the testimony. In a session lasting more than three hours, he was the star witness.

"The boys took you in?" Sen. Capehart (R-Ind), a subcommittee

"Somebody took me in, I guess," member asked.

Dunham replied. "They were kind to me and —"

"They took you in," Capehart repeated.

"That is your conclusion. I am not prepared to dispute it.'

Later, however, Dunham said he meant he was taken in by "a fellow who owned a house." There was no elaboration on this.

DuPont Sets Record

WILMINGTON, Del., March 7 (AP) —E. I. duPont de Nemours and Company surpassed all previous production records in 1950 and set a record for sales with a total of $1,297,000,000 the company announced today.

U. S. Navy Plane With 14 Persons Aboard Missing

ROME, March 7 (AP) —A U. S. Navy Privateer PB-4Y2 plane with 14 persons aboard disappeared in a storm this afternoon and was still missing tonight, Italian ships and planes gave up their search until tomorrow.

The plane left the Campo Formido military airfield near Udine, in the Trieste neighborhood, late this morning. It was due in Rome a little more than an hour later.

Ten minutes before its scheduled arrival, the plane radioed Ciampino airfield here that it had trouble with one of its four engines 10 miles from Rome. That was the last word.

Young Fanatic Assassinates Iran's Premier

TEHRAN, Iran, March 7 (AP) — Premier Gen. Ali Razmara, a tough anti-Communist whose reform program was backed by the United States, was shot to death today by a religous fanatic at a funeral in a Tehran mosque.

The assassination was the climax of weeks of political agitation in which nationalistic Iranians showed growing resentment against the Premier because he opposed nationalization of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company. The best sources, however, believed Communists were not involved.

The gunman, Abdulla Rastegar, a 26-year-old carpenter, and three suspected accomplices were arrested on the spot. One policeman was wounded as they closed in.

Informed sources identified Rastegar as a member of Fadayam Islam (Crusaders of Islam), a fanatical Moslem sect. His crime could easily upset the tranquility of this strategic, oil-rich country.

Young Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi immediately named as acting premier 70-year-old Khalil Fahimi, a former governor-general of Azerbaijan Province, Iran's trouble spot bordering Russia.

Mechanic Is Charged With Plane Sabotage

INDIANAPOLIS, March 7 (AP) — Sabotage charges were filed here today against a Camp Atterbury airplane mechanic accused of disabling two planes.

Harvey G. Foster, special FBI agent, said Sgt. Henry V. Green, 23, Niagara, Wis., "just wanted to keep the planes from flying." He said the mechanic denied he wanted to see any airmen injured or killed.

Russia Demands Trieste Situation Be Considered

Charges Territory U. S.-British Base

PARIS, March 7 (AP)—The Russians demanded an airing of the troublesome Trieste situation today as a condition for putting the Austrian independence treaty before the Big Four foreign ministers. They didn't seem to get far, but touched an old sore spot between Italy and Yugoslavia.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko put forward this plan—originally advanced by Russia as far back as last May — at a wrangling meeting of the Big Four deputies assigned to draw up an agenda for the foreign ministers. He charged that the Free Territory of Trieste is a British-American military base.

Philip Jessup, the chief United States delegates, said he would agree to consider putting Trieste on the agenda, but would refuse to make it a condition to consideration of the Austrian treaty.

The Italian peace treaty of 1947 provided that Trieste was to be demilitarized and neutral under a governor to be appointed by the United Nations Security Council after consulatation with the governments of Yugoslavia and Italy. The Security Council has never been able to get together on a nominee for the governorship acceptable to all the Big Four. Occupation by American, British and Yugoslav troops continues. Both Italy and Yugoslavia maintain claims to the strategic zone at the head of the Adriatic Sea.

Train Scatters $16,000 In Bills Over Landscape

LAWRENCEVILLE, Ill., March 7 (AP) — A mail bag tossed from a speeding train bounced under the wheels yesterday, and $16,000 was scattered over the landscape.

About 400 persons ran to the railroad yards and helped collect the cash, which was in ones, fives, tens and 'twenties. One man turned in about $1,400. A small boy took a stack of bills home and told his mother they fell from the sky. She turned in the money to the post office.

The money was sent from the Federal Reserve Bank at St. Louis to the Peoples National Bank of Lawrenceville.

A postal employe said about $1,000 still was missing.

Houseboat Party

Happy One-A-Day Triplets Celebrate First Birthday

JONESVILLE, La., March 7 (AP)—Lester Hardie's one-a-day triplets celebrated their first birthday today with a lusty party in the best nautical tradition.

While the family houseboat bobbed on the Ouachita River, Papa Hardie, skipper of his 10-child crew, broke out a double portion of ice cream and cake for all hands.

Mama Hardie's morning washing fluttered from the houseboat's mast like the gayly-colored signal flags on a big ocean liner.

Actually today was Jodie Hardie's birthday. He, the male member of the trio, was born on March 7 a year ago. Julie followed the next day, March 8, and Judie ended the unusual birth when she arrived the third day, March 9.

Today the triplets thoroughly enjoyed the event by drooling ice cream and white cake frosting on their crisply-ironed yellow dresses.

Trial Defendants Called 'Traitors'

NEW YORK, March 7 (AP)—The prosecution charged today in the trial of three persons accused of passing atomic secrets to Russia that they were "traitorous Americans whose primary loyalty was to Communism.

"The sought to deliver to the Soviet Union information and weapons the Soviets could use to destroy us," said U. S. Attorney Irving H. Saypol in his opening remarks shortly after a jury was completed. Eleven men and one woman were chosen.

The defendants, Julius Rosenberg, 34, an electrical engineer; his wife, Ethel, 34, and Morton Sobell, 33, electronics and radar expert, all of New York, face a possible death penalty in the first U. S. Atomic spy trial.

Defense Attorney Emanuel H. Bloch, interrupted Saypol's remarks to protest that the charge was not that the defendants were members of the Communist Party.

When Saypol concluded, the defense demanded a mistrial on the ground the prosecutor's statement was "inflammatory" in introducing the Communist issue.

Federal Judge Irving R. Kaufman denied the motion.

USAF Asks Doolittle Aid

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP) — The Air Force has asked Lt. Gen. James M. (Jimmy) Doolittle to help it set up its new air research and development command.

Doolittle, who is now with Shell Oil Co. in New York, led the B-25 raid on Tokyo in 1942.

Court Rejects "Lonely Hearts" Slayers' Appeal

ALBANY, N. Y., March 7 (INS)—The New York State Court of Appeals tonight turned down the last-ditch appeal of the lonely hearts murderers from a death sentence to be carried out at Sing Sing Prison tomorrow night.

Attorneys for Martha Beck and Raymond Fernandez said they would appeal immediately to the U. S. District Court in New York City and the U. S. Supreme Court.

The state court's action was on a petition for a writ of habeas corpus which had been denied earlier today by Supreme Court Justice J. Gordon Flannery at White Plains, N. Y.

Fernandez, a 36-year-old Hawaiian-born Spaniard, and his 31-year-old paramour have been in the Sing Sing death house since August, 1949. They were convicted in New York, Aug. 18, 1949, of murdering Mrs. Janet Fay, an Albany widow.

They also confessed killing Mrs. Delphine Downing, another widow, of Byron Center, Mich., and her infant daughter. They met their victims through "lonely hearts" correspondence clubs, and Fernandez wooed them to get their money, while fat Mrs. Beck posed as his sister.

Floridians Get Break, See Eclipse Best

MIAMI, Fla., March 7 (AP) — A partial eclipse of the sun, the first of 1951, was visible over most of the Eastern United States today but the view was best in Florida.

Partly cloudy weather gave Floridians a break but the eclipse also could be seen as far north as New England and west to Ohio and Missouri, except where cloud conditions interfered.

Cecil Gentry, Miami Weather Bureau forecaster, said the eclipse appeared as a total eclipse just north of the equator but in Florida about 20 per cent or less of the sun was obscured when the moon passed between it and the earth.

Four Charges Returned Against Joseph Holmes

BALTIMORE, March 7 (AP)—The grand jury today returned four charges against Joseph Holmes, the negro convict who tunneled his way out of the Maryland penitentiary.

If the 39-year-old prisoner is convicted on all of them he faces additional sentences which could total 42 years. On top of that, he still has 10 years of a burglary sentence to serve.

Holmes tunneled 70 feet to freedom Feb. 18, taking 20 months to bore a man-size hole from his cell to a point beyond the prison wall.

He was free 13 days when he returned to Baltimore and was nabbed after a $5 street holdup.

Butler's Manager Declares Tabloid Was "Not My Baby"

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP) — The campaign manager for Sen. Butler (R-Md) testified today a campaign tabloid about which former Sen. Tydings, Democrat, complained was "not my baby."

Jon M. Jonkel told a Senate Elections Subcommittee that as a result he knew little about its circulation during last year's Maryland senatorial campaign.

Tydings has described the tabloid, "From The Record," as a "tissue of lies."

He referred to the paper in testifying at the opening of the hearing into his complaints that "lies' and "scurrilous literature" were circulated by workers for Butler.

Butler countered with the charge that Tydings was making an unfounded attack on him.

In response to questions by Sen. Hennings (D-Mo), Jonkel said he did not know to what extent the tabloid was distributed.

"The project was not my baby and not one for me to worry about," he said. He added that the tabloid was sponsored by "The Young Democrats For Butler."

The witness said he knew the tabloid went to Baltimore.

"I knew at least one went out, for Tydings got one within three hours," he said.

Jonkel said he could not recall if he had approved a bill, dated Nov. 9, for distribution of the tabloid.

"I may have," he said. "I really don't know. The best answer I can give is I may have.'

He added that he had authorized payment of almost all campaign bills.

The bill showed charges for distribution of 10,000 copies in Hagerstown, 5,000 in Annapolis, 150,000 in Baltimore, and 4,000 in Dundalk.

Mayor, Police Hunt For Nail Strewers

WEST PATERSON, N. J., March 7 (AP) — Mayor Benjamin Cavalieri and police with aching backs were hunting today for someone who apparently think it's funny to strew one-inch roofing nails on a heavily-traveled street.

The nails, distributed over a half-mile stretch on New Street Monday night, showed up again last night to plague motorists. Automatic sweepers from neighboring Paterson were available Monday but yesterday the mayor and the police picked up about 1,000 nails by hand.

Lattimore Addresses 2,000 Baltimore Boys

BALTIMORE, March 7 (AP)—Owen Lattimore laid his foreign policy ideas before 2,000 high school boys today with barely a reference to the City Council's attempt to keep him off the platform.

The City College student body broke into a thunder of applause as he rose to speak. Holding up his hands to stop it, he said:

"You may have heard that there is some question about the wisdom of exposing you schoolboys to a discussion of political ideas."

He then launched into the theme that the United States needs a single foreign policy that will work well both in Europe and Asia at the same time.

At the behest of a local American Legion committee, the City Council Monday night voted 13-6 in favor of a resolution that Lattimore should be banned.

He had been invited by the school's United Nations Youth Council, with the consent of school authorities, and the school board voted yesterday to ignore the City Council resolution.

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP) — The House District of Columbia Committee today voted down a daylight savings bill for Washington.

Army Won't Take Md. Prisoners Anymore

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 7 (AP) — The Army won't take Maryland prisoners anymore.

F. Murray Benson, outgoing director of parole and probation, told a Senate committee today the armed forces simply will not renew a system that "worked very well" during World War II.

"One of the men even became a major," Benson said.

During the war, a working relationship was set up between the services and the State Department of Parole and Probation. It still would help the situation when his agency has difficulty in arranging employment for parolees, Benson said.

W. Va. House Passes Medical School Bill

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 7 (AP) — The House passed the medical school "site bill" by a 10-vote margin late today and sent it to the Senate.

The Senate, in a burst of activity, passed the motor vehicle bill providing for an overall revision of the state's 25-year-old highway code, but the measure contains amendments which may make it necessary for a conference committee of the two houses to work out.

Pays To Be Nice To Animals, Even 8-Ton Stone One

LONDON, March 8 (AP) — A laborer proved today that it pays to be nice to animals — even an eight-ton stone one.

He scratched the back of the famed old "Lion of Hungerford"—now being refurbished for exhibition at the Festival of Britain—and discovered a secret compartment. The niche, long sealed by dozens of coats of red paint, yielded a bottle containing some coins dating back to William the Fourth (1830-1836) and a note which hasn't been deciphered yet.

Vance Air Force Base headquarters, Enid, Okla., recently announced the promotion of Sergeant John J. Boyle to the grade of S/Sgt. S/Sgt. Boyle has 39 months of service and is at present a crew member of a B-25J.

Top Researchist Believes Effective Polio Vaccine May Soon Be Found

A top researchist working under a grant from the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis says in the following exclusive article that he believes "we are at last on the track of an effective polio vaccine."

The scientist, Dr. L. J. Gebhardt, head of the bacteriology department of the University of Utah, reports also that three separate types of polio virus have been isolated after painstaking research and that possibly a fourth or even fifth type may be found soon, perhaps this year.

By DR. L. J. GEBHARDT

SALT LAKE CITY (INS)—We believe we are at last on the track of an effective polio vaccine.

We are very hopeful one will be developed within the next few years—but we have no crystal ball. We just plug along.

Until a few years ago, the viruses which caused polio were all thought to be the same. It was suggested as early as 1931 that they might be different, but no serious work was done. The National Polio Foundation, in 1948, formed the Committee on Standards headed by Dr. H. M. Weaver, to determine if research on the problem were advisable.

We decided that trying to develop a vaccine without this information would be like trying to bake a cake without a recipe. The whole question was thrown wide open and it was decided that it was important enough to go into it thoroughly.

Four laboratories undertook the study beginning Jan. 1, 1949. They were at the Universities of Utah, Pittsburgh, Southern California and Kansas. Utah alone received $250,000 in grants from the National Foundation in 1949 and 1950.

We knew polio was caused by a virus—which is a sub-microscopic particle almost molecular in size—and unlike bacteria it can grow only in living tissue. Many of the common childhood diseases are caused by viruses—such as mumps, measles, chicken pox and smallpox.

The polio virus is among the smallest known and like the others is not visible by any ordinary means. It can be seen only by using the electron microscope.

Each of the universities set up a similar program. Samples of polio viruses were collected from literally all over the world. The samples were taken from persons having the disease, sewage, flies, and other sources.

The virus samples were shipped in test tubes packed in dry ice. Monkeys were used in research because they are the only animal which the polio virus affects.

Other research was being conducted and still is in an effort to find a vaccine. This has reached the stage where it is possible to immunize monkeys, although the process is dangerous because they sometimes get the disease.

By immunizing groups of the laboratory monkeys and then by injecting them with the various samples, we found that two types of virus caused exactly the same symptoms and the same disease. In other words, the monkey immunized against one type still could get polio from the second type of virus.

The process was continued and three separate types now have been found. Any one of the three can cause polio even though the monkey is immune to one or both of the other types.

By the end of this year it is hoped that all the samples will be classified by this means and it is possible a fourth or even a fifth type may be discovered. By then it may be possible to develop the vaccine with the proper substances.

The program has been going so well that Utah and Pittsburgh Universities have switched to a different project this year—chemotherapy and chemoprophylaxis. This means finding a chemical agent which will affect the polio virus.

Most people are familiar with the "wonder drugs" which are so potent against diseases caused by bacteria but we have had little success in finding similar agents effective against any type of virus—polio or otherwise.

Possibly the $64 question is why monkeys get polio and other animals do not. When we learn the answer to this question, we might have our problem solved.

The Paris Parley

The deputies of the Council of Foreign Ministers meeting at the Palais Rose in Paris have thus far agreed only to discuss discussions. Whether to hold a full-dress meeting of Big Four foreign ministers in Washington, and what to take up at any such meeting, are the two questions to be decided.

A Washington meeting would represent the eighth session of the Council of Foreign Ministers. The seventh was adjourned on June 20, 1949, after 29 days of fruitless discussion in Paris. A communique issued at adjournment spoke of "agreement" on certain preliminaries to an Austrian peace treaty and reaffirmed the lifting of the Russian blockade of Berlin. But the conference was generally regarded as ending in stalemate. Secretary Acheson upon his return from Paris told President Truman, "I don't really think we accomplished too much."

The Big Four powers were, the communique said, to arrange for the next conference when they met for UN General Assembly sessions in New York in September, 1949. The Foreign Ministers did meet informally and made some progress toward an Austrian treaty in September, but since then the Council has stagnated.

Russia, which on March 3 broke off private talks with the U.S. about a Japanese treaty, might now try to force that issue into the agenda for the Washington meeting. It was the West which insisted that the current talks include the whole compass of "serious tension" in the world situation. In proposing a conference, Russia had wanted to discuss only the "demilitarization" of Germany.

As set up under the terms of the August, 1945, Potsdam Agreement, the Council of Foreign Ministers was to prepare peace treaties for Italy, Bulgaria, Finland, Hungary, Rumania. France and China were invited to sign the agreement. But at the London conference of Foreign Ministers in September-October, 1945, Foreign Commissar Molotov demanded that China and France be excluded from discussions of treaties with European states. His grounds were that they were not signatories to the articles of surrender with those states.

Returning from London in October, 1945, Secretary of State Byrnes told the U. S. public he hoped Russia would "agree that the nations that fought the war . . . shall have a chance to make the world peace." The Moscow conference of December, 1945, must temporarily have encouraged Byrnes. There the ministers agreed to procedure for considering the satellite treaties and to a recommendation to the UN for an atomic energy commission. The U. S. agreed to share control of Japan in an 11-nation Far Eastern Commission and a four-power Allied Council for Japan.

The civil war in China and Russian opposition to Chiang Kai-Shek kept the Chinese minister from the Paris conference of the Council in April-May, 1946, (and from the four subsequent meetings). Although little agreement emerged from that meeting, a general peace conference of 21 nations at Paris in July-October, 1946, and a subsequent meeting of the Council of Foreign Ministers in New York in November-December, 1946, produced final peace treaties for Italy, Hungary, Bulgaria, Finland, Rumania.

The fifth session of the Council in Moscow in March-April, 1947, failed to produce a formula for German or Austrian peace treaties. The London conference in November-December, 1947, broke up after agreement on only two points: admission of Pakistan to the German peace treaty conference; raising of German steel output to 11.5 million tons a year.

Hope For Economy

A coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats, committed to drastic paring of the Truman budget, is said to be numerous enough to get the job done. If so, it will be a great stroke of fortune for the American people.

Estimates as to the size of the reduction of Mr. Truman's $71,600,000,000 budget vary widely. The top estimate is $10,000,000,000 and the low estimate $2,000,000,000. This gives hope that maybe $5,000,000,000 or $6,000,000,000 can be cut off.

Additional encouragement is in the fact that here and there a "Truman line" member of Congress is for cutting. Senator Douglas of Illinois, an independent who often leans to the Truman program, and Senator Humphrey of Minnesota, who in times past has been almost more Truman than Truman himself, both believe cuts of $2,000,000,000 to $9,000,000,000 are possible. Add a few like this to the Republican-Dixiecrat lineup and economy would seem to be a cinch.

The reductionists believe that savings can be achieved not only in nondefense spending but in military items as well. Of course military procurement, under government direction, is duplicating and wasteful. There is no reason why economy should not be applied there, too. True economy, rather than weakening preparedness, will strengthen it.

The President has dared them to lower his budget. If they take the dare, as they should, it will mean some proposed additional taxes won't have to be levied and the country will be stronger in every way to meet the issues that confront it.

Crisis In France

The fall of the Pleven Cabinet is fresh evidence of the deep-seated disunity in France which has had disastrous effects on Europe and the world during this century. The immediate cause involves technicalities of electoral reform. But the effect is a victory for the Communist minority, won because a majority in agreement on what had to be done could not unite on how to do it.

The Communists were all-out to block any electoral reform. A majority of members of the French Assembly were agreed on the importance of replacing the present proportional representation system, which contains loopholes that give Communists more than their fair share of representation. But unless the majority can agree on specific reform, the old system will be in effect for this year's national elections.

That is why Prime Minister Pleven and his Cabinet resigned without first calling for a vote of confidence on the issue. If they had forced one and lost, immediate elections under the old system favoring the Communists would have been mandatory.

What happens now is behind-the-scenes dickering among party leaders—each of whom presumably will ask a price for abandoning his pet reform. This looks unpleasantly like government by blackmail. But new elections under a fair new electoral system would weaken the Communists to the point where familiar tactics would have less scope. Much depends on President Auriol's ability to find a compromise that will make this possible.

How To Keep Well

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Modern Tuberculosis Treatment

INDIVIDUALS with pulmonary tuberculosis no longer travel about the country "chasing the cure." In the past many went into the desert or high and dry areas where they slept out of doors and stuffed themselves with milk and eggs. The west still abounds with these men and women and some cities trace their growth to "consumptives" and "lungers," and rightly so because many of these people were hardworking and intelligent.

The modern treatment of tuberculosis is much more scientific and logical and the results speak for themselves. The death rate is down considerably even though the disease heads the list of causes of death in the 15-34 age group. The present day management did not originate overnight. The first step occurred back in 1882 when Koch isolated the causative germ. This research work pigeonholed tuberculosis as an infection, which in turn offered clues as to its spread and control.

In 1895 the discovery of the X-ray opened up the road to early detection but it was not until World War I that we took advantage of this diagnostic aid in tuberculosis. Nowadays the machinery is available for microfilming thousands of persons so that early detection has become a reality. It leads to more satisfactory results in treatment and lessens the chance of transmitting the disorder to others. Another milestone was passed when our public health officials eliminated bovine tuberculosis. This was done by testing cattle and slaughtering infected animals. It was an expensive proposition but the plan is paying dividends in that we are seeing fewer and fewer humans with tuberculosis of the neck glands, the bones, and other organs. Immunization of children with BCG vaccine is being tried in various parts of the world.

Streptomycin and para-aminosalicylic acid are being used extensively in treatment. These drugs are not so effective as we would like but enough victims of the disease are helped to make the method worth while. Meanwhile research continues on other chemicals that have proved effective agaist the tubercle bacillus in the laboratory.

Improvements in chest surgery also have been a boon to the more stubborn cases. Many persons owe their lieves to one of the many procedures now being employed along this line. However, segregation still is the bottleneck in tuberculosis control. In many sections of the country we do not have the space or the facilities to isolate and treat the increasing number of cases that are turning up as a result of tuberculosis detection drives.

Bed rest still is good treatment but it is not imperative in all cases because of the additional aids we have in fighting the disease. Many sufferers do well after having air injected into the chest cavities or undergoing a procedure which temporarily paralyzes the diaphragm. Furthermore, we know that sanitarium care is best. It is not necessary to go to one located thousands of miles away because the climate is better. Most patients are happier and more co-operative when they are closer to family and friends. The diet need not include special items, so long as it is well balanced.

TOMORROW: Cold remedies: old and new.

COCCYX DAMAGE

M. T. writes: I fell on the ice and my doctor tells me I have coccygodynia. Will this back pain disappear in time?

REPLY

Yes, as a rule, depending upon the severity of the injury to the coccyx. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on painful coccyx.

IODINE

H. T. writes: What is the difference between white iodine and the regular kind?

REPLY

Iodine preparations can be decolorized through the addition of another drug such as sodium thiosulfate. In the process, they may lose much of their potency.

THE Rh FACTOR

S. B. writes: Do men have an Rh factor?

REPLY

Yes, we all do because it represents a type of blood. Of the population, 85 per cent are Rh positive and the remainder, Rh negative. This type of blood test is done more frequently on women in pregnacy. When it is positive, nothing more is done about it, but Daddy enters the picture when it is negative.

WALKING AFTER CONFINEMENT

Mrs. N. writes: After being in bed for three months I find my feet limp and ankles wobbly. I cannot wiggle my toes or stand without suppport. The doctor assures me I will be O. K. eventually. Is there any way I can speed up the process?

REPLY

Have patience because these symptoms are not unusual after being confined to bed for three months. The muscles have lost their strength, the tendons are overstretched, and the blood vessels are without tone.

Impoverished Albanians Figure They Have Nothing To Lose Trying New Experiments; Series Of Wars Have Made Them Easy Mark For Communism

(Editor's Note: Drew Pearson is on a flying tour of Europe and the Middle East, surveying the world situation.)

PEC, YUGOSLAVIA—For most of one day I have driven along what is sometimes called "the little iron curtain"—the border where Yugoslavia and Albania meet, for Yugoslavia enjoys the unenviable distinction of being squeezed between two sections of the iron curtain with Bulgaria and Hungary on one side and Albania on the other.

How tiny, primitive Albania—chiefly a Mohammedan country—happened to fall for Russian communism has always been a mystery to me. I lived on the Albanian border for two years after the First World War, once crossed it on horseback, and its people at that time were rugged individualists who hated all governments, including their own, with the passion of Pennsylvania's high-tariff Joe Grundy. Perhaps the explanation is that Albania is a nation of extreme poverty where the people have nothing to lose by trying new experiments plus the fact that any nation torn by a never-ending series of wars is an easy mark for communism.

At any rate, the border between Russianized Albania and anti-Russian Yugoslavia now is studded with armed guards, and strangers are not permitted within 20 kilometers (about 12½ miles).

I managed to remember enough of the local language to talk my way past the first guard in the restricted zone and thereafter managed to talk my way past guards who stopped our jeep every half hour until we had passed through the old Turkish Albanian city of Prizerend, the border town of Jakovitza, and Deceny monastery—one of the oldest in Serbia, but it now bristles with armament. The iron curtain here is not of barbed wire as it is around most satellite countries but consists of a steep mountain range, its base studded with troops.

Denounce Double Crossing

My purpose in visiting this isolated, desolate part of the Balkans was partly sentimental, partly to see whether the United States is getting credit for its good program, partly to gauge Yugoslav sentiment toward Russia and the United States in an area far from the official blarney handed out by the diplomats in Belgrade.

Regarding the food program, the United States has given the Yugoslav government $60,000,000 worth of flour with the understanding that they sell it through their regular ration system but making it clear that the flour comes from us. Its distribution was organized under Richard Allen of Carmel, Calif., a former Hoover food man who has also arranged for American inspectors to travel through the country. I traveled part of the time with one of these inspectors—efficient George Trett—as he interviewed local officials and local farmers and it appears the United States is getting credit.

Regarding Yugoslav feeling toward Russia, it seems similar to that of the bride who has been jilted at the church and then watched her fiance marry another man. Yugoslav papers are filled with bitter denunciations of Russia, reminding the people that anyone who deals with Russia always gets double-crossed and even playing up the Russian double-cross history back to 1700 as if it were hot first-page news today.

Later, I heard Marshal Pijade, considered the father of Yugoslav communism, address 50,000 people in one of the bitterest attacks I have ever heard against Russia. Pijade was jailed for 14 years by King Alexander, at which time he taught Marxism to other Yugoslav leaders but now Moscow calls him "the hideous hunchback of Belgrade." When I heard him he quoted Thomas Dewey, Walter Lippmann and Ernest Bevin as proof that Russia is a brutal nation and that the United States and England are vigorously supporting Yugoslavia.

Lesson For U. S.

Thirty years ago I had charge of 100 Bulgar prisoners in a diminutive Serbian village called Dobro Do, which means good valley—but the valley wasn't good, because it had been burned out by the Bulgarian army and my job was to rebuild the homes of Serbian widows, using Bulgarian prisoners for labor. We also had a transport company of 100 mules and 100 conscripted Albanian mule drivers who every night sat around campfires—the Albanians, the Bulgar prisoners and their Serbian guards discussing war and what caused war.

That was in 1919 and they recalled that in 1912 Serbia and Greece had fought Turkey, then in 1913 Bulgaria had fought Serbia and Greece, and in 1914 the World War started. Thus for six long years the Balkans were plunged in war—war which neither the Serbian guards nor their Bulgarian prisoners nor the Albanian conscripts wanted. Their hope, they said, was Woodrow Wilson—he was going to proclaim a new world in which there would be eternal peace.

Well, the years have come and gone since then. Woodrow Wilson tried and failed, and Dobro Do since then once again was ravished—this time by the Germans, later by the Italians—and then liberated by the Russians who, at times, acted more like conquerors than liberators.

This is the history of a typical Balkan village and when you look round at the poverty which always follows in the wake of war you understand why there is communism in the Balkans, for people who are poor, who are bled white, who have nothing to lose, turn in their desperation to desperate remedies.

This also may be a lesson for the United States for, if we get involved in war, its aftermath may find us nearer the communism which we are fighting so hard to avoid.

Matter Of Fact

Eisenhower And Taft

WASHINGTON

IT may seem like cruel and unusual punishment to keep dragging into discussions of domestic politics the name of a man who is doing a supremely important and wholly non-political job. Yet it has become downright impossible to write about American politics without using the name of General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower. For the very powerful forces within the Republican party which oppose Sen. Robert A. Taft are now to all intents and purposes wholly united behind Eisenhower. What is more, the broad outlines of the strategy for drafting Eisenhower are already pretty well established.

The key figure in the draft-Eisenhower movement is likely to be Sen. James Duff of Pennsylvania rather than Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York. Dewey is of course publicly on record for Eisenhower. Yet Dewey is not personally close to Eisenhower, Dewey has inevitably made innumerable enemies in the national Republican party; and these enemies equally inevitably suspect him, however unjustly, of using Eisenhower as a stalking horse. Duff suffers from none of these disabilities.

Duff is approaching seventy, and he has no Presidential ambitions. An internationally minded, liberal Republican, he is close to Eisenhower, both personally and in his political thinking. He has made few enemies nationally. Since his crushing defeat of the Grundy forces, he will control Pennsylvania's key delegation at the convention. Finally, he is all-out for Eisenhower's nomination.

Fence-Building For Eisenhower

Thus he is a sort of political loadstone, and the anti-Taft and pro-Eisenhower forces are already coalescing around him, in an informal alliance. The immediate object of this alliance is to perform a sort of holding operation—to prevent the Taft forces from capturing the nomination in advance during the coming year.

The great anti-Taft redoubts, the states of New York, Pennsylvania and California (which Gov. Earl Warren will hold against Taft) are counted on chiefly for this purpose. With these states, and others on the East and West coast acting as anti-Taft makeweights, the next 12 months will be devoted to quiet fence-building for Eisenhower.

Then, according to the dream of the Eisenhower men, Eisenhower will return next spring, his great mission of organizing the defense of Europe achieved. An Eisenhower boom, with Duff its chief spokesman and organizer, will get under way. His name will be filed in Republican primaries in such states as Nebraska and Wisconsin, where consent of the candidate is not required. The magic of the name will be conclusively demonstrated. The Taft forces will be beaten back. Eisenhower will be nominated triumphantly.

So much for the dream. Measured against reality, it contains one obvious possible flaw. The Eisenhower men profess absolute confidence that he will consent to run. But this is essentially because no politician wants to commit himself to a Presidential candidate who may not be a candidate at all. When pressed, the Eisenhower supporters admit that Eisenhower has never given anything like a firm commitment to anyone. And Eisenhower is certainly quite genuinely doubtful about the wisdom of a soldier becoming involved in politics. In the end, Eisenhower's decision is very likely to depend to a great extent on none other than Sen. Robert A. Taft.

Taft-McCarthy Alliance Possible

For one thing, Sen. Taft, after some hesitations, now appears firmly to have embraced substantially the "Chicago Tribune" version of foreign policy, which is of course dramatically opposed to everything Eisenhower stands for. For another thing, there are plenty of signs, as the "St. Louis Post-Dispatch" reported in a recent series of well-documented articles, that Taft has entered into what the Post-Dispatch calls "a sinister alliance" with Sen. Joseph McCarthy.

It may seem incredible that a man of Taft's great reputation for high integrity could ally himself with a McCarthy. Leaving aside such matters as the Wisconsin income tax and the $10,000 fee from Lustron, McCarthy's ideas of personal probity are illustrated by the fact that, according to an incomplete tabulation by the "Post-Dispatch," he has spewed forth a total of 70 distortions and demonstrable falsehoods on matters affecting the national interest in a short 12 months.

Yet, incredible or not, astute observers believe that an informal but solid Taft-McCarthy alliance is in the making. McCarthy is expected to start the spewing process soon again, this time from his strategic

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — There was nothing "illegal" about the fact that Senator Murray, Democrat, of Montana urged that a loan by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation be approved for a hotel company which his son served as a lawyer and received a $21,000 fee.

The question will be raised, however, as to whether there was an "impropriety" on the part of the Montana Senator. The answer will depend on how much of an inference of impropriety there is in the action of the members of the RFC — whether they were really influenced by the congressional approach.

This goes to the heart of various forms of lobbying in the national capital. It isn't the lobbying that's improper. It's the receptiveness of an official to unwarranted influence of any kind which raises the real issue.

Always Under Pressure

By and large, officials are honest. Those with discretionary powers given them under the laws of Congress are always under pressure to make this or that decision favorable to an applicant.

What Senator Murray did in going to the RFC was what some other members of Congress have been doing. What his son did was the same thing as any lawyer or paid lobbyist does — his object is to get favorable action. Like any lawyer here, he is paid to persuade. On Capitol Hill every day, members of Congress, besieged by their constituents, write letters to the executive departments and agencies and make a case for favorable action or negative action. Again and again lawyers come to senators and representatives and ask their intercession with governmental agencies both for constituents and persons outside their respective states.

The vice of the whole system is not that efforts are made to get congressional support for or opposition to action to be taken by executive agencies but how that congressional influence is exerted. If it is confined to letter writing or even to persuasive conversation, it is not improper. Government officials must listen to all who have pertinent information or argument to give them on vital problems confronting them. But if the member of Congress threatens to cut down appropriations of the agency unless he has his way or makes a promise of some other favor to be given the official by him or anyone else, this is a naked bribe. The federal statutes cover such crimes and provide for prosecution.

It is whether the member of Congress is himself susceptible to improper influence or invulnerable to improper pressures on legislation which constitutes the real problem that has to be examined in each case. To forbid lobbying or petitioning is wrong — though registration to require full knowledge and identification of lobbyists is correct. To forbid members of Congress to communicate with excutive agencies on matters of vital concern to their constituents or friends would be wrong — and to forbid their sons to engage in law business here would be wrong, too.

Any member of Congress, on the other hand, who does have a relative engaged in practice before government departments and wishes to avoid criticism should, strictly speaking, say to any government official with whom he happens to communicate in the course of his daily routine that he hopes the application or problem will be considered on its merits and without giving any weight to his relationship to the lawyer who represents the matter.

Many Ramifications

In judicial circles it is customary for a judge to disqualify himself from sitting on any case where a member of his family may be a litigant or a lawyer for either party. In legislative circles no such practice exists.

In fairness to Senator Murray of Montana, it should be said that, if his intervention was improper, then standards should be proclaimed by the Senate itself which makes the rules concerning the conduct of its own members. Maybe the time has come for the Senate and the House to draw up rules of conduct — setting forth perhaps whether members themselves may represent clients in state courts and then, without fee, intervene in their behalf on matters which those clients have before the federal government.

Maybe the inference of lack of integrity is in itself too sweeping just because a member of Congress intervenes for a constituent or friend in a financial transaction. Shall that constituent or friend be stopped, too, from expressing his gratitude later on in making a contribution to the congressman's campaign? These matters introduce many ramifications.

The all-important question in the final analysis is whether government officials in the executive agencies are themselves men of integrity or susceptible to political influence. Most of them are beyond reproach. It is, in every such case, a matter of simple honesty, and there are many more honest than dishonest people hereabouts.

Members of Congress may ask but members of the RFC should refuse if a loan application is without merit. Conversely, because an application has the backing of a member of Congress doesn't necessarily make it an unsound loan.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The State Of Missouri

THE KEFAUVER Committee reports:

"It was no secret in the State of Missouri . . . that the state government and its administration had narrowly escaped falling under the control of gangsters with criminal affiliations in the elections of 1948."

This does not make pleasant reading about any state or city, but this is what that same report says about St. Louis:

". . .In St. Louis, Morris Shenker appeared to have a substantial portion of the legal trade involving bookmakers who had fallen into the clutches of the law. It is noteworthy that Shenker appeared before the committee as counsel for William Molasky, one of the owners of Pioneer News Service, the racing wire news distributor in that city. He also appeared as counsel for Joe Uvanni, racetrack 'comeback money' agent for John Mooney, of St. Louis. According to testimony before the committee, Molasky contributed $2,000 to the gubernatorial campaign fund of Forest Smith on condition that Smith would name Shenker to the Police Board (of control) of St. Louis if elected."

Again, the report states:

"There is considerable evidence in the minutes of the testimony concerning contributions to political campaigns by gamblers and gangsters. . ."

In the new book by Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, "Washington Confidential," appears the following paragraph:

"At the first open hearing of the (Kefauver) committee, subpoenaed gamblers were represented by Morris Shenker, St. Louis lawyer, formerly on the Missouri Democratic Committee. As a result of his good work in obtaining campaign donations, Shenker was named by Bill Boyle to the Democratic Finance Committee. He hastily resigned after the deal was exposed. . ."

So, we come to the curious election which is to take place in St. Louis next Friday. Congressman John Sullivan, Democrat, representing the 11th District, having died, March 9 was set for a special election. His widow, who had been the congressman's secretary, expected to be the candidate. She was rejected by the aforesaid Morris Shenker, who controls what is roughly called the democracy. Shenker thereupon nominated Harry Schendel, sales manager of an automobile agency, as his candidate. The Republicans nominated Claude I. Bakewell, a former congressman.

The real issue in this contest is the power and authority of Morris Shenker, the mouthpiece. He is said to be unusually able. His own view is that he can separate his law practice from his political activities, which would be an interesting feat, if accomplishable. In a telegram to Senator Wiley of Wisconsin, he wrote:

"I have never permitted my political activities to interfere with my practice of law, nor have I attempted to associate the two. I have never solicited or accepted a political contribution from any of my clients."

Shenker is the lawyer who raised the question of the use of television in public hearings. One of the most valid purposes of congressional hearings is that they give the people an opportunity to know of corruptions, distortions and treasonable conduct of individuals. The newspapers, radio and now television bring these hearings close to the people. In the case of James J. Carroll, who calls himself a betting commissioner, Shenker said:

"Forcing a man to give testimony

Fellowship Of Prayer

Daily Lenten Devotional

IN EPHESUS

Wherefore take up the whole armor of God, that ye may be able to withstand in the evil day, and having done all, to stand.

Ephesians 6:13.
Read Acts 19:21-41.

When Paul and several companions landed in Ephesus they found that the center of the people's devotion was the Temple of Diana. Their goddess had been let down from Jupiter and was clothed in the garment of a huntress. She stood behind a curtain in a temple twice as large as St. Paul's in London.

No one saw her, but Demetrius the silversmith made little shrines, sold them to the people in the streets, and thus made a handsome living. The city was Roman in government, Greek in culture . . . and oriental in religion. To make the Christian religion a vital force in that environment was a colossal task. However, at the end of several years of preaching and teaching, Ephesus began to feel the influence of the gospel.

If Demetrius lost his standing it was because the Ephesian fellowship followed Paul's plea to "tighten the belt of truth . . . wear integrity as your coat of mail, and have your feet shod with the stability of the gospel of peace." (Moffatt) It would take some such armor of God to withstand in the evil day.

Let Us Pray: What wait we for, O Lord, but the revealing of thyself in the midst of an evil world? Even so, come Lord Jesus. Amen.

ALONG THE POTOMAC TO WASHINGTON

(By Representative J. Glenn Beall, Sixth Maryland District)

THE National Production Authority has given priority to orders for materials to be used for maintenance, operation and repair in businesses ranging from the little shoe repair shop to the big industrial plants with public and private institutions receiving the same protection. The NPA administrator stated that all establishments in the United States including warehouses, factories, retail and wholesale stores, service shops, farms, hospitals, schools, libraries, churches, federal, state and local governmental agencies, may when necessary use a priority rating to procure equipment and supplies for maintenance, repair and operation of their present facilities at the same rate as the dollar purchases of last year. This will enable the producers of goods and services to operate efficiently during this emergency.

Two events happened last week which have a direct bearing on each other. In the United States natural rubber for passenger car tires was reduced to 15 per cent natural rubber while larger car tires were reduced to 22 per cent. This is to save natural rubber, which must be imported, for military use and for stockpiling. Airplane tires, for instance, require all natural rubber. As we cut down on the use of natural rubber, British Colonial Affairs Minister John Dudgale told the House of Commons that Britain will not stop the flow of vital Mayalan rubber to Russia and her satellites because the Attlee Government considers the trade "normal." Fourteen per cent of Malaya's rubber production is going to Russia, China, Czechoslovakia and Poland.

The Defense Department reports combat casualties in Korea now total over 50,000 men. United Nations countries have a total of 44,000 troops in Korea. American casualties in the Korean War now exceed the number of supporting troops sent by other UN nations. In contrast to the combined 44,000 fighting troops from other nations, Gen. Omar Bradley in testifying before the House Armed Services Committee on February 26, said, "Over in Korea there are approximately one-quarter of a million Americans who are fighting for this nation and our position in world affairs."

A Soviet economic party has arrived in Genoa, Italy, to speed up delivery of electric cranes and thermal power stations which would ease up Russia's fuel position in case of war or blockade this summer. The two factories producing these vital cranes and power stations were subsidized by the American taxpayers through $1,625,000 of Marshall Plan money.

School superintendents meeting in Atlantic City recently were told that the nation's public schools are the bull's-eye in the target of subversive pressure groups in attempts to influence our children. Virgil M. Rogers, head of the Battle Creek, Michigan, schools, said subversive organizations are trying to "block, control and determine what American boys and girls read and say and hear."

UNDER THE DOME

On March 1 I received a commission and honorary membership in the United States Park Police. The award was made by Mr. Edward J. Kelly, superintendent of National Capital Parks, and Captain Mark Rasbery, chief of the Park Police. This was done in recognition of my interest in the Park Police.

At the requests of residents in an Allegany County community, I got in touch with the power company relative to the installation of power lines in that area.

As a member of the Public Buildings and Grounds Sub-Committee of the Public Works Committee, I went with the group on an inspection tour of government-owned ground in connection with their consideration of the Dispersal Bill, H. R. 1728. Land in both Maryland and Virginia was inspected.

Again I contacted the Veterans Administration relative to the closing of contact offices and was advised that they have asked the Bureau of the Budget to reconsider such a move on the basis of the work load rather than on contact offices. The Veterans Administraton feels that this should be the method of closing offices; however, no understanding has been reached as yet by the two agencies. I have brought the good work done by the contact offices to the attention of both agencies and hope the offices will be retained.

Try And Stop Me

In London, the Book Society, celebrating its twenty-first birthday, exhibited a prized communication from the late Queen Marie of Rumania. The club conducts periodic membership-get-acquainted campaigns, with free books for every enrollment secured—a device used effectively by book clubs in America, too.

Queen Marie responded to an early one: "Please send your literature to the following: King George of Greece, Princess Marie of Yugoslavia, and Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands. If any of them take out membership, 'I'd like a copy of Evelyn Waugh's 'Vile Bodies'."

Time for a Scotch story, don't you think? This one concerns the evening Mrs. McDermott looked out the window just as the family was going on to dinner, and wailed, "Och, Sandy, here comes company. I bet they haven't eaten yet." Sandy, equal to the emergency, ordered, "Quick! Everybody out on the porch—with a tooth-pick."

County Bird Club To Hear Maslowski

The Allegany County Bird Club will have Karl Maslowski as the speaker for the meeting tomorrow at 8 p. m., in Allegany High School auditorium.

A well known lecturer, naturalist and owner of a superb collection of colored films of North American animal life, Mr. Maslowski is to give an illustrated lecture on "Beneath Buckeye Skies."

A veteran of two and one half years in the Army Air Corps in the ETO, Mr. Maslowski has worked with the Ohio Division of Conservation as photographer-naturalist; with the University of Cincinnati, as lecturer in nature study; at the Cincinnati Museum of Natural History as curator of birds and written a weekly nature column as well as numerous illustrated articles on natural science.

In tomorrow's illustrated lecture he will show the beauties of Ohio, not only the river and state, but its wild life. In this different out-of-doors film, weird fantastic larvae transform to gorgeous butterflies. Wide-eyed screech owls and tiger-ish shrews, diminutive yet fierce, play leading roles. Whether out in the clear meadows, at the shrubby woods-edge or deep in the fern-cool forest, the wild creatures, large and small, winged or afoot, form parts of inter-balanced wildlife communities, which Karl Maslowski portrays and brings to life in his motion picture lecture program, "Beneath Buckeye Skies."

THE PROPER ACCESSORIES, WORN JUDICIOUSLY, CAN BE WHAT MAKE YOUR EASTER OUTFIT MEMORABLE

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Fashion Editor

The styles that make the headlines in the Easter parade often are accessories.

A dream of a hat, a dramatic handbag, an ingenious scarf, a new twist with a veil, a striking piece of costume jewelry, a belt, a fob, a pair of gloves—there are the things that give life to a costume, and make it memorable.

This year you may be making last year's suit do—but you can take your place in the big parade with a judicious choice of fresh accessories. The most important of these, of course, are gloves and hats. French women long have known the secret of superlative chic—an outrageously pretty hat, perfectly coordinated gloves, smart shoes, and any simple little suit or dress you happen to own.

There's a graceful, feminine look to the 1951 silhouette when its stem-slim lines are offset by an important flattering hat and graceful gloves.

Top milliners recognize that this is the year for the "pretty hat, with wider brim, flower trimming, feminine veiling, in pale, delicate shades which are matched by the season's French kid and doeskin gloves.

Among the important pastels for Easter are: sherbet, a subtle off-white; creme, a butter shade, and French beige, a neutral to go with anything.

You'll be seeing these tints in hats by such noted milliners as Sally Victor, Laddie Northridge and Walter Florell, matched exactly to new glove colors.

One type of work that doesn't pay off is laboring under the idea that this old world owes you a living.

Brunets survive better than blonds in climates where there is an abundance of sunlight.

Want to know whether your voice is a liability or an asset? This test will give you your answer!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

WHEN and what was the last comment you received on your voice from someone you care about? Was it flattering...or stunning?

My reader correspondence proves that more and more women are realizing that a woman's voice is a major factor in her charm and success.

Whether your voice woos people to your side or makes them seek space elsewhere is a matter that is entirely within your control. If you have been pursuing an improved voice, this self-rating test will show you what progress you have made. If you've never given the latent power of your voice much thought, the quiz may point out a path you can take to boost your charm rating way above its present mark.

Think These Over

Get your pencil ready, but don't rush this quiz. Sit back and think very carefully before you mark "no" or "yes" to every question.

1. In small social gatherings, do you readily and easily gain the attention and interest of others when you are talking?

2. Has anyone ever said, "slow up," "not so loud," "I didn't hear you," or something similar to you?

3. Without having to resort to something that sounds heavy-handed, angry or hurt, do you usually gain your desired response?

4. Have you ever been accused of sounding bossy, bored affected or tired when you didn't feel that way?

Masculine Preference

5. Are you aware of the fact that men rate a pretty voice above a pretty face when seeking companionship from women?

If your voice is what it should be, only the first and last questions will be followed by a "yes". For your charm's sake, all others require a negative answer. If you missed one or more, you can depend on this column to help you add a new facet to your charm. Watch for the lessons dealing with voice. With just a little effort, you will see what you considered an everyday voice flower into an attractive effective, powerful tool in dealing with your public.

WASHINGTON

JOHN F. SHELLEY of San Francisco is being rehearsed to run against Senator Knowland in '52 . . . So say G. O. Powers . . . Basis for their charge: Representative Shelley comes from San Francisco and San Francisco was made regional headquarters for the all-powerful Office of Price Stabilization . . . Los Angeles with its much greater population, is f-u-u-uri-i-ous! One reason why Democrat Shelley's district got the plum: so that business men from all over the state, who will be begging favors from Price Stabilization headquarters, will have to trot to San Francisco —to Shelley's district, and to Shelley.

AUSTINE

"And don't think this price stabilization is not going to be a political weapon," moan Republicans. "It'll will be a rat race from start to finish—and we'll be the rats!"

Spring-Can't-Be-Far-Behind-Note: When crews on American airliners start dashing off poetry on those little slips of paper they pass around the planes to tell passengers about altitude, airspeed, and location—that's the day the robins are due.

The slip said, "Our position is over Philadelphia . . . Our Captain is R. Burford, stewardess, Miss M. Sorenson . . . First Officer, T. S. Grow.

Then followed this artistic outburst:

"'Tis mighty small we must appear
To those below who gaze up here,
And see us, a speck up in the sky
As southwest on our course we fly.
A mile we sit above the ground
Four miles a minute southwest bound,
And at 55 we'll be down
On scheduled time at Truman Town."

Anna Jean Harrison (mentioned in that mag article on "The Mystery Billionaire") sneaked down to the National Gallery, looked at the mystery billionaire Gulbenkian Collection with fervid attention . . . She's probably one of the few people who have met recluse Gulbenkian . . . And, if you can believe the article, the only woman who ever slammed a door on him! Right now she has the President of a foreign country mad for her!

So he began telling her about his job, and then gave her a short lecture on government, civics and patriotism . . . When he had finished, the tot said, "Daddy can I ask a question?"

"Of course, dear."

"Is 'President Truman' a boy or a girl?"

Ex-pot holder distributor, ex-school teacher, ex-farmer, ex-Naval officer in World War II, Horace Seely-Brown, Jr., considers his mission here is telling folks back home in five-cent words what it's all about.

This freshman Congressman with the fancy name, among other fresh ideas, plans to put out a miniature newspaper to constituents . . . "I promised that every six weeks I will report to all Republicans, as well as Democrats in my district what I'm doing. Why I'm doing it. Whether I'm living up to campaign promises."

Incidentally, during his unorthodox campaign (his big district covers almost half the State of Connecticut) he stopped at the door of every housewife and gave away pot holders reading: "Make a Note—Remember to Vote—For Seely-Brown."

The good-looking representative, who is married and has three kids, did not hold rallies; but he canvassed chosen homes, and asked them to invite 15 people in . . . He said he'd answer any questions . . . At the party he'd ask one of the 15 to ask 15 others. And so on ad electionitum . . . He specialized in visiting neighborhood housewives when they were out in the yard hanging up the wash . . . They'd agree to listen to his campaign speeches, "if you'll help me hang up the clothes."

In England not long ago a man with a great heritage crossed the bar . . . The 91-year-old Earl Nelson was great-great-nephew of the man who made history, not only at sea, but as the lover of the beautiful Lady Hamilton . . . When the aged Earl died, the 5,000 pounds pension which Britain awarded 'way back in 1806 to the heirs of the Great Admiral ceased . . . The decision to stop the pension came in 1946 when the government voted to put an end to it . . . The present heir to the title, 50-year-old Viscount Trafalger has calculated that in the 144 years since the pension was first granted, the Nelson Family and descendants have been given close to a million pounds by the British Government.

"House Of Magic" Show Planned At Allegany High

General Electric's famous "House of Magic" is scheduled to be presented in the Allegany High School auditorium the afternoon and evening of Friday, March 16, Potomac Edison Company, sponsors of the show, announced yesterday.

William A. Gluesing, magician and General Electric Company engineer, will present the show. The program for students will be given during the school hours. The show for the general public has been scheduled for 8 p. m. No admission will be charged.

This "House of Magic" show has been seen by well over 13,000,000 persons from coast to coast.

Now entering its 17th season, the "House of Magic" has attracted capacity crowds at each performance, and has proved so popular that new demonstrations are being constantly added to keep the show as up-to-date as possible.

Among the many unusual and educational features of this big show will be sending sound across the stage on a beam of light; a toy train obeying spoken commands to "stop," "go ahead," and "back up"; and a man shaking hands with his own shadow.

pay raises. They have shuddered at any suggestion of new taxes to raise enough money to benefit state employes and public school teachers, a force numbering almost 30,000.

So far, state personnel have claimed priority in the thinking of both Governor McKeldin and rival party spokesmen in the Senate. Several senators have argued lately, however, that teachers should not be overlooked.

The subcommittee met yesterday with Comptroller J. Millard Tawes and two advisers. Members were reported to have received little hope for any more funds than already have been predicted from existing taxes.

funds—gasoline taxes, titling taxes and registration taxes—could be used for anything but road purposes.

Joseph Lanigan, a representative of the petroleum industry, said road taxes are collected from the motorist for the benefit of the motorist and it would be unfair to divert them for any other purpose.

"There has not been a single thing in Maryland that has contributed more to good schools than good highways," he said.

Demo Plan Delayed.

Once again the Senate declined to act on the Democrats' outline for a seventh congressional district in Maryland. And again the delay was pushed by Senator Phipps (D-Anne Arundel), who has expressed dissatisfaction with his party's measure.

By a vote of 16-13, senators placed the bill on tomorrow's calender.

Governor McKeldin's main budget proposal is still under finance committee scrunity. He worked for hours today on supplemental budget recommendations, which may be presented the General Assembly next Monday night.

Kelly Springfield Engineer Accepts New Jersey Position

J. R. CONNELLY

John R. Connelly, 835 Braddock Road, chief engineer of the Kelly Springfield Tire Company, has accepted the position of engineer with the New Jersey Zinc Company, Palmerton, Pa.

Kelly officials, in announcing Connelly's action yesterday, said he will leave March 15 for his new post. No successor has been named.

Connelly came to Kelly as chief engineer September 17, 1946 after his discharge as a major from the Ordinance Department of the Army at Springfield, Mass.

Prior to that he had been with the Illinois Power and Light Corporation, the Engineer's Experiment Station of the University of Illinois; associate professor of industrial engineering at Lehigh University; and Western Electric Corporation.

He attended the universities of Pennsylvania, Illinois and Lehigh.

Connelly is married and the father of three children, John, Jr., Joan and Ann. His family will remain here until after the end of the school term.

While here he has been president of the Presbyterian Men's Council, a member of the Advisory and Appeal Board for Smoke Control, Rotary Club and Engineer's Club. He is also alternate Maryland member of the Interstate Commission of the Potomac River Basin, a member of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers and a registered engineer in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Connelly has authored numerous technical papers.

Condemnation Suit Initiated Here

The State Roads Commission, through its chairman, Russell H. McCain, yesterday filed a condemnation suit against the Clary Club and Liberty Trust Company, this city, the mortgagee, in connection with a parcel of land adjoining the club at Clarysville.

Comprising about .84 acres, the land is needed in relocating and eliminating curves on Route 55 between Clarysville and Vale Summit.

A check for $3,150 was deposited with Clerk of Court Joseph E. Boden by the commission to cover the estimated value of the land.

Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris has signed an order requiring the Clary Club and bank to appear in court on or before March 17 to show cause why the condemnation proceedings should not be allowed.

The State Roads Commission is undertaking a project whereby the Vale Summit road, long considered one of the most hazardous in this county, will be resurfaced, widened and curves eliminated. Part of the right-of-way work has been completed and as soon as weather permits the work will be resumed.

Democrats Back Local Bid For Army Laboratory

George P. Mahoney, Democratic national committeeman from Maryland, has sent telegrams to President Truman and Secretary of the Army Marshall in behalf of Cumberland's bid for a proposed Army Quartermaster laboratory.

Mahoney acted at the request of the Young Democrats Club of Allegany County, Leslie J. Clark president, said yesterday.

The Young Democrats in a wire to Mahoney said: "Cumberland x x x is being considered as a location of a Quartermaster Research laboratory. This county, normally Republican, was carried by Truman last time. President Truman has promised to exert every effort of the federal government to solve our unemployment problem here. That was on May 16, 1950, but to date, nothing has been done. This project is locally regarded as a test of the President's sincerity."

Francis W. Bush, executive secretary to Mahoney, replied to Clark that in addition to the President and Marshall, Mahoney also spoke to William M. Boyle chairman of the Democratic National Committee, about the city's request.

Young Democrats, meeting Monday at the Algonquin Hotel, were informed of action on their telegram. Graydon S. Dunlap, vice-president, presided in the absence of Clark who was ill.

Some 4,000,000 more hogs will be slaughtered in 1951 than were in 1950, according to the Agriculture department.

Four County Restoration Of Forests To Begin Soon

A reforestration project in Allegany, Garrett, Washington and Frederick counties will get underway next week provided the weather does not change for the worse, according to William H. Johnson, district forester.

Johnson said about 410,000 trees will be planted on private lands and an additional 50,000 in state forests of the district.

The bulk of the trees will be planted in Frederick county as part of the program in the Monocacy watershed. This project, which comprises Frederick and Carroll counties in Maryland and several adjacent counties in Pennsylvania, is being handled through the State Department of Forests and Parks and the U.S. Soil Conservation Service.

Planting of the trees on larger tracts will be expedited by the use of machines especially adapted to this work. One of the machines will be used in Garrett county.

The species selected include what are considered fast growing types. They are white pine, red pine, Scotch pine, white spruce, Norway spruce, arbor vitae, cedar trees and yellow poplar.

Principal reason for the plantings is to place in use idle or marginal lands, prevention of soil erosion and the increase in the income of land owners.

Johnson said that the trees will be ready within eight to 10 years as Christmas trees, 20 to 25 years as pulpwood, 40 to 50 years as small saw logs and as large size saw logs within 70 to 100 years.

Visitors to the Arbois, France, wine festival in 1950 were offered all the wine they could drink in an hour for the equivalent of 30 cents.

Braves Grab Easy 66 To 27 Victory Here

Hancock No Match For Winners; Arnold Tichnell Scores 23

Barton's rampaging Braves continued toward their second straight state Class C title by trouncing Hancock last night on the Campobello court here by a convincing 66 to 27 score for the District No. 1 title.

Coach John Thomas' high-scoring machine hopped off to a 21-12 lead in the initial quarter and were never in danger thereafter. Quarter scores were 40-19 and 55-23.

Arnold Tichnell, high scoring center who took the Western Maryland Interscholastic title, grabbed offensive laurels again last night by pounding the hoops for nine field goals and five of eight free throws for 23 markers. Tim Clark was runner-up in the 25-goal parade by the Barton hoopsters with 15 tallies.

The victory was Barton's 19th of the season as against only three defeats. Two of the losses came at the hands of Fort Hill and the third from Allegany's Campers.

Scoring honors for the outclassed Hancock five went to Faith with 11 points. The lanky forward tallied five of his team's 12 goals.

Barton thus earned the right to play Sherwood High School of Montgomery County at Sandy Spring Friday. The Sherwood quintet is District No. 2 Class C champions. Game time will be 8 p. m. The lineups:

NEW YORK, March 7 (INS — "The Mysterious Stanley"—Sol Leon Rappaport, 25-year-old Brooklyn button manufacturer — was released in $7,500 bail today as the sixth man arrested in the Manhattan College basketball fix scandal.

The Manhattan expose preceded New York's current cage scandal by a month, and the two plots have not been interconnected so far by investigators.

Chandler's Fate In Hands Of League Officials Monday

BY JAMES RUSSELL

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 7—(INS)—The owners of the 16 major league clubs meet Monday in Miami Beach for a momentous session at which the fate of Baseball Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler is scheduled to be decided.

Chandler himself called the meeting at the request of the heads of both the American and National Leagues, and Chandler himself will be perhaps the most avid observer on the scene.

His $65,000-a-year job as commissioner is much in jeopardy, for the Florida meeting was called for the express purpose of choosing a commissioner of baseball.

Although Chandler is an outspoken candidate to succeed himself, there has been no positive indication that there are enough club owners supporting his candidacy to assure his re-nomination.

Just three months ago, the colorful ex-senator from Kentucky almost got the boot from the men who pay his salary and it was only at his own insistence that he has lasted this long.

By discreetly holding his ground, Chandler fought off his tormentors in a delaying action that brought on Monday's scheduled showdown and in the time that has elapsed since St. Petersburg, he is said to have lined up 11 of the 12 votes he needs.

The actual number of Chandler supporters varies from day to day, but it is known that he has some strong men like Connie Mack and Clark Griffith on his side.

Latest to board the Chandler band-wagon is Ellis Ryan, president of the Cleveland Indians. Ryan announced that he would vote for Chandler's re-election, saying he knows of no reason why Happy should be fired.

Such reputable national figures as Ohio Gov. Frank Lausche and former Postmaster-General James A. Farley have been mentioned as possible successors to the smiling Kentuckian who succeeded the late Kenesaw M. Landis.

If one of them—or someone else of that caliber—is chosen, the club owners are expected to buy up the remainder of Chandler's contract and install the new commissioner without delay.

Rookie First Sacker Groomed As Catcher

HAGERSTOWN, March 7—Central High's cagers held Williamsport to 13 points in the second half and downed the Washington County five 66-42 in the finals of the District No. 1 Class B state basketball championships here tonight.

The Williamsport cagers made a battle of it for the first two quarters, trailing only 17-14 and 36-29 at the close of the periods. But then Coach Johnny Meyers' Tigers got their defenses tightened and went to town.

Outscoring Williamsport 15 to 7 in the third quarter Central took a 51-36 lead into the final eight minutes of play and were never threatened.

Champ Keeps Title; Battle Goes Limit

Ezzard Booed By Crowd After Gaining Unanimous Decision

DETROIT, March 7 (AP)—Ezzard Charles retained his heavyweight title tonight by winning a unanimous decision from Jersey Joe Walcott, in a 15-round bout before 13,852 fans at Olympia Stadium.

The crowd, which was with underdog Walcott all the way, booed more than it cheered when the decision was announced.

Walcott was given a terrific hand by the fans before he left the ring.

Charles was staggered by Walcott in the fourth round and Charles floored Jersey Joe for a nine count in the ninth.

Charles was booed as he stepped out of the ring.

For one long minute in the fourth round, old Jersey Joe Walcott held the world's heavyweight title in his grasp. But it was not to be as Heavyweight Champion Ezzard Charles shook off the effects of a powerful right to the jaw and came back to win a unanimous 15-round decision and retain his title.

Boos rang through the Olympic Stadium as the 13,852 fans greeted the verdict with one cat-call after another.

The fans thought 37-year-old Jersey Joe had deserved the nod in his fourth, and no doubt final shot at the prized title.

Down to 193 pounds, the lightest he has weighed in four years, the Camden, N. J. veteran gave the 29-year-old campion the scare of his life. It was Ezzard's seventh title defense and his toughest. The crown almost tottered from his brow in that long sixty seconds.

Walcott caught the lean Cincinnati champ with a smashing overhand right to the head and Charles was staggered.

From then on Charles was more cautious, so cautious that boos rang out in several of the rounds but the champion piled up points.

Blackwell To Hurl

TAMPA, Fla., March 7 (AP) —Manager Luke Sewell gave his Cincinnati Reds a "vacation" today—they only had one workout. And there will be only a light drill tomorrow prior to an intra-squad game.

The reason for all that is that Sewell believes his lads have rounded into excellent shape already. "Not a one of our pitchers has a sore arm," he said. "There hasn't been a suspicion of charley-horse."

Sewell also said he would give Ewell Blackwell his first pitching assignment in tomorrow's intra-squad tilt. Blackwell, on whose right arm a big part of the Reds' hopes rest, was reported by Sewell to be "rarin' to go."

Brigham Young Cagers To Vie For Grand Slam

Team Doesn't Have Regulation Court

PROVO, Utah, March 7 (AP) — A team that lacks even a regulation size floor on which to practice is attempting a grand slam in America's college basketball.

Brigham Young University has tickets to the National Invitational Tournament in New York's Madison Square Garden and to the western regional NCAA playoffs in Kansas City.

Yet at their home in this central Utah town of 29,000 the BYU Cougars practice on the third floor of a teacher training school building. Their practice floor is less than standard size and its out of bounds markings are along the room's outer edges.

How does it happen that a school with such meager facilities consistently is a power in western basketball? University authorities say it's largely because the Latter-Day Saints (Mormon) Church, which owns and operates Brigham Young University, emphasizes basketball in its youth program.

Brigham Young has an enrollment of 5,600 students. About 95 per cent of them are Mormons. Virtually all of them grew up in communities in which the church's basketball program has an active place.

The school's basketball facilities will be much better for next season. Now nearly completed is a $1,100,000 field house which will accommodate nearly 10,000 spectators. Brigham Young has played its home games this year in the University of Utah fieldhouse in Salt Lake City, about 40 miles away.

Brigham Young has won 24 of its 31 games this season. It has rolled up 2,027 points for an average of 65.4 per game. Opponents have been held to an average of 54.7. And in the seven games it lost, Brigham Young's deficit was just 4.4 points per game. Two of the losses were by one point margins.

George Ratterman, New York Yankee football quarterback, set a club record in 1950 with 140 completions in 294 attempts for 2,251 yards.

SRC Head Defends Group On "Dereliction" Charge

House Asks Official Investigation Of Case

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 7 (AP)—A member of the racing commission defended it today against complaints it is more concerned with welfare of track owners than the public.

Wilbur R. Dulin, one of the three commissioners, spoke in rebuttal to a resolution introduced Monday night in the House of Delegates asking for an investigation of the commission.

Dulin used a letter to House Speaker Luber (D-Balto 5th) as the means to give his personal assurance that "the interest of the state and of the public will be protected."

Delegates Tawney and Buffington of Baltimore's third district said in their resolution that the commission "evidently is more concerned with the interests and welfare of the tracks and of private individuals than with the interests and welfare of the citizens of the entire state."

They asked for appointment of five delegates to inquire if the commission has been "derelict in its public trust."

Dulin, a former state senator from Anne Arundel County, said he believed the resolution may have been prompted by the commission's silence on its investigation of the Bowie track.

In other matches last night all were decided by 3-0 scores except SERC-Clingerman's tilt. SERC copped two games. Other results Cresap Tavern defeated Woodmen of the World, Moose topped Veterans of Foreign Wars, Stadium Inn tripped Frostburg American Legion.

High scorers were Vi Gibson, B. Lee and C. Harmison for Cresap Tavern each with 21 points; W. St. Francis-Spas, Hagerstown-Fort Hill Clash Here Tonight

College Quint With 19-3 Mark Seeks 2nd Win Over Local Pros

Victory Would Put Spas In .500 Class, Game Set For 9 P. M.

Coach William V. Keegan's greatly improved Cumberland Spas, who have clinched a playoff berth in the All-American Professional Basketball League, will be out to avenge one of their early season defeats tonight when they tackle St. Francis College, of Loretto, Pa., one of the top ranking Collegiate quints of the tri-state district and leader of the Eastern Catholic Intercollegiate League, tonight at 9:15 o'clock on SS. Peter and Paul court.

Lost First Game

In their second game of the current campaign, the Spas dropped a 64-55 decision to Coach "Skip" Hughes' Frankies in a hard-fought affair and Coach Keegan is confident the locals are capable of upsetting the tables in the return tilt.

St. Francis comes here with a record of 19 wins and three losses. Next Tuesday the Frankies open play in the National Catholic Invitation Tournament at Albany, N. Y.

Spas Nearing .500

The Spas will be engaging in their 26th game of the season tonight and they need one more victory to reach the .500 class. Keegan's hoopsters, led by the sharpshooting Ed "Whitey" Mathewson who has rolled up 383 points in 23 games for a 16.7 average, boast a record of 12 wins and 13 losses to date. The locals have won seven out of their last nine starts and in their last six games they've racked up 553 points—an average of 92.1 per game—including last Sunday's 110-56 decision over the Altoona Flyers.

John Bodner and Ed Sharick are St. Francis College's "big guns" with over 300 points each to their credit. Other members of the Loretto aggregation are George Banchansky, Bill Wanish, John Clancy, Walter Stapleton, Andrew Hleba, Ray Palonis, John O'Brien, Ed Dugan, Gene Phelps, Lou Chernauskas, Pat Farce and Frank Collins.

Average 78.7 Points

The Frankies have been averaging 78.7 points per game and their victimes include V.P.I., Quantico Marines, Creighton U., Iona College, Akron U., Youngstown, Texas Wesleyan, Westminster, Geneva and Upsala.

Tonight's game looms as one of the best attractions of the season and a real battle is in store for the fans.

Blue Speed Cops Another

Wins Third In Row At Gulfstream Park

HALLANDALE, Fla., March 7 (AP)—Blue Speed, which has a knack of winning for different owners, made it three in a row here this winter as he sped to victory in the featured seventh race, a test for three-year-olds, that drew a field of twelve useful springers at Gulfstream Park this afternoon.

Blue Speed ran for the first time in the silks of Savoy Stable, which claimed the colt from Perne Grissom on March 1 for $10,000. Before that Grissom had haltered the colt from Mrs. Wallace Gilroy for the same amount, also at Hialeah. He has won for all three of these owners.

Though placed to a strong drive, Blue Speed got home a neck before A. H. Warner's Loridale in the brisk time of 1.10 2/5 for the six-furlongs and paid a liberal $12.10 straight. Loridale, last out, had finished ninth in the Bahamas Handicap.

Hampton Stable's Alerted, bred by Calumet Farm, was third, two lengths farther back, while Fred W. Hooper's Officious, the 2 to 1 favorite, finished a full fourth, while racing on the outside all the way.

School Cagers Play Class 'A' District Final

Sentinels Are Choice To Win Third In Row From Hub City Quint

The Class "A" basketball championship of District No. 1, comprising the counties of Allegany, Garrett, Washington and Frederick, will be at stake tonight when Fort Hill High School meets Hagerstown High School tonight at 8 o'clock on the Fort Hill floor.

A two-times winner in their regular season series, Fort Hill is favored to make it three straight over Coach Mel Henry's team tonight. Scores of the first two games were 53-41 and 66-49.

Fort Hill won the toss for this game after eliminating Frederick High School's Cadets on Tuesday night at Hagerstown by the score of 59-55. Frederick split even with the Hubs during the regular season.

Hagerstown rung down the curtain on its regular schedule last week-end, suffering a 64-45 trouncing at the hands of Chambersburg High School. It was the 5th loss against 13 victories for the Maroon and Gray.

Major John J. Cavanaugh's Hilltoppers have won their last four games, have a season's record of 21-2, piled up 1,254 points, an average of 54.5 per game, and won the city, W. M. I. League and Allegany County Class "A" titles.

The Scarlet and White also is undefeated in 11 games played on the home floor this season.

Tonight's winner will play the victor in the Montgomery Blair (Silver Spring) and Maryland Park High (Seat Pleasant) District No. 2 final also set for tonight.

Officials for tonight's game here are Gordon Eismon, Charles Town, and Estel "Eck" Miers, Piedmont.

The highest attendance at Ebbets Field for a single baseball game was 37,512 when the Dodgers played the Giants Aug. 30, 1947.

Crosley Field in Cincinnati was dedicated on Saturday afternoon, May 18, 1912.

Only two members of the 22-man University of Florida basketball team live out of the state.

By JOHN KAMPS

GREAT FALLS, Mont.—(AP)—Dr. Paul P. McBride and his Red Cross nurses are breaking records in Montana in the collection of blood for wounded fighting men in Korea.

Driving over snow-covered mountain roads and blizzard-swept prairies, McBride's bloodmobile is averaging one pint of blood a mile in an area which has less than two persons per square mile.

Working 60 hours a week, the doctor and his nurses collected 2,025 pints of blood in February, while the temperature dropped to nearly 50 degrees below zero.

McBride's 31-county area is 600 by 400 miles, but it has only 291,000 residents. Of these, 2,250 greeted the mobile blood collection unit. That's a turnout equivalent to about 600,000 in New York City.

The bloodmobile arrived with a blizzard at Valier, Northern Montana town lashed by bitter winds from Glacier Park mountains, but 242 offered their blood. The town's population is 750.

A similar turnout in New York City would be about 1,500,000 persons. It would be more than 720,000 in Chicago, nearly 500,000 in Philadelphia.

The temperature was 18 below zero at Glasgow in Northeastern Montana, but donors drove as far as 50 miles to give their blood. It was 20-below and blizzarding at Harlem, Indian reservation town in Northern Montana, but 189 of the 1,175 residents turned out, including Indians traveling by sleigh and horseback.

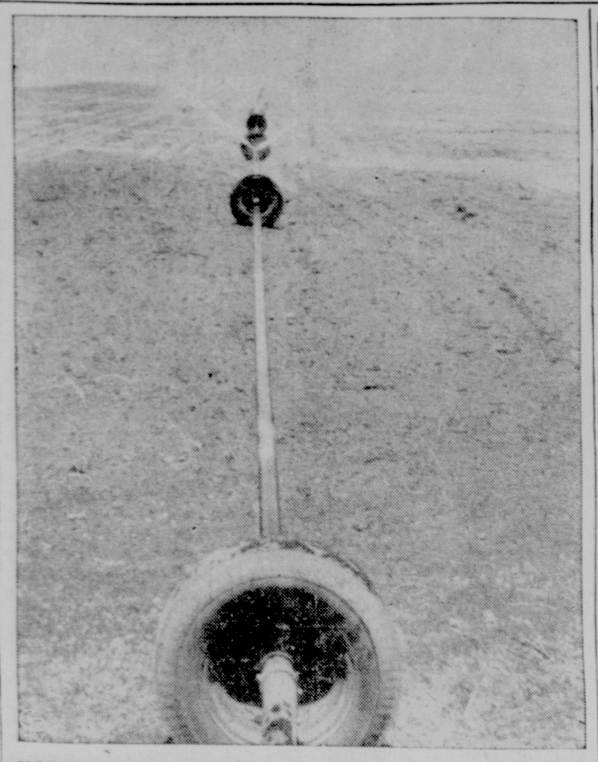
Seventy per cent of the Great Northern Railway shop crew at Havre offered blood and it was taken from 210 men. Blood was taken from 200 of the 600 inmates of the Montana prison at Deer Lodge.

Red Cross officials believe blood collection per capita is a record in Montana. They point out that blood is taken only from persons 18 to 59 years old and from those medically-fit, about 60 per cent of the population. This means that about half the number of eligible donors turned out in some Montana towns.

Collections of the Montana bloodmobile jumped 450 per cent since the Korean war began. Most of the blood is flown to Korea, but McBride still is keeping about 40 Montana hospitals supplied.

Six Red Cross nurses who travel with the bloodmobile are helped by more than 100 nurses being trained by McBride in towns visited regularly. Arrangements for the visits are made by Red Cross chapters.

"These Montana people are amazing," said McBride who came to Montana from Portland, Ore. "I've never seen anything like them."



STOCKMAN ERVIN SCHMIDT, of Beryl, Ut., has set up a sprinkler system on wheels that is the envy of his rancher-neighbors. Schmidt got the idea when he discovered how much it would cost to grade 20 acres for irrigation by flooding. His wheel-move system, 900 feet long, is made of four-inch tubing with collars welded into the wheels, and 16-inch wheels with tires. The sprinklers are 60 feet apart and have a sprinkling radius of 60 feet. (International)

Musician Regains His Sight As He Romps With Children

GLENDALE, Calif., (AP) —Bouncing around with children in a happy backyard romp, Gilbert Sawyer regained his sight after a year and a half of blindness.

Sawyer, 42, a musician, told the story today. As little Michael Humburger, his wife's three-year old grandson, grabbed him around the neck and kissed him, Sawyer said he suddenly could see.

"Everything I looked at seemed to smash into my face," said Sawyer, who was plunged into a world of darkness by an explosion in 1949. Sight returned only to the left eye, but a doctor said it was "quite likely" that vision also might be restored to the right eye.

Dr. Clarence H. Albaugh gave this explanation:

"Sawyer struck his head during the explosion and due to a hemorrhage or a clot forming in the brain his vision was cut off. I told him more than a year ago that he had a good chance to regain his sight if he would build up his general health to the maximum level.

"His whole eye apparatus was perfectly normal. It was a case of the receiving or interpretative center of the brain being damaged.

"In other words, his eye was taking pictures, but his brain was unable to interpret them."

Sawyer, it was learned, had twice received light flashes recently, indicating that sight might be returning.

Best of all—

He saw his wife, Frances, for the first time. They met at the Braille Institute and were married last November. She is not blind.

Berlin Reds Woo Westerners With Talks With Mayor

BY TOM REEDY

BERLIN (AP)—East Berlin Communists are trying to win West Germans with honey now.

The city administration has inaugurated a "come into my parlor" game for the thousands of residents of West Germany who visit the Soviet sector over a year's time to see relatives or friends.

In the last few weeks, Mayor Fritz Ebert has taken it upon himself to woo these visitors.

As soon as a West German enters the Soviet sector, his presence is recorded by the people's police. Under the German system whereby a traveler must announce himself to the police, this is a simple proposition. The list of visitors is sent daily to Mayor Ebert's office.

From the Mayor himself then comes an invitation to the visitor to come to the City Hall for a chat. Most of the invitations draw a response because the West German does not want to embarrass the relative or friend he is visiting.

The Mayor receives the West German in his private office and sits him or her before a table decked with coffee, cake and liqueur. Cigarets and cigars are available.

The bewildered visitor may be only a shoemaker but to Ebert he is a very important person. The talk shifts from conditions in the west to conditions in the east. The Mayor and his staff go to great lengths to describe the success of the program in East Berlin and East Germany.

The Soviet area is presented as a place where Germans don't have much, but they have enough and what they have is their own. Whenever possible, Ebert digs at the west as an area where current prosperity some day will have to be paid out of German pocketbooks.

The talk is very pleasant and the Mayor says how pleased he is to be able to sit across the table with another German despite east-west barriers.

As the visitor leaves, he is handed leaflets describing the East German democratic republic, and the Mayor suggests that he show his western friends how things are here. The people's police usher the visitor out as though he owned the place.

There is only one flaw in the scheme. The visitor returns to the west, sees high quality goods on the store shelves, plenty of food and bustling business. No matter how Ebert painted East Berlin, he didn't see these things there.

Diamonds, coal and the graphite used in pencils are all forms of pure carbon.

Little To Stop Red Army In Event Of Mid-East Invasion, Expert Says

NEW YORK—(INS)—A warning that Soviet Russia could drive to any point in the oil-rich Middle East in "a matter of days" was voiced yesterday in an article appearing in the United Nations World.

Such an invasion could be carried out by land or airborne operations, the magazine said in an article by Don Peretz, an expert on Middle East problems.

The article pointed out that although there is only "negligible native Communist strength" in the Middle East "the weakest prop in any defense scheme . . . is the great underprivileged masses of the population."

"Only the Communists have made any appeal to these broad masses of the people," the publication said. It added:

"Anglo-American strategy has been based solely on the geographical containment of Russia by military means. It has overlooked the weak ideological foundation upon which these means are based."

The article emphasized that the only ground force of any competent size in the Middle East is the Turkish army numbering from 400 to 500 thousand men. It described the forces of other Arab states as "lilliputian."

(Editor's Note: Turkey has proposed to the State Department in Washington that the United States join in the treaty of mutual assistance against military aggression that was signed in 1939 by Turkey, Great Britain and France. The suggestion is under government consideration).

The inventor of the little metallic heel plate realized $1,500,000 in royalties annually for several years.

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Can paying bills be a pleasure?

Answer: Believe it or not, yes. I once knew a man who told me quite sincerely: "I am always happy when the first of the month comes around so that I can get my bills paid." He had an exaggerated dread of being in debt which made him find actual pleasure in the feeling that he owed nothing to anybody. But while such a feeling is, no doubt, slightly neurotic, it is no less so to be unhappy and resentful at having to pay for what you have bought and enjoyed. The implied belief that your creditors "owe you a living" is as childish as belief in Santa Claus.

Does fatigue cause combat neurosis?

Answer: Not in itself, writes Dr. Frederick R. Hanson in the Bulletin of the U. S. Army Medical Department. What physical exhaustion does is to lower the soldier's "resistance to the emotional stress of combat." But such changes in resistance are "reversible" as the fatigue wears off, so that an important part of the treatment of mental casualties in forward areas is to provide complete physical rest through warmth, food, sleep and sedatives. You, too—if you can—should learn to have a night's sleep before facing serious problems.

May suspicions reflect secret wishes?

Answer: Yes, if they are without real foundation. When you believe something which you have no real ground for thinking, it is apt to be because you either want or "need" to do so to preserve your peace of mind. If you are planning to wrong someone, you may need to suspect him of hostile intentions to you because this is the one way to salve your conscience. A dishonest person usually suspects everyone of trying to cheat him, and a wife or a husband who suffers from groundless jealousy may have an unconscious wish to be unfaithful.

W. Va. Senate Boosts Salaries Of Teachers

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 7 (AP)—The Senate took up out of its regular order and passed unanimously today a $6,400,000 measure to provide salary raises for teachers. The bill now goes to the House.

It would provide basic increases of $50 monthly for teachers with college degrees, ranging downward to $35 for two years of college work, and still lower for those with less than two years' college training.

The House has its own bill on the floor which proposes increases costing $8,400,000.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, March 7 (INS)—That wonderful actress, Thelma Ritter, who is up for an Academy Award as the best supporting actress in "All About Eve," becomes a star in "Golden Girl" for 20th Century-Fox. She starts this in early April for George Jessell before she reports to Charles Brackett for "The Marriage Broker."

"Gold Girl" gives Thelma a chance to show the kind of comedy with a tear which she does so well. She plays Lotta Crabtree's mother with Mitzi Gaynor playing Lotta.

The story of Lotta Crabtree's mother, who was responsible for her daughter's success, is one for the books. She was a Svengali in her famous daughter's life and it was her grim determination that made Lotta a success. A woman brought up in the mining country, she left a fortune to Lotta for whom she slaved and gave her all.

Under the provocative title of "The Decayed Decade," Dorothy Parker has written her memoirs dwelling on the F. Scott Fitzgerald period. Dorothy (and she can well describe the roarin' twenties) at that time was the only woman at the famous round table at the Algonquin Hotel in New York, which was made up of such wits and literati as Alexander Woollcott, Heywood Broun, Harold Ross, Robert Benchley, George Kaufman and some others.

It was harder to get a seat at that table than to be invited to dinner at Buckingham Palace. I know, because I lived at the Algonquin during those days and I used to see the freeze out that was given the brave souls who occasionally tried to force their way to that table only to be snubbed.

In her new book, "The Vicious Circle," Margaret Case Harriman, daughter of the late Frank Case, owner of the famed Algonquin, has described the round table. I can remember when Margaret, a beautiful teen-ager, came home from school.

A good director is the best bait I know to get top actors in a cast. I hear that Charles Vidor is talking long distance with Charles Boyer about "Rage Of The Vulture" — a picture already burstin' its buttons with star names.

Alan Ladd's Paramount movie already has Corinne Calvet and Deborah Kerr in the lineup and if Boyer joins them — that's really a million dollar cast.

I happen to know that one of the main reasons MGM lent Deborah for the first time is because Vidor is directing the tall adventure yarn set in India after World War II.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Elizabeth Taylor has moved into the Beverly Hills Hotel and plans from now on to live by herself.

Edmond O'Brien has taken off 30 pounds in the past seven weeks by running the four-mile track course at UCLA every morning. He looks terrific.

Lee Tracy is being given a big welcome by all of his pals. He's been a great "success" on Broadway and has returned to Hollywood for a brief visit.

I couldn't believe it when someone told me that Gregory Ratoff was back in town having dinner with Charles Feldman and Linda Darnell. Sure enough, Greg is back after months in Europe. He's here to see his mother and to attend to some business.

Leslie Charteris, mystery writer, walked into Ciro's with RKO's lovely Audrey Long on his arm. Created quite a stir.

Jackie Cooper arrives in New York in several weeks following his successful run in "Mister Roberts" with Tyrone Power in London. He'll come on to the coast to see his baby whom he hasn't seen in over a year.

Virginia and Darryl Zanuck are in Paris. He's editing the Anatole Litvak picture and cutting it there.

That is all today. See you tomorrow!

Most Headaches Psychological, Doctor Declares

CHICAGO—(INS)—The patient with the severe headache usually gives the doctor one, too.

Dr. Russell N. Dejong, professor of neurology at the University of Michigan, told a meeting at the annual clinical conference of the Chicago Medical Society that the great majority of headaches are psychological in origin.

He told the doctors:

"Patients with headaches of this type represent a challenging therapeutic problem to the physician. Many patients have already consulted many different physicians and have had various treatment regimes advised. . . .

"Often we get a history that there is temporary relief with every new physician and with every new therapy, but still the headaches persist and interfere with the patient's work, home life, and so on."

To aid such patients, Dr. De Jong noted, it is vital that the doctor succeed in gaining their confidence, learn all he can about their backgrounds, homes, work situations and childhood.

For it is only when the doctor has such an understanding of the patient with the headache, according to Dr. De Jong, that he is able to understand the factors which bring on the pain.

Dr. De Jong explained:

"It is essential to help the patient understand that anxiety, fear, depression and frustration may cause physiologic changes that can bring on a headache."

The doctor can explain, Dr. De Jong pointed out, that tension is transmitted through the muscles to the nerves and thence to nerve centers that cause pain in the head.

Similarly, he added, it can be explained that anger causes dilation and contraction in the blood system which can and often does bring pain in the skull.

Said Dr. De Jong:

"The important part of the therapy is the treatment of the total personality, helping the patient to understand his conflicts and overcome his anxieties and tensions."

The Michigan specialist stressed that headaches are a symptom, not a disease, and cautioned that the presence of a severe or frequent headache warrants a complete examination to determine whether it might have a definite physical origin—such as brain tumor or sinus disease.

TOUGH GOING doesn't bother Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, Commander of the 8th Army, as he smilingly slogs his way along a muddy path during a visit to a Marine Command post on the Wonju front. He invariably packs a grenade—just in case. (International)

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK (INS)—THOUSANDS OF questions emerging from the mass uprooting of civilians now being called into the armed forces are neatly answered in the "Handbook For Servicemen," by Parnell Callahan (Oceana Publications, New York, $1.)

Callahan, a member of the New York Bar, was a captain in the Judge Advocate General's department in the last war. With that background, he appears to know just what's eating the average draftee or retreated reservist.

Debts, for example. Will your car, television, refrigerator, etc., be repossessed because you can no longer pay for it on, say, $75 a month?

No, or practically no, says Callahan. But you must apply to a state or federal court for relief, if granted, will apply not only through the term of your service but for six months after discharge. You can do it through your legal officer.

But the courts offer full protection usually only to those men whose service income is substantially below the money they were making as civilians. Men who receive commissions (a captain's basic pay is $487 a month, for instance) have a smaller chance of impressing a court.

Courts are similarly interested in protecting the man or firm to whom the money is owed, Callahan points out. A draftee who still owes, say, $1,250 or a $2,000 car, and, aside from the down payment has made only one monthly payment, may have the car repossessed—with the court's understanding that he gets back all or most of his dough.

Insurance payments? The government will insure each member of the armed forces for $10,000, but a great percentage of these men have been paying private insurance premiums for years. Once again the courts must be appealed to, to reduce those premiums to figures which the serviceman can pay on his abbreviated new income, or declare a holiday on payments until the insured can get back into the groove of civilian life again.

But those servicemen who make as much in uniform as they were making out of it, or more, must keep up their insurance payments, or lose their policies.

Support of dependents? A draftee is required to continue to support his wife and minor children. He may appeal for aid under the Soldiers and Sailors Civil Relief Act. A divorced draftee paying alimony may have his payments reduced under the same act, if he can prove hardship. Dependent-duckers may be court-maritaled.

Taxes? All state and federal taxes, by and large, including those already owed, are pigeon-holed throughout the duration of service, plus six months after discharge. No such relief, however, is given to those ex-civilians whose income was derived from stocks, bonds, etc. still earning money during his stay in the forces.

Savings? Enlisted personnel are permitted to deposit their savings in sums of not less than $5 with any finance officer. Such savings draw at the rate of four per cent interest a year. The savings cannot be withdrawn until the saver is discharged.

Income from injuries? To gain full benefits, one must be injured "in the line of duty, and not as a result of his own misconduct." But "line of duty" became very flexible during World War II and remains so. Callahan's pamphlet states that an injury received while playing tennis during a furlough will be considered a "line of duty" injury.

Transportation of dependents? Commissioned officers, warrant officers and enlisted men of the first three grades, together with enlisted men of the fourth grade having more than seven years' service, are entitled to transportation at government expense for their dependents when they are ordered to make a permanent change of station."

Marriage? No serviceman stationed outside the continental United States may marry without permission of the theater commander.

Discharges? They range from honorable to dishonorable, and have several variations. A "general discharge" means that the man has failed to meet the high standards required for an honorable discharge, but it entitles the vet to all benefits under the G. I. Bill of Rights.

An "undersirable discharge" holder may apply to the Veterans Bureau for certain rights accorded other vets, but his case and plea are given extreme scrutiny. A "bad conduct" discharge definitely bars certain veterans' boons, and a "dishonorable discharge" may entail loss of civil rights.

Lot of solid stuff in "Handbook For Servicemen."

"Texas Look" Demonstrated

DALLAS—(AP)—You'll be seeing the "Texas look" at our country clubs and resorts this summer.

This was demonstrated to fashion writers as the initial summer showings of Texas dress manufacturers got under way. Opening the two-day showing was the collection of Malouf-Holmes, showing simple, thriftily priced cottons in the shorts-shirt-skirt combinations that have become the U. S. summer leisure uniform.

Cool, washable outfits for golf, tennis or just plain loafing were shown in high-color chambrays and cotton broadcloths, with the special tailored touches that distinguish the designs of the casual southwest.

Chaiken showed a series of sleeveless, full-skirted cottons in such colors as deep red, peacock, bottle green and lilac, as simple as grandpa's nightshirt, but capable of being dressed up or down by assessories to make them suitable for any occasion from morning shopping at 5 o'clock cocktails on the club terrace.

Most of the styles shown will retail at less than $20, wash like a handkerchief and look cool and fresh.

A Column for Men

STAG LINES

New "At-Home" Look

Good-by to Smoking Jackets

FASHION: Old-time smoking jackets are being supplanted by sport shirts. John Conte (left), of TV's "Star Time," wears a new type that is ideal for lounging and television-watching. Of rayon gabardine, it comes in several colors

Anniversary This column completes its first year today. I'd like to mark the occasion by saying thanks to the many nice people who have indicated that they like it.

Motor Hints: Don't use harsh scouring powder to remove curb markings on white wall tires. A scrub with soap and water will do the job without scratching the surface. . . . Keep a container of soapy water and another of clean water in the glove compartment—against the day you have to make repairs.

Drinking Notes: Friends tell me that a pat of butter, swallowed before going out on a big night, will keep you in better shape—being a temperate man, I wouldn't know

Incidental Information: WNBC's "Answer Man" informs us that the average man of seventy has spent five whole months tying and untying his shoelaces! . . B.V.D.s were named for their original distributors—Bradley Voorhees & Day.

Sleeve Pressing: Next time you have a suit pressed, don't have the sleeves creased. Your suit will have a better, more casual appearance—and will wear longer Signal the tailor for "rolled sleeves" (shown at right) by turning up one cuff (left)

Amateur Chef: If you're going to make sandwiches and the bread is too fresh—chill it in the refrigerator before using. . . . Cooking outdoors? Rub bottoms of pots and pans with a wet cake of soap first—soot is easily wiped off afterward.

New Ideas: Lightweight, stockingfoot-type, hip-length boots of plastic that can be carried in pocket. . . . Red muslin nightshirts—for laughs and for comfortable sleeping. . . . Argyle colors and patterns in ties—to match socks.

Odd Items: Auto accidents in '50 killed 3,500 more people than in '49. . . . Sammy Kaye often writes music arrangements on restaurant tablecloths—and has to buy 'em to take along. . . . The first commercial TV set that Dr. Du Mont made, in 1938, still works perfectly. . . . "Pass the Cigars" to comedian Morey Amsterdam, who didn't wait for the USO but financed his own troupe to visit camps and hospitals.

Hearing Date Changed For Three Officers

A hearing for three probationary members of the Police Department dismissed for "conduct unbecoming an officer" will be held Wednesday, March 21 instead of March 24, the Civil Service Commission announced.

H. Clifferd Spiker, chairman, said Karl W. Frankfort, Vernon E. Browning and Lewis A. Miller, filed an appeal to the board on February 24 after their dismissal.

The men, having a total of 14 months service with the department, were suspended indefinitely on January 30 as a result of an incident at Midway Inn on McMullen Highway, early on the morning of January 28.

Organized Reserves Must Attend Summer Camps

BALTIMORE— (AP) —Maryland members of the Army's Organized Reserve Corps will have to have gilt-edged excuses to avoid 15 days of field training this year.

Col. Arthur L. Shreve, chief of the Maryland Military District, estimates about 1,100 officers and 1,400 enlisted men in the state will have to go to camp.

"Only under the most compelling circumstances will reservists be excused from training," he said.

Col. Shreve asked employers to cooperate by extending military leave so reservists can go to camp. Fifteen days of field training will be required. The schedule starts in May.

Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

T B H H S K V T W S D Z R K Q H O T B L,
W B T R Z O R D F W T B O T F R E K O ?—N O P Z O.

Stock Prices Turn Upward Following Two-Day Decline

NEW YORK, March 7 (AP) — A stiffening in the motor shares today provided the base for a rally in the stock market.

Prices turned upward after a two-day decline. The advance was modest, around a dollar a share among the leaders. Declines were held in somewhat the same range.

Volume expanded a bit on the upswing to 1,700,000 shares, the best in a couple of weeks. Yesterday in a declining market the volume contracted sharply to 1,490,000 shares, the lowest in six months.

That action was heartening to the bulls who cite it as evidence of fundamental strength of the market.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks moved up 30 cents to $95.20. The industrial component advanced 50 cents, the rails 30 cents and utilities 10 cents.

Packard Motor again today was the most active issue up ½ at 6¾ a new high for 1950-51. There were 106,100 shares traded.

International Telephone was second most active up ½ at 18⅛. General Motors was ninth most active up ¾ at 51¾.

Some issues stood out sharply in contrast the rest of the market, especially in its early stages.

Textron raised its dividend to 50 cents as against 25 cents previously paid. It closed up ⅝ at 22⅞.

Homestake mining, the nation's biggest gold producer, fell 1¼ at 40¾.

position on the Appropriations subcommittee, to which he was appointed with Taft's acquiescense. And the Taft camp in turn relies on McCarthy's "revelations" to fuel the Taft boom.

Eisenhower is now the only man who can beat Taft for the nomination, and he must know it. He must also know what the results are likely to be if a major American party becomes committed to McCarthyism at home and the foreign policy views of Col. Robert R. McCormick abroad. The signs may be illusory, and Taft may yet stand out as the great spokesman of the true conservative interest which his admirers believe him capable of being. Yet the Eisenhower supporters confidently expect Taft to make up Eisenhower's mind for him, forcing Eisenhower to become a candidate in order to safeguard everything he believes in.

City Election Bills Approved By Delegation

Frostburg Finance Bill Passes House

The Allegany County Delegation yesterday released with favorable reports three bills which would make Cumberland elections conform with the present fiscal year and provide for continuous registration.

The first, House Bill 472, would change the date from which the Mayor and Council of Cumberland hold office from the first Monday in April to the first Monday in July following their election.

The second, House Bill 473, sets up a system of continuous registration for municipal elections in the City of Cumberland.

The third, House Bill 474, changes the date of Cumberland city elections from the third Tuesday in March to the third Tuesday of June of each even year.

A spokesman for the delegation indicated that the bills are expected to pass the House within a few days.

Passed by the House yesterday were bills relating to Frostburg and Westernport.

Bills Pass House

The first, House Bill 396 introduced by the Allegany County Delegation, would authorize the Mayor and Council of Frostburg to borrow up to $100,000 for town improvements.

The measure authorizes the expenditure of up to $50,000 for improvements and extensions of the city's water system, $25,000 for street and highway improvements and $25,000 for improvements and enlargement of the city's sewer and sewage disposal system.

The second, House Bill 407, sponsored by Delegate Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., specifies that the town of Westernport shall be liable for damage suits for injury only if notice in writing is given to the Mayor and Council within 30 days after injury is suffered.

It also provides that the town shall not be liable for damage or injury on any public street, highway or grounds, including accumulation of ice or snow, or public work in the town, unless the defect has not been called to the attention of town authorities at least 24 hours prior to the injury or damage, and proper diligence has not been used.

Hearing Is Planned

Charles M. See, chairman, said the Allegany County Delegation will hold a hearing Tuesday at 3 p. m. at the State House, Annapolis, on House Bill 444, setting up a special taxing area in Bowling Green.

The bill would authorize the levying of a tax of not more than 30 cents on each $100 of assessable property to maintain a lighting system and fire hydrants and a tax of not more than 25 cents to defray the costs of installing and purchasing water pipes and hydrants effective until installation costs are met. It also authorizes a nine-member Citizens Committee to borrow up to $20,000 to finance the installation of the program. The bill carries a referendum provision.

To Consider New Offices

The Senate is slated to resume consideration of Phipps' office building measure. The Anne Arundel senator has urged a new $5,000,000 state building just outside Annapolis. His proposal ran into trouble last month because the budget had not yet been passed. The constitution says all financial measures must follow the budget through the legislature.

Phipps' bill is a special order of business for the Senate, but associates said he wanted to keep it on the shelf until the budget clears the Senate. That could take three more weeks.

Finance Caucus Set

All 18 Senate Democrats were slated to go into caucus to hear a subcommittee report on state finances. Party leaders are aiming for a united front on state

Dr. Murray Has Long Service

Dr. F. A. G. Murray, who will be honored by Old Rail Post No. 6025, Veterans of Foreign Wars, at Mt. Savage at 8 o'clock tonight is the second oldest physician in Allegany county in point of service and probably holds a similar rank in the entire state.

The honored physician has 53 years of service to his credit. The only medical man in the county who surpasses him in longevity of service is Dr. A. H. Hawkins, Cumberland, who has been a physician for 56 years. It is believed that no other physicians in the state have such lengthy records.

A veteran of World War I, Dr. Murray is a charter member of Old Rail Post. Principal speaker at tonight's open meeting will be Thomas B. Finan, Cumberland attorney and veteran of World War II.

WEATHER

Apparently the pleasant weather Cumberlanders have been enjoying is coming to an end. Today's prediction is for some cloudiness and colder with the high around 50. Yesterday was intermittantly sunny and cloudy with some wind.

Five Generations Together

These five Cumberlanders, whose ages cover a range of almost 90 years, got together for this traditional five generation picture. They gathered at 401 Beall Street for this family group picture shortly after the 91st birthday of Mrs. Sophie Hoenicka, of the Beall Street address. She observed her birthday last Friday. In the group, left to right, are retired Fire Chief Reid C. Hoenicka, 62, of 119 Polk Street; Mrs. Margaret H. Lindner, 41, of 104 Park Street; Mrs. Sophie Hoenicka, Mrs. Rita V. Stofer, 21, of 104 Park Street, and Kenny D. Stofer, 22 months.

Conlon Heads Armed Forces Observance

Civilian, Military Groups To Parade

Thomas F. Conlon, local postmaster, has been appointed chairman of the Armed Forces Day Committee which will organize preparations for the observance to be held here May 19, according to Lt. Col. Lewis W. Shropshire, senior project officer.

Conlon will coordinate the various members of committees and attend to sending out letters to members of fraternal, civic, business and professional groups as well as invitations to city, county, and legislative officials.

At the direction of Secretary of Defense George C. Marshall, the Second Army has been assigned primary responsibility for Armed Forces Day in area five which includes Maryland.

The defense department has designated Cumberland as one of the cities in which a major effort will be made. Among the events planned will be a giant parade with as many military and civilian groups participating as possible.

Endorsement has been received from leading national organizations including veterans, civic, womens, and labor as well as religious groups.

Col. Shropshire has written Mayor Thomas S. Post asking his cooperation suggesting that committees be formed and that community leaders do most of the planning with army authorities serving as liason between city groups and military headquarters.

Assisting Col. Shropshire will be Lt. Cmdr. F. A. Lewis, inspector-instructor for local naval units, and Capt. Henry W. Trimble, army reserve inspector-instructor.

Theme for the observance will be twofold: A tribute to the armed forces as an important part of the total material and spiritual power of America, and a renewal of faith our country's sacred heritage, according to Col. Shropshire.

Cumberlanders Attend Regional Conference

Mrs. Irving Rosenbaum and Mrs. Irving Millenson attended a regional conference of Mid-Atlantic Liberal Jewish Temples in Baltimore last weekend.

Rabbi James G. Heller, of Cincinnati, Ohio, addressed the opening banquet and stressed the need for winning the world back to the ways of God.

The bonus which was enacted into law by passage of enabling legislation by the 50th West Virginia Legislature on February 5, 1951 will be received by eligible veterans of World War I and World War II.

Tabler added that a special staff will be set up by the Ridgeley post to assist veterans in making applications.

Those eligible include veterans of World War I with at least 90 days' active duty in the United States Armed Forces between April 6, 1917, and November 11, 1918 inclusive; or if less than 90 days' active duty within those dates, were discharged because of a service connected disability.

World War II Eligibles

Veterans of World War II with at least 90 days' active duty in the armed forces between December 7, 1941 and September 2, 1945 inclusive are eligible. In addition to showing entitlement of the deceased veteran, the survivor making claim must be a resident of the state at the time of application.

City Trucker Hospitalized In Highway Mishap

Vehicle Plunges Over 75-Foot Embankment

Marshall Spencer, 464 Goethe Street was admitted to the Tucker County Hospital in Parsons, W. Va., yesterday morning following an accident on U. S. Route 219 about one mile east of Parsons, W. Va.

Spencer, the driver of a produce truck owned by the C. D. Kenney Division, Consolidated Grocers Corporation, suffered severe cuts about the left ear and head.

At 9:30 o'clock yesterday morning Spencer was enroute to Hambelton, W. Va. He had slowed down the truck on Route 219 in order to turn into Route 72 into Hambelton but the truck continued across the highway and went over a 75 foot embankment.

The driver either jumped or was thrown from the cab of the truck as it plummeted down the embankment clipping off a telephone pole, several trees and turned completely over before it came to a stop near a large tree.

Produce from the loaded truck was strewn over the area and the vehicle itself was demolished. Passengers on a Reynolds bus coming along the highway after the truck said the truck failed to make the turn and careened across the highway.

Bernard A. Harris, warehouse foreman of the local branch office said last night that possibly the brakes failed as the driver attempted to make the turn. He said that Spencer crawled up the bank following the mishap and an automobile that was at the scene took him to the Tucker County Hospital for treatment.

Spencer's left ear was severely cut but the hospital physicians were able to save it from being taken off. He also received cuts about the head.

Sheriff D. E. Crosten of Tucker County is investigating the accident.

Kimble Finds $15,400,000 "Pot Of Gold" To Provide Salary Boost For Teachers

Suggests Grabbing Of SRC Titling Tax Surplus

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 7 (AP)—Sen. Kimble (R-Allegany) today reported discovery of a "pot of gold" for giving school teachers their requested pay raise.

He said there is $15,400,000 of surplus titling taxes on motor vehicles which the state should grab. It would be enough to give teachers a $300 raise for the next three years, the minority floor leader said.

Kimble sprung the news of his "strike" on a Senate dominated by Democrats who had been prospecting feverishly for money to give teachers a raise without raising taxes.

Kimble told them if they have the moral courage to take funds from the roads commission "we have the money, we can find the money and we can make the necessary adjustments" in teacher pay.

Kimble, under questioning by Democratic Sens. Melincove of Baltimore City's Fourth District and Turnbull of Baltimore County, said he had not informed Republican Gov. McKeldin of his "find." He added he was not reporting it as minority leader either, only as senator from Allegany County.

Kimble said he hadn't had time to tell the Governor or other Republicans of his plan because he started gathering the facts only this morning.

Turnbull sarcastically praised Kimble for arriving in a matter of hours "at a solution of this problem the Governor has not been able to solve in the months since the general election."

Suggests $300 Boost

The Governor and Senate Democratic leaders both have opposed teacher raises if it means new taxes. A $500 yearly hike has been asked for them, but Sen. Kimble proposed $300 as a "reasonable increase."

"The General Assembly is perfectly justified in taking back from the roads commission" surplus titling taxes because "not one cent can be justified as highway tax revenue," Kimble argued.

He traced the history of the tax in support of his argument. The two per cent levy on car purchases was started in the 1936 depression as "aid to the needy."

Three years later, receipts were disbursed like other general funds. Then in 1947 they were dedicated to amortization of $100,000,000 in highway bonds. Any surplus is to be used for road construction.

Kimble estimated the surplus at the end of this fiscal year will be more than $15,000,000. During the first three years of the tax it brought in $15,640,000 and only $2,235,521 had to be set aside to amortize the $50,000,000 in issued bonds. The commission expects to issue the rest of the bonds this year and in 1953, Kimble said.

"Every dollar over and above that necessary to guarantee the bonds should be taken back," declared the Allegany senator. "No one can accuse us of taking highway revenues because it should not have been given them originally."

Draws SRC Fire

The titling tax, he contended, is a sales tax similar to that on a suit of clothes and as such should be expended for general purposes.

The subject of putting the titling tax back in general funds came up yesterday at a Senate Finance Committee meeting. Russell H. McCain, roads commission chairman, said it would "mean that much less for road construction and also endanger the bond issues to which it is pledged."

Shortly after Kimble made his speech, the House Judiciary Committee held a hearing on a measure to amend the constitution to bar for all time just what Kimble proposed.

The house bill would rewrite the constitution to specify that no road

Reid Is Praised For Service On Fire Department

Parker Slated For Temporary Position

Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long last night accepted with reluctance the resignation of Assistant Fire Chief R. Paul Reid from the Cumberland Fire Department.

In a letter acknowledging the resignation request of the veteran fire fighter, Commissioner Long said:

"Your rapid rise from the ranks and your many years of loyal and unselfish devotion to duty in the Cumberland Fire Department is a splendid tribute to your efficient public service.

"I want to express my gratitude for your excellent work as an executive officer; for your diligent labor in the Inspection Department, and for your untiring efforts in the Civilian Defense program from the time of its inception up to and including the present.

"Your unswerving devotion to your many duties and your intelligent service won for you the admiration of your associates."

Assistant Chief Reid, in his resignation, asked that he be placed on the city's pension lists as of March 15. He terminated his duties with the department, which he entered July 1, 1920, on Tuesday.

Commissioner Long said Capt. Virgil Parker, of East Side Fire Company, will be named as acting assistant fire chief on March 15 and will serve in that capacity until April, when the Civil Service Commission will hold examinations for all police and fire posts.

He began work in the department January 18, 1925.

Capt. Parker, the oldest men in service on the department, become eligible for the post as the present Civil Service list does not contain a candidate certified as chief or assistant chief.

County Boards Discuss Boost For Teachers

State Action Is Awaited Here

Allegany County's Board of Commissioners and Board of Education held a three-hour joint session at the school board office but reached no decision concerning suggested teachers salary increases for the 1951-52 school year.

William H. Lemmert, president of the board of commissioners, said that one of the difficulties is the uncertainty as to what the State Legislature will do in the matter. Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, state superintendent of schools, some weeks ago suggested that each Maryland teacher receive a salary increase from the state of $500 per year. Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin has opposed any increase by the state.

There has been some indication from Annapolis that a compromise of $300 per teacher may be the result.

Have Two Proposals

Harold C. Wickard, chairman of the legislative committe of the Allegany County Teachers Association, yesterday offered two suggestions for pay raises, he said. Neither appeared to meet with favor from the county commissioners, he added. Other members of that committee who met with the two county boards were Joseph K. Haugen and Ralph R. Webster.

Although he would not divulge specific details, Wickard stated that one of the proposals was based on the assumption that the state would raise salaries $500 and the other on the assumption that the state increase would be less than $500.

Presently, Allegany county teachers receive a starting salary of $2,400 per year and a maximum of $3,900. The top figure, Wickard said, is reached after 17 years, with $100 increases each year. The state range is between $2,200 and $3,800.

Wickard said that he presented to the two boards figures which showed that teachers are paid less than many laboring people in this county. For instance, he stated that an apprentice in the B&O shops gets $208 per month while a starting teacher receives only $200 per month. In addition, after four years, the apprentice's salary goes to $3,800 whereas it takes the teacher 17 years to get to $3,900.

Comparative Figures

Employes in the City of Cumberland's Street Department are paid $1.15 per hour, Wickard asserted, which is more than many teachers receive. As another illustration, he noted that the Cumberland Transit Company bus drivers turned down a guaranteed annual salary of $3,700, which is more than the majority of teachers obtain in compensation.

Wickard stated that he spoke for approximately 575 teachers and principals in the county school system.

Lemmert indicated that the commissioners will have further meetings with the school board before reaching a decision.

The teachers' spokesman said the commissioners informed him that a decision would be reached by the March 13 meeting of that body.

Wickard added that his committee plans to go to Annapolis the day after the commissioners act, to confer with the county delegation about a local bill which would provide a county supplement to the pay increase granted by the state.

First Parcel For Housing Project Bought

2.86 Acres Acquired From F. A. Wempe

The Housing Authority of the City of Cumberland has purchased its first piece of real estate in the Mapleside area on which the first project of Cumberland's low rent housing program will be constructed, James B. Raines, executive director of the authority, announced yesterday.

This first parcel consists of 2.86 acres of land and was purchased from Frederick A. Wempe. The deed for this property will be recorded today in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of the Allegany County Circuit Court by Thomas B. Finan, the authority's attorney.

An additional six acres will be acquired in a short time, Raines added.

The first parcel will be the site for 125 homes. It is located in the general area bounded by First Street, Memorial Avenue, Somerville Avenue and Second Street.

Raines stated yesterday that the allocation of $1,297,440 for constructing this first project received the approval of President Truman's office on February 6. The first installment of $68,000 was received by the local authority February 19.

S. Russ Minter, local architect, has nearly completed the intermediate drawings for the project. The authority hopes that the construction can be let by spring.

Finan said last night that in the event the defense preparations should cause a curtailment in the construction of low rent housing, the local authority has received assurances that the project still will be approved as a defense housing project.

Woman Injured After Argument

Mrs. A. J. Hutton, Cumberland, Md., was admitted to Allegany Hospital yesterday afternoon for treatment following an incident in a driveway off North George Street.

Her physician said she was nervous and hysterical when she was examined and received bruises and abrasions about the body. X-rays will be taken today.

Also involved in the mishap was A. J. Hutton, Mrs. Hutton's estranged husband, who is general manager of the Cumberland Transit Lines.

Hutton told authorities he and Mrs. Hutton became involved in an argument near his parked automobile. She was from eight to ten feet from the car when he drove off, he said, and when he glanced in his rear view mirror as he approached George Street, noticed her in a semi-lying position in the driveway.

Hutton surmised that she started running after the car, and tripped and fell on the cobblestones.

Authorities questioned Hutton yesterday afternoon and then released him in custody of his attorney, Thomas B. Finan, pending completion of the investigation.

City police had no comment on the incident.

Separate maintenance proceedings were entered in Circuit Court here recently by Mrs. Hutton and Hutton's answer to the bill was filed yesterday a short time before the mishap.
